Grand jury probe focuses on 'half dozen' suspects

by BOB CASEY

A federal grand jury probe of corruption in Wheeling has focused on about half a dozen persons, including four present or former village officials and a local political figure.

The grand jury, under the direction of U. S. Atty. James Thompson's office, is expected to return indictments charging some or all of them with bribery, extortion and income tax violations in connection with shakedowns of developers and other firms doing business in the village.

The shakedown scheme is believed to date back to the late 1960's when Wheeling started to encourage rapid growth and development by annexing and rezoning large areas for apartment and town-house complexes.

The indictments will mark the completion of the first phase of the investigation, which began early this year.

Several persons have been given immunity from prosecution and are expected to testify against the officials and others alleged to be involved in the scheme.

THOMPSON'S SPECIAL Investigations Division (SID), under the direction of Assistant U. S. Atty. Samuel Skinner, is believed to be hopeful that indictments will encourage additional witnesses to come forward and provide information in the continuing probe.

Skinner said this week he expects "some resolution" of the case within 30 to 45 days. Thompson, in a speech to a civic group breakfast Saturday in Wheeling, declared in response to a question that he has "absolutely nothing" to say about the case.

The Wheeling investigation is being handled by a special federal grand jury that recently returned indictments against six former Hoffman Estates officials, a developer and the developer's attorney. They were charged with bribery, conspiracy and, except for the developer, tax violations in connection with a 1968 zoning case.

The Herald has learned that the grand jury, whose term was recently extended, is zeroing in on two Wheeling officials, two former officials and a man who has been active in village politics. Others who reportedly took part in the scheme may also be indicted.

INVESTIGATORS HAVE uncovered several bribery transactions in which large sums of cash were paid by developers or their representatives in return for zoning or other favors.

In one of them, disclosed last June by The Herald, a bagman delivered more than $10,000 in small bills to a local political figure. The politician then placed a telephone call to a member of the village board while the board was in session and the zoning was approved.

At least two of the persons involved in that transaction may be indicted. The bagman has sought immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony.

Hein urges flood plain law update

Trustee William Hein has become the second village board member to endorse the need for revisions in Wheeling's flood plain regulations.

Hein plans to present his proposal for a new flood plain ordinance early in December at a meeting of the sewer, water and public health committee. He said, however, this proposed ordinance differs substantially from revisions suggested last week by Trustee Don Jackson.

While Jackson has asked for a ban on all construction in the flood plain, Hein said he thinks such a ban would be too restrictive. "I don't see any reason why we have to stop building in the flood plain," he said.

ACCORDING TO Hein, the village can continue to allow flood plain construction as long as the "proper precautions" are taken. Such precautions would include increasing the amount of water retention required by the village when flood plain land is developed.

Hein said his proposed ordinance is "rather extensive," including revisions in approximately 27 areas.

"I've been working on this thing ever since I was on the sewer and water committee," he said. "I've got it into a rough draft now. I should have it finished by my next committee meeting, which would be the first week in December."

Any revision of a village ordinance would require a public hearing by the zoning board. Hein said, however, he first plans to present his proposed ordinance to the village board so that the trustees can voice their opinions on the matter.

According to Hein, the ordinance is designed to be workable without imposing any hardship on either developers or the village.

"I want it to come out and I want it to be practical on the village's part," he said. "I want it so that it is enforceable and something that can be worked with both on the village's and the developers' part."

A BAN ON ALL flood plain building would be a hardship, Hein said, noting that most of the land in the Wheeling area is prone to flooding. He said if such a ban were enacted the village would restrict its own growth.

"Number one, we would stop all annexations. If it was in the flood plain, why annex it," he said. "Number two, why go into Lake County because most of that area is in the flood plain. We're not going to change the characteristics of our land or where we're at."

Hein said that while his ordinance proposes major revisions, it does not discard the restrictions currently on the books. "You can't take the whole flood plain ordinance and say it is taboo," he said. "There are parts of it that are very good. There are parts of it that need perhaps a little strengthening."

Currently, the village allows building in the flood plain as long as developers provide storm water storage to compensate for any filling done to protect the buildings from flooding.

Exams set for first fire lieutenants

Promotional examinations for Wheeling's first three fire department lieutenants will be scheduled soon.

Village Mgr. George Passolt this week sent a memorandum to the fire and police commission, requesting the examinations be set up. Since this will be the first lieutenants exam given for the fire department, commission Chairman Vern Nystrom said the commission will have to investigate what exams are available.

Passolt also told the commission two firemen are to be hired as soon as the eligibility list is completed and three policemen are to be hired after Jan. 1. Nystrom said final firemen candidates, of whom there are 11, are to undergo physical examinations as soon as they can be scheduled.

The police department has turned over a list of completed patrolman applications to the commission.

The commission also approved a revised rules and regulations document for the police department. This staff manual now goes to the village board for final approval.

United Fund drive reaches $12,000 goal

by LYNN ASINOF

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund has reached its goal, collecting more than $12,000 in this year's fund raising campaign.

James Bauer, United Fund president, said his group went over the $12,000 mark Wednesday. He attributed the success of this year's campaign to a healthy residential campaign and the outstanding effort by the teachers and administrators in School Dist. 21.

Bauer praised the school district for its response to the campaign. "They contributed well over half," he said. "They raised $5,000 in pledges. Of course, not all of this has been received because some of it is pledges."

BY COMPARISON, the United Fund received only $275 from business and industry in the two villages. Bauer said he found this response disheartening. "Apparently, we have not been very effective in communicating to the people that work and really make their livings in the community the need they have to support the agencies in the community," he said.

Originally, this year's campaign was designed to concentrate on local business and industry. In recent years, area United Fund residential campaigns have declined because of the emphasis of donating at work. To compensate for this trend, organizers sent 600 letters to retail stores, gas stations, industrial firms and businessmen.

"Six hundred letters went out to industry-type of operations, and we have raised $275," Bauer said. "If everyone of those people we sent a letter to had contributed just $3, we would have had $3,000. We hardly paid off the postage costs."

Bauer said this year's goal was based on expectations of community response. "Our budget is based on what we realistically thought we could raise," he said.

BAUER SAID that although the United Fund reached its goal, there is still a need for more aid to these agencies.

Bauer also said he found the lack of response from the business community distressing. "We have the potential to really go up and over our goal," he said. "We had such an additional amount of potential that we have not realized. We feel bad that we apparently failed to communicate the need to the business community."

The residential campaign has brought the fund $2,233 to date, slightly more than the goal of $2,000. Bauer said that the campaign was successful because of recent growth of the two villages. He said the United Fund also has been able to collect money from residents in developments that weren't in existence last year.

According to Bauer, the people living in Cambridge-on-the-Lake in Buffalo Grove were particularly generous in this year's campaign.

SEVERAL SPECIAL projects have also brought substantial funds to this year's drive. A McDonald's Day, sponsored by the Wheeling drive-in on Dundee Road, raised $1,500 and an additional $750 through a rock concert at Wheeling High School.

In addition to money raised in the local drive, the United Fund is expecting to get over $14,000 from the metropolitan campaign, bringing the total amount to more than $26,000.

Money raised by the fund will be used to support nine local agencies. They are Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Northwest Suburban Homemakers Service, Clearbrook Center for the Retarded, Countryside Center for the Handicapped, Northwest Mental Health Center and the Salvation Army Family Counseling Center.

Last year, the fund fell only $30 short of its $10,000 goal. Bauer said this year's goal was increased $2,000 because of "the increasing need in the community."

The campaign will end the first week in December, although monies will continue to come in for some time. "We've made our goal and we're really happy about it," Bauer said, "but we look forward to meeting the total needs of the community."

That's the message of Chicago conference

Industry must act on low-cost housing

by KAREN BLECHA
Suburban industries must take steps to provide housing in the suburbs for workers who cannot afford to live there.

If they don't, industries will lose their employees, have to pay more for new ones and could be faced with job discrimination lawsuits.

This was the message delivered yesterday to about 73 business representatives and personnel directors at the Chicago Job-Linked Housing Conference at the Sheraton Blackstone Hotel. The conference was sponsored by the National Job-Linked Housing Center, the Regional Housing Coalition, and the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

AMONG THE industries represented at the conference were Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and Universal Oil Products of Des Plaines. Officials of those companies said they came to learn about the housing problem.

Government, labor and business speakers strongly urged the industry representatives to take steps to remedy what they said is a critical housing shortage in the suburbs. They pointed to low and moderate-income employees who are forced each day to spend hours commuting to their suburban jobs.

Business officials in the audience were told they could help increase the suburban housing supply by developing their own housing for employees, making land available to developers to provide low and moderate-income housing and investing in moderate-income housing developments such as Rand Grove Village in unincorporated Palatine Township.

The Rand Grove complex was built by the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., a not-for-profit organization that serves as the construction arm of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities.

Frederick Jaicks, chairman of Inland Steel Co. and president of the Leadership Council, urged businessmen to support the Regional Housing Coalition's voluntary low and moderate-income housing plan for the suburbs.

THE COALITION, formed two years ago by the Leadership Council and Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, recently urged suburbs in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area to share in meeting low-income housing needs on a voluntary basis. Some 230,000 Chicago area units are needed in the next decade, including 18,300 in Northwest Cook County, the group said.

The problem of finding blue-collar employees to work in the suburbs will grow, according to Leonard Rubinowitz of the Center for Urban Affairs at Northwestern University.

"Suburban industry has filled the jobs with women who live in the suburbs but that supply is running out," he said.

"Also, the energy crisis will increase the problem. The industry has relied on the commuting process but as the cost of gas goes up and its availability goes down employees won't be able to get the gas or afford to drive to work," Rubinowitz said.

HE SAID INDUSTRY also could face lawsuits based on the 1964 Civil Rights act. "That act has been interpreted that if a company moves to a place not reasonably accessible to black workers, it constitutes job discrimination," he said. He said that there is a lawsuit to that effect pending in Detroit.

Rubinowitz suggested that industries considering a move to the suburbs bargain with local officials to remove zoning barriers to low and moderate-income housing for their workers in exchange for the dollar the industry adds to the community's tax base.

According to a report presented at the conference by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, "It seems clear that the job shortage in the city and the job surplus in the suburbs are accentuating."

The report says that, "The quickest solution to the problem appears to lie in lower-cost housing in the suburbs within the range of the pocketbooks of city-dwelling blue-collar workers who can fill suburban jobs."

New toll ramp ready Sunday

A new ramp and toll plaza will go into operation Sunday on the Northbound Tri-State tollway exit to O'Hare Airport.

The Illinois State Toll Highway Authority said the new ramp will reduce congestion at the old plaza by 40 per cent. The new ramp is about 1/4 mile south of the old ramp entrance and northbound drivers are urged to familiarize themselves with the new location.

The authority will distribute a map and instruction sheet for the new ramp at the Cermak Road plaza on the Tri-State. Tollway users southbound on the Tri-State or eastbound on the Northwest Tollway will continue to use the existing ramp approaches to the airport. Reduction of congestion at the old plaza will benefit southbound and eastbound traffic, the authority says.

Belts tightening for energy crisis

From Herald News Services

Washington and the world reacted to the growing energy crisis by passing regulations, meeting in conferences and tightening belts everywhere.

In Washington, the Senate voted to let President Nixon decide whether gasoline rationing is needed and also approved emergency easing of clean air standards. Earlier, the Senate had debated ordering the President to impose gasoline rationing across the country, but that measure failed in favor of allowing Nixon himself to decide which fuels are scarce enough to warrant rationing. The original bill, proposed by Sen. Floyd Haskell (D-Colorado), would have made mandatory gasoline rationing effective Jan. 15.

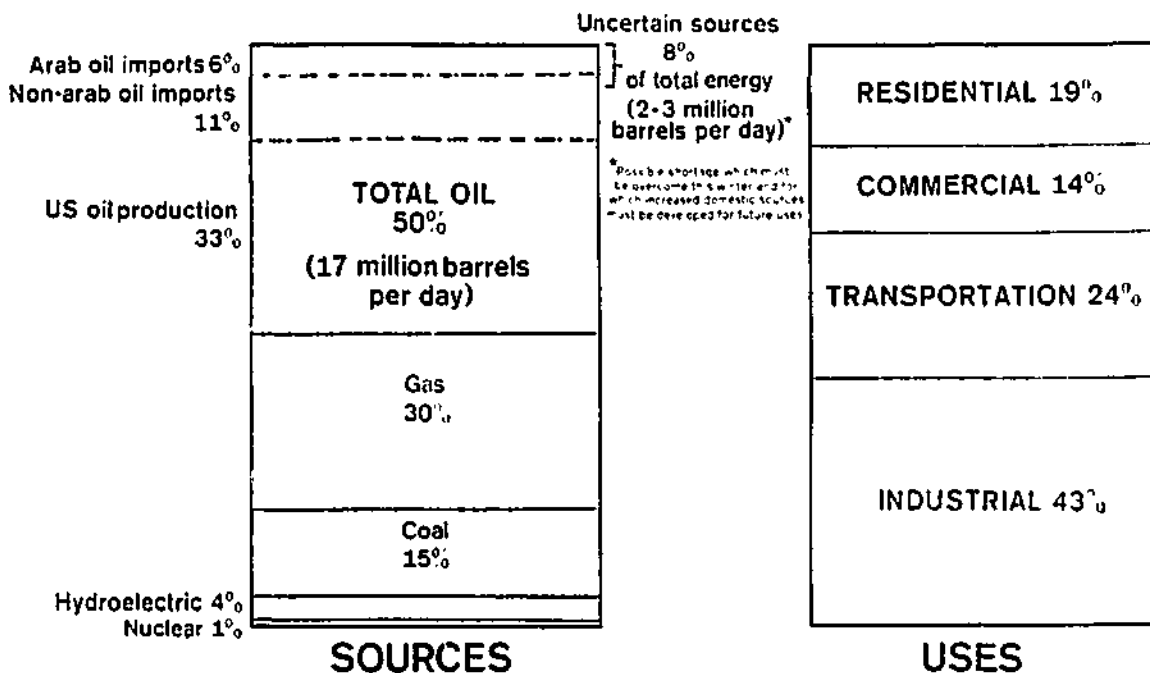

BUT THE SENATE did approve delays of clean air standards in light of the growing concern over the availability of fuel. The Senate approved an amendment offered by Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Maine) which allows the use of "dirty" fuels for the generation of energy.

The Senate then went on to approve a measure to assure that no region of the country has an abundance of fuel while another region suffers, and to make it a criminal rather than civil offense to blackmarket in fuel products.

Global implications of the fuel shortage caused top economic experts from 24 non-Communist nations to meet in Paris yesterday to determine how oil shortages and skyrocketing energy prices would affect their own countries.

EUROPE SEEMED particularly hard hit by the recent Mideast war and the worldwide implications of energy cutbacks by all nations. Europe, unlike the United States, Canada and the Soviet Union, is almost completely dependent on Mideast oil.

Outline of U.S. energy sources, uses

In Tokyo, similar conversations about the oil crisis were underway between Japanese leaders and U.S. Sec. of State Henry Kissinger. Kissinger reportedly told Japanese industrial and government leaders that the present embargo on oil imposed by the Arabs will not be lifted soon. Japan relies on Mideast oil for its own economy and curtailment of Japanese economic growth would no doubt have an adverse effect on this country's economy, officials reported.

IN RELATED DEVELOPMENTS:

• Sec. of the Treasury George Schultz said a sharp increase in the price of gasoline may be preferable to gas rationing since price increases could cut consumption.

• The Arab oil embargo has denied the U.S. military nearly half of its petroleum supplies and forced the Pentagon to involve a little-used act giving the military priority for fuel over civilian uses.

• And President Nixon has ordered that his own Air Force One jetliner will fly at lesser speeds, thus cutting down by 9 per cent its use of fuel.

Campaign gift linked to pressure

by United Press International

American Airlines contributed $55,000 illegally to President Nixon's 1972 campaign not to buy favors but for fear of what might happen if it didn't, the airline's former board chairman testified Thursday.

George A. Spater the first corporate executive to come forward last summer and admit making illegal campaign contributions, told the Senate Watergate Committee he felt doubly pressured when Herbert W. Kalmbach asked him in October, 1971, to chip in $100,000 to Nixon's re-election effort.

"Since he was the President's personal counsel and also counsel to America's largest competitor, United Air Lines, I decided an affirmative response was necessary," Spater said.

He said the company arranged to get $100,000 in cash through the Swiss bank account of a Lebanese agent and that $55,000 of it was delivered — plus $20,000 from "personal sources" — to Nixon campaign offices in Washington in four installments over the next six months.

The committee, now in the final phase of its public hearings, has heard testimony this week from a half-dozen corporate officials detailing pressures put on them to contribute to the Nixon campaign.

Meanwhile, the President — in a 30-minute speech before 4,000 members of the National Association of Realtors — blamed Watergate on the mistakes of "overzealous people" in the 1972 election campaign. The speech was the first of four scheduled appearances within the next few days that will carry Nixon to Florida, Georgia and Tennessee.

In other developments Thursday:

- The House voted to spend an additional $1 million on a Judiciary Committee investigation into whether grounds exist for the impeachment of the President.

- A federal judge in Washington refused to dismiss criminal charges against Emil "Bud" Krogh Jr., who headed the clandestine White House "plumbers" unit, thus clearing the way for Krogh to be tried on two counts of making false declarations in connection with a Watergate grand jury's investigation.

- The President was quoted last night as having told some GOP Senators that Elliot Richardson initially agreed to the firing of Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, but got "cold feet" and instead decided to resign as attorney general.

Washington round-up

- Hike in postage rates asked

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen said postage rates must be increased 27 per cent in January to prevent a serious deterioration in service.

If Klassen's appeal to the Cost of Living Council is granted, the 8-cent stamp would increase to 10 cents and other classes of postage would rise from 13 to 150 per cent. Klassen said the CLC had a simple choice in reaching a decision. He said, "either the taxpayer pays, the man who uses the mail pays or a decline in service will result."

He asked for the increases effective Jan. 5.

- House OKs Social Security hikes

The House approved by an overwhelming 391-20 vote, a two-step, 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits starting next April for 29 million retired or disabled workers, widows, and dependent children.

The Senate Finance Committee has approved an almost identical 11 per cent increase. The benefit increase, to cost an additional $1.7 billion during fiscal 1975, would be financed by increasing to $13,200 the wage base on which Social Security taxes are calculated.

With the tax remaining at 5.85 per cent, the entire burden of paying for the additional benefits would fall on the upper income taxpayer, those making more than $10,800. The maximum Social Security tax, therefore, would be $772.20 in 1974, compared to $631.80 in 1973.

- Lifting of cyclamate ban urged

Abbott Laboratories asked the government to lift its ban on cyclamates, the artificial sweetener ordered off the market three years ago as a possible cause of cancer.

Abbott, which was the largest producer of cyclamate before the ban, filed a petition with the Food and Drug Administration FDA saying that more than a dozen new studies have cleared the sweetener of any connection with cancer, fertility, reproduction or birth defects.

The FDA said it would review the new data before deciding whether to allow the sugar substitute back into such elements of the food supply as diet soft drinks and other low calorie products.

Ford to eye Nixon credibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford told a House committee there is evidence President Nixon has a credibility problem and, if confirmed, Ford will work to solve it.

The Senate Rules Committee meanwhile introduced possible perjury action against lobbyist Robert Winter-Berger who disparaged Ford's ethics. The Senate committee also decided to vote next Tuesday on Ford's nomination as vice president.

"There is great national concern about his (Nixon's) credibility," Ford told the House Judiciary Committee. "I don't agree with it, but I read it in the polls and in the mail I get. I don't agree that it is justified, but there is certain significant evidence that it is."

Egyptian, Israeli POW's head home in Mideast accords

by United Press International

Red Cross mercy planes shuttled between Cairo and Tel Aviv Thursday, flying Egyptian and Israeli prisoners of war home in the first major breakthrough in putting the Middle East cease-fire into effect. U.N. forces took control of Israeli checkpoints on the road from Cairo and relief trucks reached Suez City, blocked by Israeli troops for three weeks.

But even as the Egyptian-Israeli POW swap began, Israel and Syria reported exchanges of tank and artillery fire along the cease-fire line in the northern Golan Heights. No casualties were reported.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was at Lod airport when the first batch of Israeli POWs arrived from Cairo.

"Now we are seeing the first expression of settling things," Dayan said,

"not only in the return of prisoners but also in food to the encircled Egyptian 3rd Army and the status of the U.N. force."

Political observers said the implementation of key provisions in the cease-fire accord signed last Sunday by Egyptian and Israeli army officers was expected to clear the way for full-scale Middle East peace negotiations — probably in Geneva early in December. But they cautioned that differences between the Arab and Israeli viewpoints on a settlement were so wide real peace might be a matter of years instead of months.

The first phase of the POW exchange involved 26 Israelis, including nine who were captured during the 1970 war of attrition along the Suez Canal, and 412 Egyptian soldiers, many of them wounded. An Israeli medical spokesman said the repatriated Israelis were given "fair treatment" and were "in fair condition."

People

It's ladies' day in the news:

- An arrest warrant was issued in Chicago for Wendy Berlowitz, 25, when she failed to appear in women's court on charges she took off her halter in public Oct. 25 before a noontime crowd of 2,500. Ms. Berlowitz is on a cross-country campaign against the nation's nudity laws.

- Actress Elizabeth Taylor is at Scripps Clinic, San Diego, for a "routine annual physical checkup."

- Performer Linda Lovelace was excused from testifying in a Tucson federal court trial about her sex film "Deep Throat" because her hair was wet. Miss Lovelace, the final government witness, was called earlier than scheduled and the woman prosecutor traced her to a hotel room where she was washing her hair. She decided to skip Miss Lovelace's testimony rather than delay the trial waiting for her hair to dry.

- The widow of former radio talk show host Marv Gray filed a $10 million wrongful death suit against the city of Los Angeles because her husband died of a heart attack after police mistakenly arrested him for drunken driving.

- Lena McDonald, 61, lost her 20-year court battle to keep an estimated 40 dogs at her Des Moines trailer home when the Iowa Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of a city ordinance. "With all this about Watergate and all the crooked stuff that's going on, I don't know why they worry about my dogs," she said.

Meanwhile, among male newsmakers:

- Residents of Bridgeport, Conn., have taken actor Paul Newman to task for his comment that their city is "a terribly depressing little town — the mayor calls it the armpit of New England."

- Willie Mays, who retired this year after 33 seasons of major league baseball, donated his last pair of spikes to a Brooklyn block association which plans to raffie them off to build a vest-pocket park.

- Ailing: Sen. and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy's son, Edward Jr., 12, is hospitalized at Georgetown University medical center in Washington with an undisclosed illness.

Session may end tomorrow night

Major issues undecided in Assembly

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The full term of the Illinois General Assembly, now apparently committed to a final adjournment Saturday, still has not taken action on any of the major issues before it.

Tax relief, regional transit, lottery and ethics all still hung in the balance as the House and Senate lurched through another hectic day Wednesday. Most of the issues remained caught in the deadlock between Gov. Daniel Walker and House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest.

Senate Pres. William Harris, R-Pontiac, enraged by a Senate roll call on transit legislation, set the apparent Saturday time limit Wednesday afternoon. Harris vowed to adjourn the fall term — at least in the upper chamber — "this week."

THE SENATE does, indeed, adjourn tomorrow. It would mean that no House bill passed in the lower chamber later than today could achieve passage by both houses. However, Harris did not categorically rule out the possibility the upper chamber would stay in session past midnight Saturday — which would effectively provide an extra day for consideration of legislation originating in the House.

The most confused issued after Wednesday's action remained regional transit. The Senate rejected outright a Republican-backed proposal which would have established a Chicago-area regional transit authority RTA and funded it via a half-cent sales tax in the six-county area to be served by the authority.

Unless GOP senators successfully resurrect that bill, the legislature apparently will be left only with Walker's RTA plan, which was advanced to the passage stage in the House Wednesday. That measure calls for funding an RTA primarily through state road and general revenue funds.

THE TAX-RELIEF issue was only a little more clear cut. Blair's plan, which calls for a state-wide half-cent reduction in the sales tax, has passed the Senate and is awaiting action in the House. Walker's scheme, which would provide for a $10 annual "tax relief" check to each Illinois resident, remained bottled up in a hostile Senate committee.

The only other visible option open on tax relief, a "compromise" plan suggested by Walker Wednesday morning, remained in the House and likely could not see passage before Sunday. That plan, which Blair rejected as inadequate, calls for an increase in the state income tax exemption and removal of medicine from the state sales tax.

Walker said the plan introduced by anti-Blair Republicans, would not each Illinois resident at least $8 annually in tax reduction.

Chances looked better for enactment of a state lottery, however, as both the House and Senate had lottery bills ready today for final passage. Should either of those measures pass its original house, it would still have enough time for passage by the other chamber by Saturday.

Neither of the lottery bills was regarded as primarily political, a status which, in the current atmosphere, could contribute to their chances for passage.

A NUMBER OF House ethics bills, too, were in shape for first-house passage. One, a Blair bill, would require public reporting of campaign contributions and spending. Another would establish a legislative commission to study the entire question of ethics.

The Senate, however, cast a shadow over chances for ultimate passage of ethics legislation when it voted Wednesday to kill a Democratic-sponsored bill which would have set up a state board of ethics to oversee campaign disclosures.

That bill got only 14 of the 30 votes needed for passage, indicating the Senate again will be a tough hurdle for any proposed change in the state ethics law.

The House this spring passed a Blair-backed bill similar to the one currently under consideration, only to see it die in the Senate.

Regner confirms treasurer hopes

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, yesterday confirmed that he is a potential candidate for state treasurer in 1974, as reported in The Herald.

Regner said he is "looking at" the possibility of running for the post now held by Democrat Alan J. Dixon.

Regner said, however, that he would make no decision on whether to seek the Republican nomination until the General Assembly adjourns. Regner has been spending full time on the Senate floor assisting the Republican leadership in negotiations on legislation for a Regional Transit Authority.

The former chairman of the House Appropriations Committee said he has received a number of inquiries from Illinois Republicans concerning the possibility of his running for treasurer, a post in which he has expressed interest for a number of years.

Regner conceded that a race against Dixon would be "a difficult campaign" because of Dixon's name recognition and the possible anti-Republican Watergate backlash. Regner could, however, retain his seat in the Senate if he ran unsuccessfully for treasurer.

The only Republican who has announced his candidacy for Dixon's post is Harry Page of Springfield, a high school administrator and brother of Ray Page, former state superintendent of public instruction. Deadline for candidates to enter the April primary election is Dec. 17.

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile. An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 26.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Horman, a New York film-maker."

McCall said several U. S. State Department officials underwent "battering" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session. "There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES for the new Buffalo Grove High School are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday. The ceremonies will include speeches and a performance by the Buffalo Grove High School band. The school is located at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

Paramedic benefit canceled

The Wheeling Jaycees have canceled their benefit dance to raise money for paramedic equipment because of contract difficulties.

The dance was scheduled for Nov. 23 at the Chevy Chase Country Club, and was to feature Fabian and the New Colony Six. The Jaycees learned this week that because of contract problems Fabian would not be available, and, therefore, canceled the benefit.

Persons who wish refunds on their tickets can call 537-8722. If refunds are not requested, any donations that have been made will be put towards the purchase of Wheeling's paramedic equipment.

About $3,200 is needed to purchase a defibrillator (emergency cardiac machine) and communications equipment for the fire department's paramedic operation. Fire Chief Bernie Koepfen said he expects the paramedic program to be in operation early next year if the funds are raised.

The Jaycees are planning to notify ticket-holders by placing canceled stickers on their publicity posters. People will be at Chevy Chase on Nov. 23 to inform ticket-holders who are unaware of the cancellation.

Another benefit affair may be scheduled by the Jaycees at a later date to raise money for the paramedic program.

Semi-trailer burns in church lot

A semi-trailer, filled with paper collected for recycling, burned Wednesday night in the parking lot of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 1111 N. Elmhurst Rd., Prospect Heights.

The fire was the second to hit area recycling centers this week. Wheeling firemen, who put out Wednesday's fire, said it was unknown if the fire was set. Some $700 worth of damage was caused to the semi-trailer.

Tuesday night, a fire was set in the Mount Prospect recycling center at the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads. Firemen believe vandals started the fire.

Vocational ed program slated

The Dist. 23 school board has agreed to participate in a proposed vocational education program to be administered through High School Dist. 214.

Dist. 214 is planning to apply for federal funding for the project that will include vocational education instruction on the elementary, high school and junior college levels.

Along with Dist. 23, other area elementary districts planning to participate in the program are Dist. 21, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove and Dist. 57, Mount Prospect. Harper College also will be involved.

Described as a "Comprehensive Illinois Occupational Education Demonstration Center," the new program is an outgrowth of the present Elementary Vocational Education (EVE) project. Several local elementary districts including 23, 21, 25 and 57 participate in the EVE project sponsored by the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC).

NEC will also be involved in writing the proposal for the grant to finance the planned occupational education demonstration center.

Consider policy revisions

The school board will conduct a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday to discuss revisions of the policy manual.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at the Dist. 23 administration building, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights.

The board is in the process of updating the policy manual which outlines procedures to be followed by the school board in its operations.

About half of the manual has been reviewed, and Dist. 23 Supt. Ed. Grodzky said revisions should be completed by January.

Set parley with planners

Representatives of the school board plan to attend a Nov. 29 meeting of the Wheeling Plan Commission to ask that two areas of that village be designated for public use.

The Wheeling commission is revising the official village map to designate roadways and public use lands for future planning.

The Dist. 23 board intends to ask that 10 acres south of John Muir School and 10 acres adjacent to Wheeling High School be designated for public use.

The designations would mean that Dist. 23 would have a one-year option to buy the lands from the time plans are approved for some other type of development.

Girl's condition still 'critical' from gas fumes

Holly Hansen, 19, remained in critical condition last night at Northwest Community Hospital, after she and members of her family apparently inhaled toxic fumes believed to be monoxide poisoning.

Other family members hospitalized include parents Richard and Lois, in fair condition; Laurie, 14, in serious condition; Richard Jr., 12, in serious but improved condition, and Wendy, 18, in good condition.

All members of the Hansen family were found unconscious Wednesday afternoon in their home at 510 S. Cleveland Ave. Arlington Heights police said that Wendy regained consciousness for a short time to telephone police.

The police department is conducting an investigation to determine the origin of the fumes.

Air samples taken shortly after the family was discovered, showed traces of monoxide poisoning, but not enough to cause sickness, authorities said.

Police said a gas company check revealed that all gas connections were proper and functioning.

The family cat was found dead, and according to Jeri Verden, a toxicologist at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, where the animal was tested, showed it died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police also checked for possible gas leakage in the sewer system and a furnace that had repairs last week.

Burglary nets $250.73

A burglary netted $250.73 sometime Wednesday at 312 E. Center Ave., Wheeling. Homeowner Howard E. Franklin told police the money had belonged to a church. The burglars apparently broke the rear door window to gain entry.

Schwinn Sales Midwest Inc., a firm that distributes Schwinn bicycles.

"We're for any type of bicycle safety program," said Al Singer, president of Schwinn Sales Midwest which has an office in Elk Grove Village. Singer said he wasn't sure right now what financial backing Schwinn would be able to give. He added that Schwinn has helped bicycle safety organizations in the past by providing bicycles.

Also in favor of the bicycle safety facility is Richard Hall, Elk Grove Township supervisor. Hall and other township board members promised backing from the township after listening to a presentation on the facility, Tuesday night.

Before making any definite financial commitment, the board asked park district officials to find out what other support they will have, such as from the schools. Board members also asked for more specific information on the operation of such a facility.

A life saver Bike safety training facility sought

by BOB GALLAS
First of Two Parts

Elk Grove Park District officials have unveiled plans for a multi-acre bicycle safety and training course. The facility would be a first in the Northwest suburbs and only the third of its kind in the state.

Jack Claes, superintendent of parks and recreation, said he hopes to get co-operation from as many agencies as possible so the program can include children and adults from surrounding communities.

The course would be laid out on a yet-to-be-determined five-acre site. It would be modeled after a course in Peoria, but would be changed somewhat to fit the traffic patterns of the suburbs. Boulevards, underpasses, turn lanes, cul-de-sacs, train crossings, along with every type of traffic light and sign would be included in the course, according to Claes.

CLAES AND Richard Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, have already visited the Peoria bicycle safety course to study its construction and operation. According to Claes, no cost figures for the local facility have been obtained, but he expects it to be in line with the Peoria facility: about $125,000 to build and $45,000 per year to operate and maintain.

"There are a lot of ways we can cut that construction cost figure, even though the facility was built seven years ago when labor and materials were cheaper," said Claes.

Peoria officials told Claes several parts of their facility were perhaps "overbuilt." "A bridge on the course cost more than $30,000 and will support a 20-ton truck, even though the heaviest traffic over it is a child on a bicycle," said Claes.

The course would give children a safe place to practice good bike-riding techniques, according to Claes. "It would also provide a place to instruct children on how to ride a bike in every street situation, without the hazard of traffic," he added.

THE COOPERATION of the schools is necessary, not only to keep the facility in operation during the day, but to educate the child in advance on bicycle safety rules and procedures, Claes said.

"Children should be trained in bicycle safety from kindergarten right on through junior high. You won't make a child a good and safe bicycle rider by bringing him in for one session. Bicycle safety has to be a part of the school's educational program," said Claes.

Local support for the bicycle safety facility has already started to grow. Presentations have been made to the Elk Grove Park Board and officials of

Civil libertarian Gertz proud of 43-year career

by KAREN BLECHA

The caverns of the Loop house hundreds of law offices, thousands of lawyers. Some measure their career by the big buck. Others, like Elmer Gertz, prefer to lean back and dwell on what they've done.

Gertz, 67, is renowned as a civil libertarian, an advocate of unpopular causes. His beliefs about the law and about individual rights have shaped his 43 years as a lawyer. It's a career that Gertz is proud of, as he's proud of the photos and memorabilia that cover the walls of his LaSalle Street office.

"I met Harry Truman after chairing a dinner in his honor. We became great friends. He wrote me about 100 letters," said Gertz, explaining the posed shot of himself and Truman. "This picture of Einstein (with an autographed message to Gertz) was taken four months before he died."

THERE ARE personal letters from George Bernard Shaw, an autographed photo of John F. Kennedy, thank-you notes from Chicago mayors. And a collection of letters written by Clarence

'Elmer Gertz fears no dragons'... Carl Sandburg.

'There is perhaps no citizen in our state who has a better sensitivity to fundamental problems of civil liberties than does Elmer Gertz'... former Lt. Gov. Paul Simon.

Elmer Gertz is 'a damn fine, damn intelligent and generally broad-minded man'... convicted murderer Nathan Leopold.

Darrow to Nathan Leopold, a 19-year-old Darrow was defending in a famous murder case. And the paintings done by "Tropic of Cancer" author Henry Miller. The Darrow letters, Gertz explained, were given him by Leopold when Gertz handled the parole petition that finally got Leopold out of prison. The paintings were done by Miller when Gertz successfully defended his book against obscenity charges throughout Illinois.

"I hope I'm not being too immodest," the lawyer said, sitting at his corner desk and smiling a smile that showed he didn't mean a word of what he just said.

Gertz believes, according to a long-time friend, that he would be ungrateful for the recognition given him by famous people if he did not display it. Call it vanity if you like. But it's a vanity that comes from accomplishment and confidence in your ability.

GERTZ IS NO bigshot attorney who likes to pose before the TV cameras and shout about how good he is. If he brags a bit in the confines of his office, he deserves it. He's handled the routine — di-

ELMER GERTZ, 67, is in the twilight of a legal career that has gained him renown as a defender of personal liberties. He has campaigned against the death penalty and chaired the committee that wrote the Bill of Rights in the New Illinois Constitution.

voice, real estate and business cases, sometimes for pretty steep fees. But for 43 years he has also been a defender of the oppressed, a champion of unpopular causes, a protector of what are supposed to be man's "inalienable" rights. If a case moves him enough, he'll take it for a minimal fee or no fee at all.

He believes that everyone is entitled to a fair trial and a good defense and has stuck to the decision he made when he decided to become a student of the law at the University of Chicago.

"I wanted to make certain that fundamental rights would be preserved for all and that I would have a share in that great task," he said.

He has had his share. He has defended the civil rights of some people many would find repulsive: convicted murderers, televised killers, writers of allegedly "filthy porno" books.

ONE OF HIS most significant cases was his parole plea for Nathan Leopold, whose crime caused a stir throughout the world.

In May 1924, two university students, Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, kidnapped and killed 14-year-old Bobby Franks because they wanted to commit the "perfect crime." They beat Franks to death with a chisel, hid his body in a ditch and tried to collect a ransom from the boy's father. The fact that Leopold and Loeb both came from wealthy German-Jewish families outraged the public even more and added to the horrors of their "thrill" crime.

It was 1938 when Gertz pleaded for Leopold's parole from Stateville Prison in Joliet. Loeb had died in jail but Leopold had already served 34 years. Under the law he had been eligible for parole for several years, but was denied his petitions.

In a systematic, low-key presentation, for Gertz is no flamboyant F. Lee Bailey, he made his case before the Illinois Parole Board. When Leopold walked out of prison a month later, Gertz walked with him. Like in most of his cases, Gertz' client had become his friend.

ANOTHER LANDMARK case of Gertz' career involved another killer, this time one who committed the crime before a television audience of eight million. It was only after a jury had convicted Jack Ruby of the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, despite testimony to his abnormal mental state, that Gertz became concerned.

"I felt there was a miscarriage of justice," he explains it today, simply. But it was more than that in 1964 when Gertz was drawn to the tragedy of a man who didn't know why he did what he did or even remembered that he did it. The Chicago lawyer helped get the verdict overturned and a retrial for Ruby, but the defendant died before getting back into the courtroom.

Of all the cases he's handled, Gertz seems to regard those involving freedom of expression as the most important. Perhaps it's because he has always wanted to be a writer and has written several novels himself, most of them about his legal battles.

"As undesirable as it may be it's better to have garbage around than to gamble on suppression," he said.

CURRENTLY HE is involved in the defense of movies "I Am Curious Yellow" and Russ Meyer's "Vixen" before the U.S. Supreme Court. He severely criticizes the court for its recent obscenity ruling, which he contends was made under the influence of President Nixon.

"I don't know how four supposedly intelligent men could reach such a decision in light of what it does to the publishing and motion picture industry," he said. "The average producer and publishers will be afraid to take chances." The ruling gives local communities the right to decide what is obscene.

ANOTHER OF HIS crusades has been the abolition of the death penalty. "Even if a person cannot be rehabilitated it is far worse for the state to take a human life than for an individual to," he said. "If we are ever going to stop having wars, we will have to develop a respect for human life."

Unpopular causes can rub off on lawyers. The John Birch Society, a right-wing group, accused Gertz of participating in "Red" activities because he represented the family of a Chicago boy slain by a policeman. Gertz sued for libel and the case was argued this week before U.S. Supreme Court.

Gertz hasn't done much trial work for several years, leaving that to the younger associates in the office. Instead, he concentrates on appeals, many of them before the U.S. Supreme Court. He has dabbled a little in politics, getting elected to the Illinois Constitutional Convention in 1969 and chairing its Bill of Rights Committee. It's the section drawn up by Gertz's committee that Sen. Charles Percy hailed as the "most outstanding part of the new constitution."

GERTZ SPURNS much of the pretention of his fellow lawyers, choosing to live in a small two-story house on the north side of Chicago instead of moving to the affluent suburbs or the exclusive Gold Coast and Lake Shore Drive. He doesn't wear Brooks Brothers suits or designer shirts; his friends say that if his wife wasn't around to help his ties wouldn't ever match his shirts.

Just two years ago, at the age of 65, he embarked on a new career: teaching. He teaches criminal law and evidence at John Marshall Law School in Chicago, drawing on his own experiences to add flavor to his class. He is also working on his autobiography, "To Life," which is scheduled by McGraw-Hill to come out next spring.

"Elmer has far exceeded the accomplishments of Clarence Darrow, his idol," said a close friend, and fellow lawyer. "He hasn't received the acclaim he deserves."

REFLECTING ON a 43-year legal career, Elmer Gertz tells what it's like to be a champion of unpopular causes. He handled cases against Jack Ruby, Nathan Leopold and Henry Miller's book "Tropic of Cancer."

Midwest gets energy briefing

by STEVE FORSYTH

Representatives of business and local government from six Midwest states had a flood of questions and a few misgivings about new federal policies yesterday at a special Chicago briefing on the energy crisis.

The 1,000-member audience heard Peter Flanagan, director of the President's Council on International Economic Policy, explain how cutbacks can avert a major crisis in the nation at a briefing sponsored by the Federal Regional Council.

Speaking at the Marriott Hotel, Flanagan said voluntary cooperation by the American public can save millions of barrels of fuel each day. Major savings in fuel can be realized by restricting highway speeds, economizing airline schedules, turning down home and office thermostats, reconverting large oil-burners to coal and increasing domestic production of oil, Flanagan said.

Many of the members of the audience disagreed with the belief that a crisis can be averted by these measures. Several spokesmen said they have already been hurt by the fuel allocation program now operating in the nation. Although Flanagan said most users are being cut about 15 per cent on fuel oil supplies under the allocation system, some audience spokesmen said they have been cut much more than that.

FLANAGAN'S APPEARANCE in Chicago was one of several scheduled talks around the country to explain the energy crisis and the steps being taken to minimize its effects.

He linked the crisis directly to the Arab cutback of oil exports to the United States, even though only 6 per cent of the nation's supply comes from those countries. When asked how soon the short-term crisis would be over, Flanagan said, "How long will it take Kissinger to get a lasting peace in the Middle East?"

Flanagan said the short-term energy crisis will have a long-term followup, but steps are being taken by the government to ease the problem in coming years. Right now, he said, Congress is rapidly passing legislation to allow regulatory agencies to make important changes, such as cutting back on airline schedules, increasing petroleum production in the country and returning to coal as a power source for major utilities that can switch back from oil to coal.

With the airline changes, slower speed limits, increased use of mass transit, increased national production and other changes, Flanagan said the nation can save 2.35 million barrels of fuel a day.

According to federal figures, improved efficiency in airline service would save 170,000 barrels, lower thermostat settings in homes and offices would save 640,000 barrels, conversion from oil to coal when possible would save 430,000 barrels, and reduced highway speeds and use would save 600,000 barrels.

The remainder of the savings would be made up by increasing non-governmental oil well production by 350,000 barrels and increasing oil production from Elk Hills naval reserve by 160,000 barrels.

If the emergency steps do not work, then gasoline rationing will follow, Flanagan said, even though the government is reluctant to do that. He said rationing will involve an immense administration and could promote a black market. It would take about two months to set up the rationing program, he said, but preliminary steps have already been taken.

AS FOR CUTTING back industrial working hours, Flanagan said that is a last resort because it would deeply affect the economy of the nation and would result in increased unemployment.

Exactly how rationing would affect the average motorist is not known, but in response to a question, Flanagan said suburban residents would certainly have to be given some consideration because the system wouldn't be effective if it kept people from getting to their jobs.

The ecology movement may end up stepping aside temporarily in the name of energy, Flanagan said. Authority is being sought to supersede state and local laws for individual cases, particularly where state pollution requirements are more stringent than federal standards.

Law for today...

Q. A friend and I are having a debate about Illinois' "implied consent" law. He says that if a driver who has been arrested for driving while intoxicated refuses to take the breath test, his driver's license will be suspended automatically for three months. I say that the driver is entitled to a court hearing before his license can be suspended. Whose right?

A. You both are. The "implied consent" law provides that refusal to take the breath test by a driver who has been arrested on a DWI charge, may result in automatic suspension of his driver's license. The driver will receive notice of this suspension, which will be for three months if it is his first offense. He then has 28 days to request a hearing, to be held in the Circuit Court of the County in which the arrest took place. If he does not request a hearing, the license suspension becomes automatic. Whether he requests a hearing on the suspension or not, he may be tried for drunken driving based on the testimony of the arresting officer. This is a separate court hearing. The driver has the right to telephone his lawyer before he decides whether to take the breath test.

State, U.S. payment moratorium

MSD proposed '74 budget shows $84.7 million trim

A moratorium on payment of state and federal funds has resulted in an $84.7 million cut in the 1974 proposed budget for the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Valentine Janicki, chairman of the finance committee of the district, reported the cut yesterday when the $216.5 million budget went on public display. The budget will be on display at the MSD offices, 100 E. Erie, Chicago, until the public hearing on the budget Dec. 4.

Janicki said the estimated tax rate of 34.1 cents per $100 assessed valuation will be a slight decrease from the rate of 35.5 cent for 1973.

Board Pres. John Egan said the lack of state and federal cooperative funding will delay the district's 10-year water pollution and flood control program by one or two years. If funds do come in during 1974, Egan said the budget can be amended by the MSD board of trustees.

Correction

Oakton Community College in Morton Grove will not profit from the General Assembly's override of Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of junior college funding as much as was stated in a story in yesterday's Herald.

Oakton officials said the college will receive about $65,000 in additional money because of the veto override, which increases the amount of money junior colleges received per student, not $130,000 as reported.

Oakton officials had originally miscalculated the amount, due to a clerical error.

Alleged swindle involved silver commodities

SEC charges Des Plaines firm, chief with fraud

by STEVE BROWN

The federal Securities and Exchange Commission has charged the President of a Des Plaines firm with fraud in connection with large scale securities swindle involving the trading of silver commodities.

The SEC complaints name the North American Trading Company (NATCO) and its President Luigi "Lou" DiFonzo, 25, and claims he fraudulently sold unregistered securities. The company also operates under the names of North American Investment Company and North American Holding Company. It has offices at 2451 Dempster St., Des Plaines.

The federal agency is seeking a permanent injunction against the company and DiFonzo to prevent continued operation.

WILLIAM HEGAN of the SEC told The Herald that he had received numerous complaints against the firm. The company has been in operation since July.

While exact figures are not available, hundreds of investors who were required to give NATCO between $2,000 and $3,000, were bilked by DiFonzo's scheme, according to government investigators.

NATCO dealt primarily in investing in silver contracts. The commodity is unregulated and commodity brokers state silver can be risky to trade. The firm also traded other unregulated commodities, including coffee, sugar and platinum.

THE SEC COMPLAINT states that NATCO offers investors an opportunity to participate in a profit-sharing program. The agreement constitutes an "investment contract" which is commonly referred to as a security.

The commission also stated because the company and DiFonzo made a number of allegedly false and misleading claims, NATCO was engaged in fraudulent business activities.

DiFonzo and other NATCO officials refused to comment on the SEC allegations.

HEGAN SAID DiFonzo refused to give SEC investigators any information about the company.

The firm held three-weekly sales "seminars" in which investors were told that it was not unusual to expect a 30 to 50 percent profit in six months.

The SEC also stated DiFonzo claimed he held or owned seats on the Mid-America Commodity Exchange and the Winnipeg Exchange. Hegan said DiFonzo held no seats on any commodity exchange and that there is no "Winnipeg Exchange."

The complaint also accused DiFonzo of fraudulently obtaining money by lying to customers and misrepresenting facts regarding the company's background.

SEC ATTORNEY William G. Kelly, in an affidavit filed with the complaint, states while DiFonzo claims to be a multi-millionaire with a master's degree in psychology and marketing from New York University, he in fact never received a college degree and dropped out of an accounting school in Connecticut.

Kelly also states DiFonzo's ex-wife never received court-ordered alimony or child support payments and that DiFonzo never paid his 1970 income tax.

The Herald learned recently that several other federal agencies, including the U.S. Postal Service, were investigating NATCO.

Kelly's affidavit also disputes DiFonzo's claims of past business successes. During the NATCO sales "seminars" and several television interviews, DiFonzo said he had spectacular business success in the fields of insurance, real estate and commodities.

THE SEC AFFIDAVIT states DiFonzo had no prior commodity experience prior to founding NATCO and that he held low-paying jobs as an insurance and real estate salesman and a bill collector.

Kelly also described NATCO sales "seminars" as "high pressure tactics similar to those generally employed in out-of-state land sales."

Speech team second

KNOTHEADS OF ILLINOIS

Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18, 1973, the Knotheads of Illinois Inc. welcome all area square dancers to their semi-annual dance "Fall Fun Frolic" at the Boy Scouts of America Building, 1623 N. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights. Paul "Foggy" Thompson and Jim Stewart will be singing "on up from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m."

Rounds will be called throughout the afternoon by Gene and Edna Arnfield. Dancing and refreshments... All for $3 per couple. More information may be obtained by calling, 254-0938 or 254-2229.

There will be prizes awarded to the Knot head couple coming the furthest distance; the couple being registered the longest time as an Illinois Knothead, and for the guesstimate contest of how many names are in the Knotheads of Illinois file.

CLOVERLEAFS All area square dancers are invited to join the Cloverleafs of Mount Prospect tonight for their dance at Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. (near Lincoln).

Squares begin at 8:30 p.m. with Jim Smith as the caller, and dancing will continue until 11 p.m.

Cloverleaf dances at an intermediate-advanced level. Refreshments will be served.

SLOW POKERS The Slowpokes of Mount Prospect will be dancing tonight at the Stevenson School (southeast corner of Wolf and Palatine roads) in Wheeling.

Paul and Bunny Davis will be calling the rounds beginning at 8 p.m., followed by square dancing at 8:30 p.m., with Diamond Jim Young doing the calling.

The evening's festivities will feature a "Turkey Poke Dance," and all square dancers are invited.

SQUARE WHIRLS Jim Stewart will be calling for the Square Whirls tomorrow night when they hold their "Gobbler's Gait" dance at the MacArthur Junior High School (southwest corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads) in Prospect Heights, beginning at 8:30 p.m. However, Mabel Blaha has also named this as the "F.S.D." dance... you'll have to come and ask her what that means.

Rounds throughout the evening will be called by Lee Shapiro and Shirley Konik. Rounds begin at 8 p.m. and everyone is invited.

JUST-KICKS The Just-Kicks Club will hold its Thanksgiving dance, "Turkey in the Straw" on Tuesday, Nov. 20 at the Hillcrest School on Hillcrest Blvd. in Hoffman Estates. All area dancers are invited.

Workshop begins at 8 p.m. and Cliff Benson, the club caller will square things up at 8:30 p.m. with dancing continuing until 10:45 p.m. Refreshments will be served and donations per couple is $2.50.

BARRINGTON BRONCOS The Barrington Broncos will meet tonight at Langdon Park Field House, Lions Drive off Ill. Rte. 59 and U.S. Rte. 14 in Barrington for another evening of fun in square dancing.

Round dancing from 8 to 9:30 p.m. with Don and Pat Johnson, and Gene Tidwell will square things up at 9:30 and continuing until 11 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

HAPPY TWIRLERS Happy Twirlers dance tonight at the Congregational Church, Grace and Marion streets in Des Plaines. All area dancers are invited. Callers are the Char-Lee Wellers.

Happy Twirlers will soon sponsor a "beginners round dance class" every Monday night. The Char-Lee Wellers are the callers and teachers and "call" receipts of both classes and dances are contributed to the churches. Those interested in learning the basics of round dancing should call 824-1484.

This will "round out" a complete square and round dance program sponsored by the club, which includes: A beginners square dance class every Tuesday at Trinity Lutheran Church, 675 Algonquin Rd. in Des Plaines from 8 to 10 p.m.

An intermediate dance every Friday night at Congregational Church in Des Plaines. A "new figure" workshop from 8 to 9:30 p.m. precedes the dance, from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m., and an "experimental figure" workshop for qualified dancers at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, on the second and fourth Sundays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The "easy round of the month" is taught from 6:30 to 7 p.m. on the fourth Sunday only.

The almanac

Today is Friday, Nov. 16, the 320th day of 1973 with 45 to follow.

Boris Spassky comes back, wins Russian championship

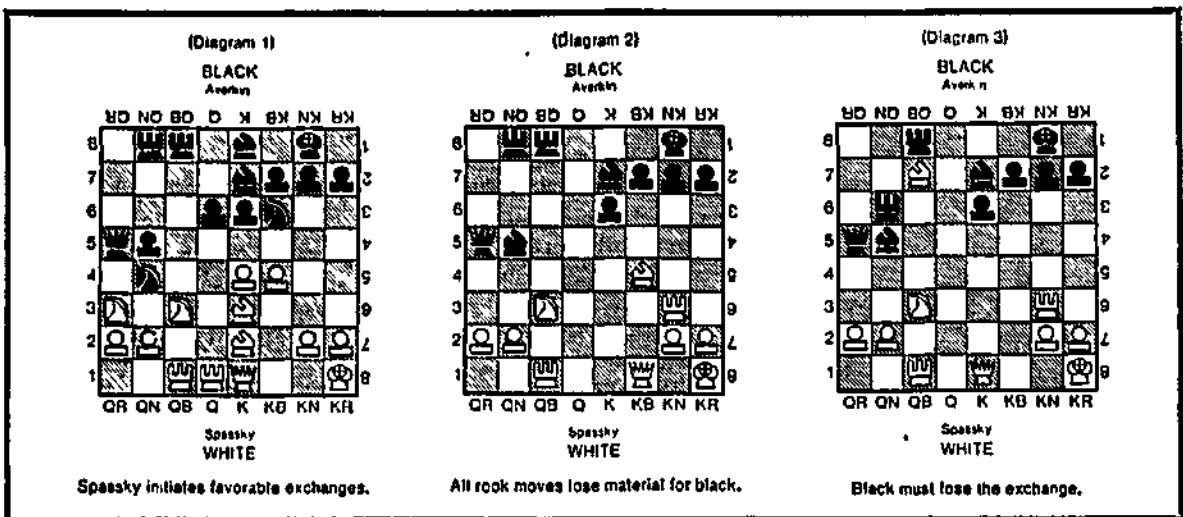

After lulling his followers into despair and sleep by his humdrum play since his Reykjavik fiasco, Boris Spassky is suddenly playing like his old self, if not better.

He has just won one of the strongest tournaments in the history of chess, the 1973 U.S.S.R. Championship. Three ex-world champions — Smyslov, Tal, and Petrosian — participated. Korchmool, Polugaevsky, and Karpov official candidates for the role of challenger to the world title as well as Petrosian and Spassky — also took part. Apparently Bobby Fischer himself is jubilant at Spassky's performance and has expressed his desire for a rematch.

NOT SINCE THE heyday of Michael Tal has the chess world seen a player with the white pieces so crushingly deal with the Sicilian Defense (1. P-K4, P-QB4) as has Spassky in this Russian championship.

The clearest example of his powerful play is his game with Averkin early in the tournament.

Diagram 1

Shelby Lyman on chess

Our first diagram shows the crucial position after black's 18th move. Spassky now initiated a series of exchanges with his 19th move, P-K5. After 25) R-N3, the position in our second diagram was reached.

Diagram 2

Black, who is vulnerable on the king side, will lose material wherever he moves his attacked rook, which is on the queen-side.

Averkin elected to play 25... R-N3 and Spassky artfully refuted that move with 26 B-B7, as in our third diagram.

Diagram 3

Whatever black does, he must lose a rook for his opponent's bishop. The point is, of course, that 26... RxB is refuted by 27. Q-K5, which threatens the loose rook and checkmate.

Other rook moves are equally futile: I.e., 1. 25... R-R1, and 26. Q-K5 will win the knight; or 11. 25... R-N2, and 26. Q-K5 followed by P-QR4 will win the pinned bishop.

Once white has won the "exchange," the rest of the game is mop-up action.

This game is a lesson in combining mating threats with threats on undefended pieces.

How the chessmen move

THE PAWN moves only forward one space, with the exception of its first move when it has the option of moving two spaces forward. It captures one square diagonally forward.

THE KNIGHT moves and captures in the form of a capital L — two spaces in either a horizontal or vertical direction and one space to the right or left. It is the only piece permitted to jump over other men.

THE QUEEN, the most powerful piece on the board, moves and captures diagonally, and horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE ROOK (occasionally called the castle) moves and captures horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE BISHOP moves and captures diagonally.

THE KING moves and captures one square at a time in any direction.

Free medi-check plan

A free medi-check program will be available to all Maine Township residents Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 8070 N. Milwaukee Ave., Niles. The program is sponsored by the Maine Township Regular Democratic Organization.

Medi-check is a lifesaving means of providing people with emergency medical identification tags (either bracelets or necklaces) to assist in treatment when medical attention is needed.

Persons with physical disabilities or organic disorders such as coronary thrombosis, arteriosclerosis, diabetes, tuberculosis, allergies, rare blood types or epilepsy are urged to obtain their tags. Those with hearing aids, contact lenses or eyeglasses can also receive tags.

Nicholas Blase, Maine Township Democratic Committeeman, has organized the free program. For more information, call 692-3388.

You need a clean-up job!

Herald editorial

Collection agencies need controls

No one disagrees with the need for debt collection agencies — but it's time that the State of Illinois exercised some minimal control over them.

The Illinois Department of Financial Institutions currently is writing legislation which should do just that — establish minimal regulation and monitoring of collection agencies across the state.

One of the problems, as documented in hearings held recently by the Illinois Attorney General's Consumer Fraud Division, is that there have been no state laws to crack down on the abuses which some collection agencies can create.

The abuses are the persistent midnight phone calls, the occasional physical threats and the threat of garnishing wages by going directly to the employer (an action which is illegal in Illinois).

Most of us in the Northwest suburbs have had little occasion to be confronted by these abuses. They are more prevalent in urban areas where persons are victimized by a culprit which lurks just behind the need for collection agencies.

That culprit is too-easy credit, a system designed to prey on persons who do not understand the peril of extended payments and high interest rates. Despite federal legislation in recent years to contain such abuses, it is still far too easy to obtain credit at stores across Illinois.

Urging the buyer to beware is simply not enough, as credit abuses have continued to grow. The credit industry, by policing itself, can limit the need for this kind of legislation.

The problem, however, extends far beyond easy credit. Too many Americans become deadbeats and refuse to pay bills — even though they have the resources for such payments. The result's a collection industry which, at times, is guilty of abuses in attempting to collect legitimate debts.

Clearly, there must be a balance struck between the need of merchants to collect debts, and the public's need to avoid the merciless harassment of collection agencies and individual collectors who step out of line in collecting debts.

Guidelines and industry self-policing hasn't accomplished it, so state law should move in to end any needless harassment of Illinois consumers. Let's set up the conditions to keep the collection industry reasonable and decent in its methods of going after debtors.

County line

Who are GOP county picks?

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Metropolitan Affairs Editor

Twinkle, twinkle Republican star, how we wonder who you are. Unnamed by leaders so far, can you block a Demo czar? Twinkle, twinkle GOP star, will Daley beat you to a tar? If you next state tops par, who will lead it, party star?

The questions linger — in poetry and political speeches — but decision time is at hand for statemaking county Republicans.

Despite the niceties of open statemaking, despite the convenient biographies from the candidate parade, the true decision-making story has not reached the public eye.

The problem facing statemakers is creating a simple formula designed to win now Democrat county offices. Voter appeal and geography are the keys.

First difficult decision faces county committeemen picking a slate for the county board.

Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines — handsome, experienced man pulling the party's statemaking strings — will be slated for one of the six posts.

Comr. Joe Woods of Oak Park — labeled expendable by some committeemen — also will run again. Woods has won two recent elections, first as sheriff, then as commissioner, and the rule of politics is that you don't toss a winner out without reason.

The third of six posts will go to a woman, Jane Barnes of Oak Lawn and Mary McDonald of Lincolnwood are two announced candidates. The leaning is toward well-to-do Mrs. McDonald who also sought slating in 1970.

Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township committeeman, is fourth name on the list. Hansen reportedly has locked up enough votes to secure slating.

Fifth comes the first complicated decision — county board president. Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh is a candidate. Riverside Township committeeman Joseph Teeson is a candidate. State Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Park Ridge, reportedly will drop from the race to run for U.S. Rep. Harold Collier's 6th Dist. seat.

Some committeemen are shooting holes in the theory that Walsh is the frontrunner with Hyde out of the race. Mayor Jack has opposition — partly because his Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission activities have tied him to feared regional government and partly because of geography.

With Fulle slated from the Northwest suburbs, with Hansen from the same area and with Mrs. McDonald another neighbor, statemakers are unlikely to give this area another board seat. Spread the wealth is the theory and Walsh may be asked to run for another county post. If the presidency spot was offered to a south Cook County resident the ticket would gain geographical balance. But a strong resident from the area has not interviewed and the search is on.

The sixth seat could go south, north or possibly far west. Hal Tyrrell of Proviso Township and Daniel Baldino of Evanston and the Civic Federation are possibilities.

John F. Kneafsey, an Evanston alderman who has produced more press releases than other candidates, has little chance for slating. Kneafsey has pledged to run in the primary, with or without party backing.

Republican leaders hope to avoid a bloody primary that draws on funds and personnel.

Peter Bensinger, head of the Chicago Crime Commission, is a sure shot candidate for sheriff. William Simpson, a lawyer from Kenilworth, will run for county treasurer. Wayne Anderson, a lawyer from Des Plaines, won support during his appearance before statemakers.

The Republican slate for the Metropolitan Sanitary District should produce at least two winners. Abe Elserman, who was elected a trustee in 1962, but lost in 1968, and James T. Ryan of Arlington Heights are frontrunners for two of the three spots.

Three final names to watch are Alice Ibrag, an Oak Lawn village trustee who will appear before statemakers Tuesday; Lola Flamm, a candidate for county clerk from Evanston with independent vote appeal, and Arthur Waddy, a black attorney from Chicago.

Fulle promised this week another full schedule of candidates for Tuesday and the list should include surprises and more black candidates.

"We're not dead yet," Fulle said. The truth is that the party won't come alive until the slate is picked. The current publicity helps that awakening.

Nixon answering charges

by EUGENE V. RISHER

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is struggling once again to regain control over the wildly careening forces that threaten his effectiveness.

His official spokesmen promised a massive campaign to clear his name and re-establish confidence in his ability to govern, including a series of news conferences, presidential statements, addresses to the nation and meetings with Congressional leaders.

Before the week's end, Nixon will have met personally with all 234 Republicans in Congress and some of the Democrats.

The President has decided to beef up his legal staff, now consisting of nine full-time lawyers and two consultants, with additional attorneys who will provide Judge John J. Sirica with the information he needs for the Watergate grand jury.

The staff of lawyers also will track down, compile and refute all the various allegations that have appeared in public print about Nixon, his friends and his family, according to Press Secretary Ronald T. Ziegler.

"We are going to beef up the legal staff and we are going to address these matters, case by case, head to head, with those people who are developing many of the erroneous theories and providing to the public many of the erroneous charges," Ziegler said earlier this week.

"The President is determined not to allow the charges that are being put forth, to allow the various theories that are developed by various investigative organizations — which are then provided in some cases to the public — to overwhelm us."

Among the "erroneous charges" to be addressed, Ziegler said, aside from Watergate, were:

- That improper financing was used in the purchase of Nixon's estates in Florida and California.

- That a $1 million private investment portfolio was managed by Nixon's friend, C. G. Bebe Rebozo, on behalf of the President.

- That milk producers were rewarded for a large political campaign contribution with an increase in milk price supports.

- That the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. was similarly rewarded for a large campaign contribution with a favorable ruling in a government anti-trust action.

- That Rebozo's handling of a $100,000 campaign contribution from billionaire Industrialist Howard Hughes was improper.

- That the President's daughter, Tricia Nixon Cox, failed to pay proper taxes on her share of the profits in a Florida land deal.

- That the President took advantage of the tax laws to obtain a massive deduction for himself which has resulted in him paying virtually no taxes on his $200,000 annual salary.

The key question is whether the President has waited too long to respond to the allegations.

Until a group of Republican Congressmen and Senators managed to get in to see him last Friday, he had not talked about his Watergate problems and the massive erosion of his credibility with any but a handful of White House aides — primarily chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., Ziegler, and to a lesser extent, his Watergate lawyer, J. Fred Buzhardt, and chief political counselor, Bryce N. Harlow.

"I have said before that perhaps we have been somewhat late in addressing the matters head-on but we intend to do that now," Ziegler said. (UPI)

Palatine trustee record hit

I regret that I was unavailable to the Herald reporters for comment on Republican Committeeman Bernard Pedersen's press release criticizing Fred Zajonc's candidacy to oppose him in next April's election.

What impressed me was his self-praise in turning out the vote for the GOP in a township that's normally over 70 per cent Republican and his pride in the record in office of his recently elected GOP village president and four trustees.

Let's look at that six month record.

(1) The removal of the entire Fire and Police Commission without cause that had been very competent and had a combined experience of 25 years.

(2) The removal of the police chief without cause and the denial of a public hearing so he might defend himself. This go incited the community that a petition of over 3,000 signatures forced a public hearing.

(3) Coercing the village manager to resign.

(4) Not reappointing volunteer citizens to commissions because of their political belief and replacing them with party and campaign workers.

(5) Attempted removal of a department head for prejudicial reasons only.

(6) Demoralizing of all department heads as a result of the above actions.

(7) Promising a cash tax refund in the campaign and failing to do so.

(8) Promising free garbage bags and having condominium and commercial property owners filing protest for inequitable use of tax funds.

(9) Dredging of Salt Creek without engineering plans or a permit from the Illinois Division of Waterways or consultation with other agencies resulting in property owners threatening a lawsuit in order to stop the work.

(10) Authorizing the installation of a sewer costing the taxpayers $12,000 which would only benefit two loyal party workers. Ignoring the fact that the village engineer stated it could cause additional flooding for others in the area thus bringing threatened legal action by 50 property owners.

(11) Cancelling all bids on the Colfax Avenue improvement project designed to relieve traffic congestion and flooding problems at one of the village's busiest intersections because of campaign promises to relieve adjoining property owners of a court approved special assessment.

Clayton Brown

It was never mentioned in the papers that during the recent village campaign my home, our campaign manager's home and our headquarters had windows shot with pellet guns and on another occasion my car windows were smashed. If this is what happens when national parties get involved at the local level it is my belief that true Republicans are tired of this type of politics.

When an independent party was formed to oppose GOP involvement in local elections the hue and cry was, "If they're really Republicans let them run in a primary to settle party differences." Now that Fred Zajonc is challenging Bernie Pedersen and receiving support from others it is being called, "An attempted take-over of the party."

Will Rogers said, "No political party is as bad as its leaders." Fred Zajonc wants to put new life in the Palatine Township Republican Party and prove this statement need not be true.

Palatine

'The threshold of tomorrow'

I am entering the world today, and I see it shaping, just like clay.

I'm standing on a mountain top looking down below, and I see it shaping, for my world, tomorrow!

I'm thirteen years old, realizing what's going on around me, but — it's not very nice what I see!

I see all the troubles and give a great, big sigh, however, I must not let this world pass me by.

I must take a part in it, do all that I can, for I am in my first step of becoming a man.

Life is just beginning to start, and in this world I must take part! I'm standing on that mountain top, and what I see isn't very nice,

I'm looking at a world with many-a-vice!

Will our world be dirty, or will our world be clean?

For a sour world, is all that I've seen!

To make a beautiful nation we must be smart, our generation will clean up the world that fell apart.

I must find out what's going on, I've just got to know,

I'm coming down the mountain now, becoming a man — into the world of tomorrow!

More local news sought

I was under the impression when I ordered a subscription to your newspaper that it was a "local" newspaper and, therefore, would print "local" news. Much to my disappointment, I find it prints almost the identical national news as the Chicago papers. I'll venture to say few people care to read almost the identical news twice a day and surely we can do without the extra expense, to say nothing about the severe paper shortage.

Please, more local news, the alternative being less subscriptions!

German-based firm tries to make a name for itself

Nixdorf takes aim at U.S. market

by LEA TONKIN

Nixdorf.
Not a very well known name, is it?
How about Victor? Strike you as a little more familiar?

Well, if Claus Wagner has his way, Nixdorf will become just as big a name as Victor is in the computer business. In fact, the German-based product used to be known as the Victor minicomputer.
But no more.

Nixdorf originally agreed with Victor Comptometer in 1968 to market the German computer under the Victor trademark.

"Victor Comptometer spent millions of dollars to set up a sales network, and then lost a great deal of money," said Wagner, manager of systems planning for Nixdorf Computers, Inc. "Helm Nixdorf" (company founder) was not satisfied with the expansion. So by Jan. 1 of this year, we had bought out the Victor division to market the computers under our own name."

WAGNER IS heading up a staff of several Nixdorf employees at its Midwest office in the O'Hare Plaza complex as the company pushes into a new phase of U.S. operations.

The market in Illinois and the rest of the country is opening up for the mini-computer, says Wagner, a Des Plaines resident. Nixdorf figured it could cash in on the expanding needs of business firms for machines that cut the volume of bookkeeping and paperwork.

The demand for minicomputers is expected to increase at a faster pace than the larger units over the next few years, Wagner says. Despite the small (8 per cent) chunk of the U.S. business machines market claimed by foreign firms last year, he predicts, "Looking ahead, the American market for our kind of equipment can even outgrow our European market."

Makers of minicomputers in the U.S. include such well known firms as NCR and Burroughs. Nixdorf hopes to make a name for itself by selling people on the ease of operating its minicomputers, and cost benefits. The concept of modularity enables the company to tailor computer setups to customer needs, he adds.

CUSTOMERS RANGE from small bookkeepers and accounting operations to large hospital complexes. Nixdorf has more than 1,200 installations in the U.S.

Ten new sales and service offices were opened in the U.S. this year by Nixdorf, bringing the total to 21 offices. "Our goal this year is to break even, if not to make a profit," says Wagner. "This is very hard if you're in the midst of an expansion program."

"The Nixdorf philosophy is that the company is not a manufacturer of computers, but a company rendering service to companies who happen to buy their equipment," says Wagner. He enjoys this "people orientation" of the business machines company.

"We talk to people who create and evaluate data," he says, "and we get them involved in designing the computer systems. This creates an attitude of cooperation, because many people would otherwise fear the computer."

LEARNING ABOUT people is a lifetime pursuit for Wagner, who discusses foreign travel as easily as computer design. "All my life has been directed to moving to new countries," he says enthusiastically, adding that he intends to keep up the pace "as long as my feet will drag me."

Wagner was born of German parents in Persia, in 1939. "I wouldn't go back there," he says. "They'd want me to join the army there."

A native of Bremen, West Germany,
Wagner completed a business apprenticeship at an export brewery there, and moved on to work for General Motors in Switzerland. He later joined the Wanderer-Werke firm in Cologne. "I was training people how to use electronic billing equipment," he says. "I spent most of my time travelling, in Holland, Greece, Denmark and other countries."

When his company was acquired by Nixdorf in 1968 Wagner stayed on as an instructor in programming and systems design. He moved to London for a few months on a teaching assignment, and then back to Cologne.

THE COMPUTER specialist landed in Chicago in 1969, with a one-year employment contract in hand. Several weeks later, Wagner was transferred to New York "to clean up an operation where something went wrong." His U.S. assignments included Los Angeles and another
New York stint before his current job.

"You move fast here," Wagner comments. "In all these moves, if somebody asks me if I can do something, the only thing I can say is yes . . . and in this country, if you work hard and you have profound ideas, and you stick with all your ideas, you can move ahead — more than in any other country."

Edison says 'light up for heat'

Consumers may be confused by a turnabout in Commonwealth Edison Co.'s energy-conservation advice.

The utility urged customers earlier in the year to turn off unnecessary lights and to avoid excessive use of televisions and other appliances. But Edison said this week that turning off lights and unplugging appliances can lead to higher heating costs during cold weather.

Edison says that light bulbs are probably the best known sources of heat.

All electric lights and appliances generate heat and contribute to indoor comfort during the winter season, say Edison engineers.

In the summer it makes good sense to control these heat sources and take a load off the system, the utility adds. But the situation is reversed in the winter. If appliances and lights are turned off, the lost units of heat would have to be replaced by your furnace or boiler.

'St. Jo,' Mo., is doing simply fine, thank you

by JAMES A. KIDNEY

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Recently, after UPI reporter Jack V. Fox of Los Angeles revisited this city, his old home town, after an absence of many years, he wrote:

"Thomas Wolfe was not quite right.
You can go home again. But don't. Not if home is a small town in the Middle West that time has passed by. Not if you don't want a sad sense of loss and a heartache remembering things the way they used to be."

So much for magic yesterdays. St. Joseph today may be a bit dingy in places, but it is doing OK.

FATHER OF this city along the Missouri River concede that parts of the downtown are an eyesore. But those empty lots, boarded and decrepit buildings are a sign that St. Joseph is showing new-found strength after sleeping fitfully for 50 years. They signify the start of massive downtown urban renewal. In a few short years the decay will be replaced by a mall, office buildings and planned parking.

"I think St. Joseph has shown more progress in the last three or four years than in the last 50," says Mayor William J. Bennett.

Growth is symbolized not only by the downtown area's expectations. To the east is Missouri Western State, Missouri's newest four-year college with an enrollment of more than 3,000. St. Joseph built the college with publicly approved revenue bonds, and recently approved another bond issue for school construction.

Glenn West, manager of the local industrial development organization which actively recruits companies to locate plants in the area, says 14 new industries have located headquarters or branches in the city since 1968 and 17 have expanded their plants. The investment totals $30.2 million, equivalent to $1,103 for each of the city's 72,691 citizens.

THE MEATPACKING industry, which had been a major economic force, began to decline in recent years. About 1,000 persons still work at the Armour, Seltz and Dugdale plants, but Swift has closed its plant and the Armour operation is only a shadow of the days when cattle were herded through the St. Joseph yards as fast as they could be brought in from Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska.

Business today

"For 50 years it seemed we depended on the meatpacking plants, and when they started to go the city had to sit back and when it did it found out it was in trouble," West said. "Now we've got a diversified economy, and when one business is in a slump it doesn't hurt the whole town."

Among the major companies which have looked at "St. Jo" and found it attractive are Carnation, which has three plants including the largest under one roof in its system, the Stevens Hat Co., which expanded with acquisition of the Stetson brand several years ago, and Peachtree Doors, whose $3.5 million plant will be ready for occupancy next year.

Suburbs plead for consideration in county zoning

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Cook County's proposed zoning ordinance will "wave a red flag at municipalities" if open space, fire-police protection and school land is not considered by developers of unincorporated areas.

"These services generally fall on the shoulders of the municipalities," Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh told county officials at a "discussion" Wednesday of the ordinance in Palatine.

Walsh complained that developers seek county zoning, then beg neighboring suburbs for services the county cannot provide. If local officials refuse "we wind up in court," Walsh said.

"We will simply rise up and object vehemently to the situation" if demands on municipalities are not considered by the county, Walsh said.

ABOUT 10 village officials, attorneys and builders attended the 90-minute meeting designed to introduce a draft of the ordinance to local officials.

Both Walsh and Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher said the county zoning board has increased consideration of local objections since 1971.

"We don't feel a developer should run from village to village or from the county to a village" to seek favorable zoning, said Alex R. Sehl, chairman of the zoning board. "We will consider local plans."

"Our experience with subdivisions (in unincorporated areas) has been rather sad," said Wheeling Atty. Paul Hamer, who suggested a county requirement that "you will consider it" if a municipality has a comprehensive plan.

"Our problem is with our public utilities and our streets," Hamer said. "If you don't take these into consideration it destroys the effectiveness of our plan. SCHOOL AND park sites are "another problem," Hamer said. A recent development near Wheeling was built on land that included three potential school sites.

The proposed ordinance, costing $200,000 and being prepared by Rolf Campbell & Associates, is aimed at updating the county's 1960 zoning regulations and increasing environmental protection. Sehl said the ordinance will serve as a model for municipalities and attempts to eliminate varying local standards.

A second round of discussion with local officials will be scheduled when the ordinance's final draft is complete. The proposal will be sent to the county board for a public hearing and approval next year.

Second phase of the project will include mapping of the county and a master plan for unincorporated land use.

"I mean it about as big as the things that make him angry."

"DRAW YOURSELF" was one of the activities in a two day human sexuality seminar at Oakton Community College last week. The seminar is designed to provide students with factual information about sex and create an atmosphere in which students can talk freely about sex with their peers.

Afraid to talk about sex? Oakton College seminar 'relaxes the atmosphere'

by KATHERINE BOYCE
There's a seminar at Oakton Community College for students who don't know everything there is to know about sex and are afraid to ask.

The human sexuality seminar was held for the first time last spring to "meet a need" from students who came to see them, said Bonnie Agnew, counselor at Oakton. Students asked their counselors questions about sex that they were afraid to ask other students or talk about in class.

The purpose of the two-day seminar is to provide students with accurate information about sex and to create an atmosphere where students feel comfortable talking to each other, Mrs. Agnew said. "This is not a therapy group," she said. "This is an information sharing, questioning type of seminar."

AT THE request of students the seminar was repeated at Oakton last week. The seminar has also been opened to the public this year in a series of three evening programs on venereal disease, homosexuality and sex and the senior citizen offered in October, February and March.

The students' seminar consisted of five counselors and 50 students, 25 of each sex. They met together for films and lectures on human anatomy and physiology by Ann Hastings, biology teacher at Oak-ton; a lecture on homosexuality sponsored by the Gay Speakers Bureau in Chicago, and on human sexual response by Dr. Lonny Myers, director of medical education at the Midwest Association for the Study of Human Sexuality.

The students also met in smaller groups to discuss sexual behavior, morals and personal values. In another activity called "draw yourself" students drew crayon sketches of their bodies showing not receive college credit for attending the seminar. "Our group is totally volunteer so our audience is more receptive," she said. The students are not graded as they might be in a high school health class.

Students are "embarrassed to talk in a class of 30 in high school health and they don't want to talk to their parents," Miss Davis said. "They want accurate information, honest information presented in a nonthreatening way."

Many students are "embarrassed because they feel naive," said Mrs. Agnew, but the seminar provides "an atmosphere where students aren't embarrassed by asking questions."

"Basically they are looking for information," said Miss Davis. "They are looking for answers to specific questions and are hoping that question will come up."

SOME OF THE questions students asked last week were about the effectiveness of birth control pills and the dangers involved in taking them, the symptoms of venereal disease, questions about anatomy, pregnancy, premarital sex and abortion.

Students also ask simple questions about dating, said Miss Davis. They seem to benefit from talking to a member of the opposite sex about roles in the dating process. "The girls thought the the physical characteristics that bother them the most — a flat chest, big nose, a small mouth. Each student then discussed the drawing and the impression he has of himself. "It's a self-image exercise," said counselor Carol Davis.

SEX EDUCATION on the college level is more acceptable to students than in high school, Miss Davis said. Students do

A day with Mr. Nixon...

WASHINGTON — All U.S. Presidents are hard pressed for time, Richard Nixon more than most.

Besides attending to affairs of state, which more than fill a normal working day, Nixon has been obliged to make time for a host of activities not imposed on previous Presidents.

Thus he must operate on an extremely tight schedule, which may run something like this:

6:30 a.m. — Alarm clock goes off. Gets out of bed, turns off alarm and turns on tape recorder.

6:32 — Slips on robe, pours cup of coffee and glances at headlines in Washington Post.

6:33 a.m. — Slings paper across room and takes two aspirins.

6:35 a.m. — Calls Henry Kissinger to check on overnight Middle East developments. Leaves word for Kissinger to return call when he gets home.

6:37 a.m. — Calls to congratulate Coach George Allen of Washington Redskins on last Sunday's victory.

6:41 a.m. — Phones kitchen to order breakfast. Asks chef to put a little more ketchup on the cottage cheese.

7:15 a.m. — Goes into study to listen to playbacks of Watergate tapes.

7:18 a.m. — Awakens Pat and asks if she remembers where he put the tapes of his conversations with John Dean.

7:20 a.m. — Searches for missing tapes until time to go to Oval Office downstairs.

7:20 a.m. — Arrives in Oval Office. Checks thermostat to make certain room temperature is 68 degrees.

7:22 a.m. — Kissinger returns call. Conversation difficult because of party noises in background.

8 a.m. — Turns on TV set to hear news report on latest Middle East developments.

8:00 a.m. — Dictates memo on distorted reporting by network newscasters.

8:12 a.m. — Asks Alexander Haig to bring in list of cabinet officers. Refreshes memory as to who is currently serving as Attorney General and calls Justice Department to discuss Watergate investigation by special prosecutor.

8:21 a.m. — Calls Counsel Fred Buzhardt to discuss Watergate investigation by federal court.

8:27 a.m. — Calls Sen. Baker to discuss Watergate investigation by Senate committee.

8:30 a.m. — Calls George Allen to wish him luck in next Sunday's game.

8:45 a.m. — Delegation of House Republicans arrives to discuss Watergate case.

9:30 a.m. — Delegation of Senate Republicans arrives to discuss Watergate case.

10:15 a.m. — Goes to White House press room to deny leaks by House and Senate Republicans.

Ans so on far into the night.

Proposes national focus test

Doctor wants TV to help reduce viewer eye problems

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — A consultant for The Society for Visual Care proposed recently that the nation's 695 television stations cooperate by taking steps to alleviate a viewer's eye discomfort, fatigue and low-grade headaches.

Dr. Alden N. Haffner's plan calls for stations to semi-annually transmit eye test charts such as those used in eye examinations which would enable viewers to check their television sets for focus and clarity. There are 94 million sets in the United States.

Dr. Haffner, the executive director of the Optometric Center of New York, also urges television manufacturers to give attention to clarity of reception through improved engineering and expanded service programs.

"SUCH A PROGRAM would be a major step in alleviating a sense of discomfort, fatigue and low-grade headache, a condition known as asthenopia," Haffner said, "which is often present in persons who have an undetected or undiagnosed visual problem and which may be aggravated by any amount of television viewing."

Even those persons whose vision is normal, Dr. Haffner explained, are asking their visual system and brain to sharpen and make accurate what really appears to be blurred and inaccurate. "One symptom of the problem," he said, "is that viewers tend to move closer and closer to the set they are watching."

Because practically all children watch television he cautioned parents to be aware that there are right and wrong ways of watching.

"The ideal viewing distance should be as far away from the set as the size of the room permits or at least 9 to 10 feet," he added.

The right and the most comfortable way for a youngster to watch TV is to sit, with good posture, in a chair not too close to the set with the room partially lit, preferably indirectly, so there is no glare on the screen and reflecting into one's eyes and so the child's eyes do not have to adjust repeatedly from bright light to relative darkness.

ACCORDING TO DR. Haffner, a child should not lie on the floor in the dark with his head propped up practically on top of the TV set. These factors can produce eye strain and headache. Some undetected visual problems may exist that are aggravated by such a viewing posture and that should be investigated by a competent practitioner.

It is also an adequate warning that distress factors may exist and that the young person cannot cope with them. Although the potentially harmful long-term effects of poor viewing habits are still undetermined, according to eye experts there is evidence that the constant television viewing at relatively close distance tends to cause some attributes of nearsightedness in young people.

Following these helpful instructions may cause many a kid-parent fracas but it's apparently worth the fight to prevent the youngsters from becoming literally "glued" to the small screen.

Movie like 'Airport' can affect entire TV market

HOLLYWOOD — How important are blockbuster motion pictures to the television networks that buy them?

One can contemplate the answer to that question in several ways:

First of all, if a video organization pays, and continues to pay, astronomical, out-of-line prices for the rights to such films, there can, of course, conceivably be a point of diminishing returns — as happened in television's purchases of pro football games a while back.

On the other hand, if a network can manipulate its financial dealings cleverly, a huge movie success on the home screen can — line any single huge success on video — do wonders for the broadcast organization that airs it.

AND, BECAUSE of a built-in reputation, a blockbuster movie is generally a stronger bet to win a tremendous television audience than a show made for the home tube — despite the remarkably poor ratings earned by, say, some of ABC-TV's anthology teleplays.

One tremendous movie success on television — like, for instance, ABC-TV's presentation of "Airport" last Sunday night — can just about singlehandedly turn around a week's ratings for a network. And the higher a ratings average for a network or station over a period of time, the more it can ask in prices for the advertising time it sells. And, quite obviously, if a broadcast organization is listed on the stock market, a higher overall ratings earnings, can affect its status here also.

Televiewers, in other words, have impact — positive and negative — on network stock market prices, just as they have impact on the stock market prices of other companies whose goods they either buy or bypass.

ABC-TV has put a memo about the ratings benefit brought to it by the powerhouse national statistics of "Airport." Although "Airport" did not get the highest rating of any movie in video history, the network says "it was viewed by 27,800,000 households — making it the top film, theatrical or made-for-TV, ever shown on television." In explaining this statement, ABC-TV notes that "the households base for ratings increases each year."

NBC-TV's "HALLMARK Hall of Fame" production of Clifford Odets' "The Country Girl," starring Jason Robards, Shirley Knight Hopkins and George Grizzard, is set for a Feb. 5 air date. "Cry Rape," a teleplay examining the dilemma of a victim in bringing an attacker to justice, is a 90-minute "CBS Tuesday Night Movie" presentation Nov. 27; the network says the story looks at the crime from the points of view of the assaulted woman, the police, society and the accused rapist. NBC-TV has added more celebrity contestants to its daytime game series "Baffle" and, for viewers who go along with network promotion, has gussied up the title so it now is "All Star Baffle."

PUBLIC APPEARANCES are routine for Ava Gardner. In this case, it is not in connection with a movie, however, but an afternoon at the races in Madrid, Spain, her home for most of the past two decades.

It's no fun living with a beer guzzler

How much alcohol or beer is too much for a person to drink over a weekend? My husband drinks a case of beer from Friday night until Sunday night. This can't be good for him. We have had several arguments about it. He says it isn't hurting him, and I say it is. He can't think clearly, and the smallest thing really sets him off. I'm telling you this because these things are caused from his alcohol. I'm sure. He is nervous, short tempered and very impatient. His mother drank a lot of beer for a few years and now she has a liver disorder so her physician told her she had to stop and did.

My husband is always catching colds and takes vitamins consistently. I say the alcohol is keeping the vitamins from doing their job. What do you say?

A few years ago he did go to Alcoholics Anonymous, now he will not drink a beer during the week. I know why, because he can't drink one or two cans, he always has to drink six or eight in an evening or on a weekend. Can you tell me what to do or what to say to him? I've done everything but tell him I'll just walk out. He is only 39 years old, and it's really ruining our marriage.

Anytime that a drinking habit becomes a problem for a person, either on the job or at home, it is an alcohol problem. Accepting your statements as made, if your husband has already been to AA for help he must realize that he has an alcohol problem. It is true that some individuals are particularly prone to have a personality change with even a small amount of alcohol. Some individuals with mild brain disorders may get along perfectly well until they have had some alcohol. In them, even one drink may cause a marked change in her personality and cause difficulties.

I wish there was a quick and easy answer for you, but there isn't one that can be readily accomplished. A significant alcohol problem is something that the mate usually can't do much about. The individual has to seek help on his own. This is true whether it's a man or a woman. You should talk to your family doctor about it and see if he has any suggestions, or if there is an AA chapter close by, since he has been to one before, you might contact them and see if they could be of any help to you. They might, through his previous organization connections be able to establish some form of contact with your husband and see if they could help him.

I must tell you that the alcohol won't necessarily keep the vitamins from helping him, but the vitamins will not keep his body from being damaged by alcohol. Excessive use of alcohol can damage the liver, the brain and even the heart. This is true even if a person has an adequate vitamin intake.

If the alcohol problem can't be solved, it's up to you to decide what to do with your life. There is nothing that requires a mate to live with an alcoholic mate (male or female). You might need to ask what you have done to deserve an alcoholic mate. There is an organization called Al Anon for mates and families of the alcoholic. They might be of help to you. Sometimes the mate (male or female) contribute to the alcohol problem. By learning what the dynamics are, the family can help — literally by helping themselves and changing the dynamics within the family. This, however, often requires professional help for both mates.

A 'dry' way to conserve energy...?

Mrs. Fred J. Tooze, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, has suggested that one way to deal with the energy crisis would be to stop producing alcoholic beverages.

"Consider the saving of energy were all liquor producing facilities curtailed in the use of electricity, gas, grain and the main other means to produce a product which kills on the highways, destroys the health and vitality of the individual, and the sanctity and happiness of the home," she said.

In an apparently unrelated action, the Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission Wednesday ordered taverns and liquor stores to turn off their neon signs and bright outdoor lights to conserve energy.

Lights that spell out the name of establishments were exempted from the ruling.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Psychic bid finally scores big

What do you do with the South hand after your partner opens one diamond? You bid two diamonds just as anyone. Yet, when he held this hand in an international team match, George Rapee elected to respond one heart.

This time the psychic response really worked. West bid two clubs; George's unsuspecting partner raised to two hearts. East passed and George went to three diamonds. North liked his hand and bid three spades whereupon George bid a hopeful three notrump.

He worried a while but everyone passed and West was kind enough to open his fourth-best club. It took George approximately three seconds to win that trick and run off six diamonds and two spades for his impossible contract.

Let's see what might have happened if George had bid two diamonds. West would probably have doubled; East would have bid hearts and reached a heart game. He probably would have made it, but down one would not be too bad when compared with George's no-trump game. Or maybe North would have gone to five diamonds with no way to bring it home.

West might have made a better lead against three notrump, but that's all conjecture. What we know is that this psychic worked.

Grand Opening

Thursday, November 15th Through Sunday The 18th

We've reserved a free diamond chip for you as a little bribe to come and see our beautiful new Buffalo Grove store. Though the chip is worth very little it is numbered. And on New Year's Eve there will be a drawing of these numbers for a genuine $500 diamond. At our opening we'll also have free refreshments. Even balloons for the kids.

You see, we really want you to know what a beautiful fine jewelry store there is now serving the Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, North Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights area.

And, we think after you see our store you'll be as happy about having us here as we are being here.

'Witnesses' are an enthusiastic group

by LOUIS CASSELS

America's fastest-growing religious body seeks converts with a zeal fired by the conviction that the end of the world will come very soon, perhaps by 1975.

Its official name is the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, but its members are better known as Jehovah's Witnesses.

There are no "laymen" — and no inactive members — in this fired-up body of fervent believers. Each and every Witness is regarded even by Selective Service as a minister — and is expected to spend several hours a week in door-to-door canvassing, street-corner selling of Witness publications, or other proselytizing activities.

The result of this aggressive campaign for converts is seen in their phenomenal growth rate. Thirty years ago, there were only 85,000 Witnesses in the entire world. Today, there are at least 1,700,000 — twenty times as many.

Jehovah's Witnesses are orderly, clean-living, well-behaved people who do not condone drinking, smoking, licentious sexual behavior or any form of frivolity.

THEY MANAGED to irritate many people, and infuriate a few, because they are unabashed zealots.

The dictionary defines a zealot as one "fanatically committed" to certain beliefs. The beliefs to which Witnesses are committed — and which they refused to compromise even under severe persecution — include the following:

- They are the only true Christians. All other "religious sects" are disguised "instruments of Satan" serving the powers of evil rather than the purposes of God.

- Human history will soon come to a close with a titanic struggle between the forces of God and the forces of Satan, called "The Battle of Armageddon." This term comes from the Biblical book of Revelations, which Witnesses read as a literal forecast of things to come.

- When the battle is over with God's side victorious, of course, wicked people (which is to say, all those who have not seen the light of Witness teaching) will be annihilated. Exactly 144,000 elite Witnesses will be received into Heaven to live with God. The rest of the Witnesses will remain here on earth, where they will spend an eternity of bliss.

WITNESSES REGARD all existing governments, whether Communist or capitalist, democracies or dictatorships, as part of Satan's earthly domain. That's why they refuse to pledge allegiance to any flag or serve in any country's armed forces. Their unyielding refusal of any patriotic gesture has often fetched them into court in American. In the young African country of Malawi, it has brought upon them savage persecution.

One of the tenets that frequently land them in American courts is their prohibition of blood transfusions. Their opposition to transfusions stems from their reading of Biblical admonitions against "eating blood."

Doctors who find themselves unable to save the life of a dying child because Witness parents won't permit a transfusion often seek a court order to override parental objection. Courts generally grant such orders when they are requested.

Because they regard all governments as Satanic — and also because they figure the end is so near it is fruitless to bother with such things — Jehovah's Witnesses do not vote. The only interest they take in current affairs, such as Watergate, fighting in Southeast Asia, or racial troubles, is to find in them corroboration of their belief that human society has been in its "last days" since 1914, and is now nearing its final debacle.

THE MAIN WAY in which Jehovah's Witnesses promulgate their doctrines — and also their chief source of income for support of fulltime workers, who live very frugally — is street corner and door-to-door selling of their periodicals, "Watchtower" and "Awake." They sold, "placed" is the term they prefer, more than 218 million copies of these publications last year.

They also "place" annually millions of copies of their version of the Bible, called "The New World Translation of the Holy Scriptures," which uses the name "Jehovah" rather than "God" or "The Lord" in every reference to the Deity.

"To distinguish himself from the many false gods, the true God has given himself a personal name," the Watchtower explains. "This sets him apart from all others. Is not 'God' his name? Some may ask. No, for 'God' is merely a title, just as 'President,' 'King' and 'Judge' are titles. God's personal name is made known to us through his Word, the Bible, and that name is Jehovah."

The Watchtower acknowledges that "Jehovah" is an attempt at transliterating into English a name that appears in the original Hebrew of the Old Testament simply as the four consonants, "YHWH."

"IN ANCIENT TIMES, the Hebrew language was written without vowels, the reader supplying the vowels as he read the words. So the problem is that today we have no way of knowing exactly which vowels the Hebrews used along with the consonants 'YHWH,' Watchtower says. "Many scholars think the name was pronounced 'Yahweh,' but the form 'Jehovah' has been in use for many centuries and is most widely known."

This explanation, while in accord with the well-nigh universal verdict of modern Biblical scholarship, raises the question whether Witnesses themselves may not conceivably be guilty of the very offense which they charge against other religious bodies — namely, not calling God by his right name.

By the Watchtower's own admission, no one can be entirely sure today how that name was originally spelled and pronounced. And it certainly wasn't "Jehovah," since that is an English, not a Hebrew, word.

German priest doubts Pope's infallibility

The Vatican has another Martin Luther on its hands, and doesn't quite know how to handle him.

His name is Hans Kung. Like Luther, who launched the Protestant Reformation in the 16th Century, Kung is a stocky, stolid, stubborn Catholic priest who teaches theology at a German university.

The resemblance of Kung and Luther does not end with external similarities. Like Luther, Kung has a brilliant mind and is outspoken in articulating his views.

He is profoundly dissatisfied with the present state of the Roman Catholic Church. Yet — again following Luther's example — he does not wish to leave the Church, which he loves. He wishes only to reform it, to make it more like what he believes its Founder intended it to be.

LUTHER NEVER did "break" with Rome. He remained a Catholic priest until he was tossed out on his ear by Pope Leo X in a famous bull of excommunication which opened with the words, "Rise up, O Lord, a wild boar has invaded your vineyard..."

Kung also has made it clear that he will remain in the Catholic fold as long as he is allowed to do so. In fact, he published an article in a Catholic magazine last year sharply rebuking Catholic liberals who leave the Church instead of remaining in it to work for reform.

Yet Kung is no more willing than Luther was to compromise, or recant opinions which the Vatican regards as highly heretical.

His most outrageous views, from the Vatican's viewpoint, are contained in a book which questions the Catholic Dogma of infallibility.

This dogma, proclaimed only a century ago, holds that the Church is supernaturally safeguarded from error whenever its bishops, assembled in ecumenical council, or its pope, speaking "ex cathedra" that is, "from the seat" of St. Peter as head of the Church, officially take a position on a matter of faith or morals.

KUNG FINDS little scriptural, theological or historical warrant for the claim of infallibility. It is a plain fact, he says, that popes and councils have been wrong — as witness the subtle reversals of their positions made by subsequent popes and councils.

He even implies that the present occupant of the Throne of Peter, Pope Paul VI, may have provided in his famous encyclical on birth control a classic example of how wrong a pope can be on a matter of faith and morals. It should be noted, however, that the Vatican has never said the birth control teaching was "ex cathedra" doctrine and must be regarded as infallible, thus leaving the door open for future change.

It was by questioning the validity of papal claims to absolute authority that Luther earned the designation of a "wild boar" in the vineyard. Not unmindful of the resemblance, but anxious to avoid a repetition of the 16th Century schism that followed Luther's excommunication, the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith once known as the Inquisition has been making a protracted inquiry into Kung's writings, especially his views on infallibility.

KUNG HAS REFUSED repeatedly to come to Rome for personal examination by the Congregation, precluding anything in the nature of a heresy trial.

But trials can be held in absentia, and a recent 19-page document from the Congregation, officially labelled a statement "Against Certain Errors of the Present Day," sounds like a warning to Kung that the guardians of orthodoxy have decided to lower the boom on him unless he moderates his views, or at least keeps quiet about them.

The document explicitly reiterates the dogma of infallibility, and says that Catholic theologians who wish to remain in good standing with the Church should beware of "opposing" its official teachings on such "fundamental matters" as papal authority.

Kung (and his resemblance to Luther becomes positively uncanny) responded to the warning from Rome by simply brushing it aside. The Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, he said bluntly, is "incapable of adding a valid contribution" to a scholarly discussion of a theological question such as infallibility.

POPE PAUL VI is notoriously reluctant to take any action that might rock the boat, as excommunication of Kung certainly would do. But he now is confronted, as was his predecessor Leo X nearly five centuries ago, with the spectacle of a public deadlock between the Vatican's official whippers-in-line and an unyielding German priest who simply won't be told what to think and say.

To many observers, it seems the question of what the Vatican will do about Fr. Kung has ceased to be "what" and has become, "when?"

Have Fun
This Weekend During Lake Carroll's

Fall Festival

Lake Carroll isn't just a big 600 acre lake. It's over 5000 acres of the most beautiful countryside in Illinois. The rolling, wooded hills stretch as far as the eye can see . . . all the way to the horizon. And right now, they're putting on an autumn show just for you. Oak and hickory, maple, even dogwood, they're painted in a gorgeous array of colors for just a short period of time. That is why we are having our Fall Festival with good food, good times and a photo contest that you can enter. Best of all, everything is FREE. We just want you to see the other GREAT LAKE, Lake Carroll.

Take A Picture Win A Prize!

During our fall festival you can win one of ten prizes for the picture you take at Lake Carroll. First prize is a $100 Savings Bond and five $25 Savings Bonds. All prizes will be awarded on December 1st. We'll furnish the camera and the film for you to use and keep. There is no obligation whatsoever. However, only married couples are eligible, and all photos entered become the property of Lake Carroll.

We'll Even Give You The Camera And Film Absolutely Free

The camera you receive will be ready to use. It's the Snapshooter. And you'll be amazed at the quality of photos you'll get when you use it. A helpful hint: Steady does it.

Plus . . . Food and Refreshments Oldtime Movies Live Entertainment Horses! Horses! Horses!

Upon arrival at Lake Carroll you will be welcomed at our reception center where there are lots of things to do. You can eat and listen to live music, or watch W. C. Fields, or go horseback riding, and even visit our barnyard zoo, it's a favorite with the children. Lake Carroll will have Free Pumpkins for all the kids (young and old). FREE Pumpkin Pie and Apple Cider, too. Finally, a Lake Carroll representative will tour the area with you while you take photos. You'll see why so many area residents are choosing Lake Carroll to be their family fun center.

School is out fun is in, this weekend

Hard to believe...

...but basketball begins tonight; Prospect home

by JIM COOK

The biggest team in Prospect's history is ready to lift the lid on the basketball hoop tonight against visiting Evanston.

Assisting the big boys will be back-court candidates 3-foot-11 Jim Anderson, 3-foot-10 Mike Tyre, 5-foot-11 Mike Quade, 6-foot Mark Keane, 5-foot-10 Dave Wood, 6-foot-2 Mike Bzdelik, 5-foot-10 Mike DiSanti and 6-foot-1½ Al Black.

"Of course our four big kids won't be on the floor at the same time, but it's tempting," Slayton said. "We've only had eight days of practice and I'd probably like another week to get prepared, but a game at this stage should tell us what we can do under live situations."

Slayton's main concern is Prospect's shooting ability. "We score once in a while in practice," he joked. Then on a serious note he added, "We have some potential, but we don't know how soon we'll realize it. It could be late in the year or next year, but if we come around quickly, we could be pretty decent."

Only Anderson, who played three-quarters of last season at guard, owns varsity experience. Slayton has also deviated from his normal emphasis on seniors by dressing six juniors.

In gazing through the rest of the South Division clubs, Slayton predicted Conant and Elk Grove to contend for Mid-Suburban honors with his Knights. "I think Conant has three players returning from last year's team and Elk Grove has (Ken) Pollitz back. I don't know much about Schaumburg, Forest View or Buffalo Grove," he added, "so we'll just have to wait and see."

In tonight's non-conference opponent, the Knights will be pitted against youth, quickness and one of the most successful coaches in the state in Evanston's Jack Burmaster.

The Wildcats have made several visits to the state championship in Champaign, having won the Illinois crown in 1968. Burmaster's remarkable 23-year coaching career has netted 351 victories against only 149 defeats.

"We enjoy playing Prospect early in the season," Burmaster said. "We've played them a number of years now and it's always proved a good yardstick on how each of our seasons will go."

Burmaster welcomes 6-foot-5 center Glen Turner and 5-foot-11 guard Dean Perrin back from last year's 300 squad. Like Slayton, the veteran coach is also counting heavily on promising juniors.

"Our team is not big by any standards," Burmaster said, "but we should have a little more speed and better shooting. I think our quickness will help our multiple defenses and possibly even give us a chance to press once in a while. We're very balanced."

But all the balance in the world won't help Evanston if it's afraid of heights. And Prospect's towers of strength will be looking to greater heights — specifically to better its 15-8 overall mark of last year.

pionships they collected during the 1973 campaign. Fremd also ruled the Mid-Suburban League and district. The talented runners are (standing, from left) Geoff Bolton, John Miller, Wil Fieldhouse, Mike Rohrer, Chuck Ruppenthal, Paul Kinyon, Dave Scott, Jim Galis, and Coach Ron Menely.

Hersey, Fremd share top spot in Cup standings

It was predictable. Hersey and Fremd have taken the lead after the first returns in the 1973-74 Paddock Cup race.

It was predictable because Hersey and Fremd were the leaders after the fall sports last year, and they have become annual powers in football and cross country.

The two schools each compiled 22 points over the two fall sports this year, an average of 11.0 points per sport, and they hold a comfortable lead over the three schools tied for third place — Schaumburg, Conant, and Palatine.

The Paddock Cup, a three-foot high trophy, is presented annually by the Herald to the school that compiles the best overall Mid-Suburban League record in varsity sports. Hersey has won for two straight school years and would retire the trophy with a third success in 1973-74.

A new scoring system has been initiated for 1973-74 to include every varsity sport.

Points now are awarded according to a school's finish in each sport with automatic first and second place totals given to those schools involved in playoff sports of basketball, football, and baseball.

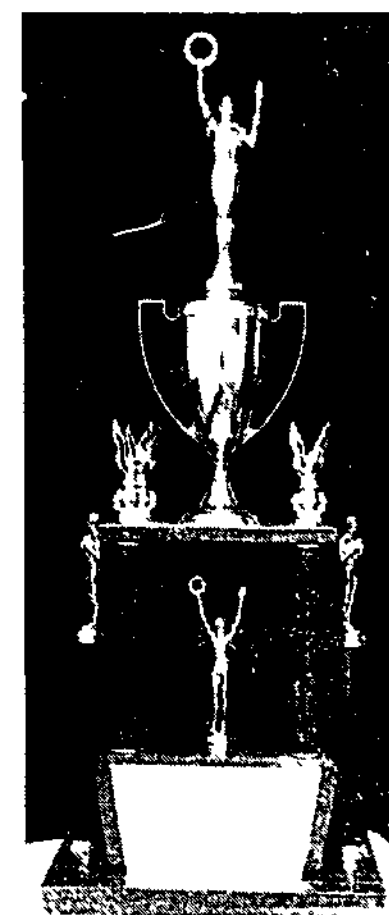

The all-sports champion will be determined this year by an average points per sport basis. For example, Hersey and Fremd participated in two fall sports and collected 22 points each for an 11.0 average.

Buffalo Grove did not compete in varsity football but did pick up two points for its cross country finish. They participated in one sport for two points and a 2.0 average.

This new system will take the booming sport of swimming into consideration for the first time, a sport that is featured at each Dist. 211 school and which did produce state champ last winter from the league.

The new scoring system is also used in the Capitol Conference in central Illinois, where Decatur MacArthur was the all-sports champion for 1972-73 although competing in one less sport than runnerup Springfield Southeast. The Big 10, also names an all-sports champion with this system.

Bears were 'disgrace' on national television

'A DISGRACE TO PRO FOOTBALL'

Dear Fans Forum:

The Great Experiment is over for the hapless Bears.

Bobby Douglass can't hack it. Abe Giron is getting outcoached by practically everybody.

I wouldn't even mind having the old man Halas back as the head coach. At least there might be some organization down on the field.

The Bears proved to the nation Monday night what we have known all along in the Chicago area.

They're terrible, a disgrace to pro football.

There is absolutely no consistency on this team as long as Giron sticks with Douglass. Sure Douglass will have a good quarter or half now and then. But you'll never have a winner until you have some consistency and they'll never have that with him at quarterback. He plays like he's in a daze out there.

The season is lost. Let the kid Huff play it out as the regular quarterback and let's see what we have or if we should trade or draft for another one.

And to think I had a chance to get season tickets this year. There's no way I'll pay to see those clowns play football.

HARRIERS DESERVED MORE

Dear Herald:

As a new subscriber to the Palatine Herald, I must admit it was only subscribed to for the high school sports section.

Now, mind you, I have nothing against a full page spread (even though your paper has made mention many times of the paper shortage) of the Super Bowl football teams, but I do feel that you have completely disregarded a team which should have equal coverage.

I speak of a team that was not only undefeated in all their dual meets, but also won their conference, district, sectional meets but then came home as a fourth ranked team in their sport in the state of Illinois. I speak, of course, of the Fremd cross country team.

Since your excellent article on Arnie

Quarterback becomes top receiver

IT'S THIRD down and long yardage.

The ball is snapped and the quarterback drops back to pass.

The flanker drives out and makes his final move to the sideline at eight yards. The tight end moves over the middle at 12 yards, and the split end runs a corner route.

Scanning the field, looking for his secondary and tertiary receivers, the quarterback fires. It's a matter of timing, and the timing between the receiver and quarterback is the most important element in the passing game.

There are certain patterns and routes that require pinpoint timing. The quarterback who holds on to the ball too long on the sideline route is inviting an interception. He has to work with his receivers and know exactly when they will make their break.

Ideally, he will release the ball before the receiver makes that final break, and on routes over the middle he must throw between linebackers and other defenders. It's not easy. It takes practice, years of practice, to sharpen those skills, and Bill Millner, worked on his quarterback skills for six seasons.

He started playing quarterback in the seventh grade. He spent two seasons at the controls of the Forest View High School varsity, and the Falcons lost only two games in that period. He passed for 669 yards on 30 completions as a senior to perfectly complement the running skills of John Kronforst, then just a junior.

Millner's skills at quarterback were developing. The timing was better, much better. He understood the position, the demands that were asked.

That was last year. Millner is a freshman now at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C. He impressed the coaches so much that he was promoted to the varsity, the only freshman in the starting alignment. But he's learning all over again.

He's a wide receiver.

"I wanted to play. Where I played wasn't that important," says the 6-foot-1, 175-pound Millner, who admits that he's had some problems making the adjustment.

"Blocking is the biggest problem. As a quarterback, I'd never learned to block. As a wide receiver, I had to learn and I'm not very good at it."

Assistant Coach Garth Hall, who works with the receivers, said Millner was switched from quarterback because "we

Kickin' it around

by BOB FRISK Sports Editor

needed help outside and we felt he was a good enough athlete to make the change. He made the adjustment quickly.

"Now, he's our best all-around receiver. His downfield blocking still needs some work, but you don't just go out and learn that. He catches the ball well, and he's learning pass routes and how to read defenses."

Millner has caught eight passes for 120 yards, a 13.9 yards per catch average, in Wake Forest's frustrating 1-7-1 season. And he's been working against such defenses as Texas, South Carolina, Maryland, Clemson and Duke as the Deacons continue to engage in an ambitious schedule. Next year they add Oklahoma, Penn State and Oregon State.

"Catching the ball hasn't been that hard," says Millner. "I had never caught it in a game before, but I've had some experience catching a ball. The big thing is to lock it in, to be sure I have it. I can't think about the guys coming in. I know I'm going to get hit and I just have to take it."

Millner has remarkable poise for a freshman, and he landed a major varsity assignment early in the season, holding the ball for extra points and field goals. He handled the placements in the season debut when three Wake Forest field goals beat Florida State, 9-7. Wake Forest also uses Bill as their main man on punt returns.

"Bill doesn't have the great speed but he has the sure hands," reports Jim Huskams, assistant director of sports promotions at the Atlantic Coast Conference school. "He hasn't had that much chance to show what he can do running back punts because we usually fair-catch kicks. But he does have six returns, and he hasn't dropped any all year."

"Bill is very critical of himself," says Hall, the assistant coach. "The coaches grade films and the players grade themselves. One week, Bill gave himself a 40. We graded him 78. He penalizes himself for every little thing."

Wake Forest stands on gently rolling hills in Winston-Salem. So graceful and well-planned are the red-brick Georgian buildings. The campus is dominated by the chapel, but Wake Forest's Baptist beginnings are only slightly felt by the students. The school didn't hesitate to admit once an academically average Italian Catholic football player named Brian Piccolo.

Piccolo, who died of cancer in 1970, led the nation in rushing at Wake Forest, and it was his friendship with Chicago Bears' running back Gale Sayers that inspired the award-winning movie "Brian's Song," which was repeated on television this week.

Harper cagers play alumni

There will be a lot of experimenting done this Saturday night at St. Viator High School.

These experiments, though, won't be conducted in the science department. They'll be going on in the gymnasium.

The Harper Hawk basketball team will be opening the '73 campaign against returning alumni.

"We've never had this kind of game before at Harper, so it's sort of an experiment," said Bechtold. "We hope this kind of game will build up enthusiasm."

Bechtold hopes to get a look at all of his players in the alumni game, and also to detect the team's weaknesses and strengths.

"We're going to experiment with different people at different positions, so this game will be a help to us," commented Bechtold.

The Hawks, who have been practicing now for about a month, should be the favorite to win the game. The alumni have been practicing, but not to any great extent.

"This kind of game is usually one-sided, but you never can tell," explained the Hawk coach.

Even though Bechtold will be trying different combinations, he said that he'll still be going for a victory.

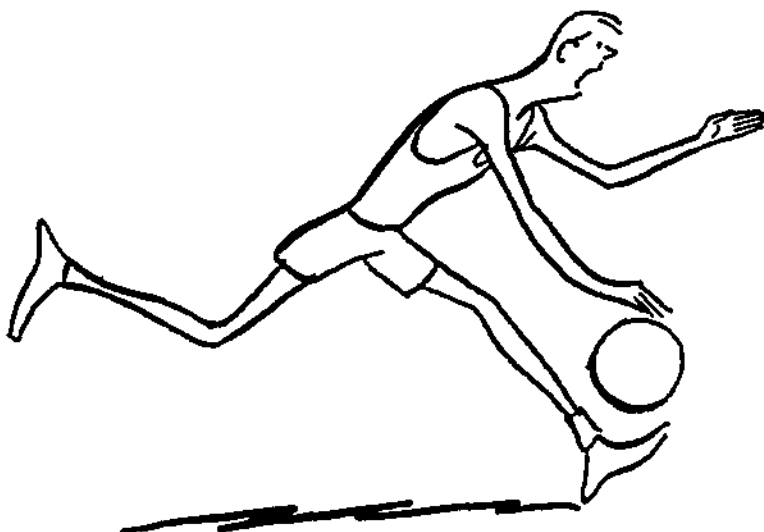

The Hawks' first regular season game will be played at Wright Junior College next Tuesday night at 7:30.

An open letter to used car buyers . . .

We at Sullivan Pontiac feel that it is unwise to pay too much but it's much worse to pay too little. When you pay too little you sometimes lose everything, because the thing you bought was supposed to do. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot — it can't be done. If you deal with the lowest bidder it is well to add something for the risk you take. And if you do that you will have taken enough to pay for something better. Do yourself a favor before you buy any car. Come in and just look at our cars. P.S. We're often imitated but never duplicated!

UPI state poll

New Trier East, Wheaton North and Evanston retained the top three spots in this week's United Press International prep football rankings.

Belleville West moved up to fourth, the highest ranking accorded a downstate team this fall. Rounding out the top five was Chicago St. Rita.

Rockford East is sixth with Deerfield and Tinley Park tied for seventh. Hillcrest held down ninth while Herrin and Glenbard West tied for 10th.

Big Ten x-country

Four Herald area athletes placed during recent Big Ten cross-country finals held at the University of Illinois. They were Northwestern's Bill Jarocki 15th (Fremont), Purdue's Gregg Gawlik 34th (Hershey), Illinois' Bill Allen 50th (Prospect) and Purdue's Kevin Wright 62nd (Moline West).

From campuses nationwide

—Ervin Kimbrough, the split end for Harper College, has been named to the Illinois Junior College All-Star football team. Kimbrough led the Hawks with 50 points and caught 29 passes for 437 yards.

—Frank Cliggett, who prepped at St. Vitor, has received a varsity football letter at St. Norbert College in DePere, Wis. Cliggett got his award for kicking 12-of-15 extra point tries and one field goal. He also played fullback.

—Washington State tackle Greg Craighead of Wheeling made eight tackles during the Cougars' recent 21-14 victory over Oregon.

Bulls' home games

The Chicago Bulls have just five home dates remaining this month in the Stadium. They'll play Portland next Tuesday night before hosting Phoenix on Friday and Detroit on Saturday. Other games are against Golden State (Nov. 27th) and New York (Nov. 30th).

All games except next Saturday's against the Detroit Pistons will start at 7:30 p.m. The Pistons game has a 1:40 p.m. tipoff.

Women's bowling

Membership in the Women's International Bowling Congress topped 3.3 million during the 1972-73 season marking the 27th consecutive season the Congress has reached a new plateau.

A reminder

There are 39 days until Christmas.

Hockey dinner

The Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Association will sponsor a spaghetti dinner from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Arlington High School cafeteria.

Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for any youngster 12 years old or younger. Tickets may be purchased from boys in the program or at the door.

Handball tourney

One hundred fifty men will compete in a Novelty Handball Tournament with a Thanksgiving turkey as top prize tomorrow at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. Games will be played from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Live stock exposition

The 74th International Live Stock Exposition will be held next Monday to Sunday at the International Amphitheatre in Chicago. World championship rodeo will begin on Wednesday and continue throughout the week.

Guest speaker

Daniel R. Prezoll, recreation director at Vacation Village in Fox Lake, is a panelist at this weekend's Illinois Parks and Recreation Conference being held in Arlington Park Towers.

Final Cougars' game

The Chicago Cougars will play their final home game of November tomorrow night when they host Toronto in a World Hockey Association game at the International Amphitheatre. WMMI-FM, 92.7 from Arlington Heights, will broadcast the action beginning with a 7:15 p.m. pre-game show. Bud Kelly will be at the mike.

Two little fishes

Herald area residents caught two fish recently while vacationing in Hayward, Wis. Richard Schier of Prospect Heights landed a five-pound, two-ounce walleye pike. Mike Klingler of Mount Prospect caught a one-pound, 11-ounce crappie.

Polar Dome clinic

A youth hockey clinic for boys 11 years old and younger will begin tomorrow at the Polar Dome Ice Arena, located in Santa's Village in Dundee.

The clinic will be held each Saturday for five weeks at a total cost of $15. Both classroom and on-the-ice instruction will be provided.

For further information, call the Polar Dome at 426-6751.

Warriors launch home ice schedule at Meadows rink

The suburban-based Chicago Warriors of the minor professional United States Hockey League will open their home season on Saturday night, Nov. 17, in the Rolling Meadows arena, 3900 Owl Drive.

The Warriors will face off against USHL member Marquette (Mich.) Iron Rangers at 8 p.m.

Rolling Meadows will be the Warriors' home ice until the organization's "Hat Trick" rink is completed in Villa Park.

"We hope to be in the new rink by the middle of December," said Warriors' President Emil Greco of Elmhurst. "I think we've surprised a lot of people by having the rink this far along."

The rink, located off Villa Avenue, a few blocks north of North Avenue in Villa Park, will have three ice surfaces, two of them measuring the regulation hockey size of 200 feet by 85 feet and the third serving as a 150 foot by 60 foot "studio" rink.

Seating for more than 2,000 will be provided.

"We want the Warriors to be identified as a part of the suburban sports and recreation scene," Greco said, "and the rink will be a big factor in this."

Tickets for the Warriors' 20 home games are available through the team office, 276-1200.

The Warriors were formed last year and played their home games in the Chicago Stadium. The team finished first in the Southern division of the United States League with a record of 27-15-0.

The Warriors were edged three games to two in the final series of the USHL playoffs last spring by Northern division champ Thunder Bay (Ont.) Twins.

Chicago set a league record for penalty minutes last season — 838.

Gene Ubriaco, 34, who played in the National Hockey League for the Chicago Black Hawks, Pittsburgh Penguins and Oakland-California Seals, returns as Warriors' coach.

He worked out with the World Hockey Association Chicago Cougars this fall and listened to various coaching offers, but decided to stay with the Warriors organization "because we have something to build here, a team that will eventually draw its strength from locally-developed players and a rink that will promote all levels of hockey."

Ubriaco has lost some of his players to the professional ranks, Chicago Junior hockey and other semi-pro teams, but has filled out the roster with a number of promising graduates of college and Canadian Junior hockey.

Goaltender Richie Dumas, who was named to the USHL Southern division Second All-Star team for the first half of last season, will be the Warriors' starting netminder. Dumas worked out with the Cougars this fall and would be available to them in case of an emergency.

Also returning are the Warriors' two leading scorers last season, right wing Ren Byrne, 26, who had 28 goals and 27 assists in 37 games; and center Rick Spooner, 22, who had 24 goals and 29 assists in 39 games.

"Niemet will serve as a spare, but we consider him a solid prospect," commented Ubriaco. Niemet, a Park Ridge resident and Maine South High School graduate, was given a tryout by the Cougars last year, but decided to play with the Warriors.

Ubriaco says that he is "intrigued" by some of the newcomers, including left wing George Basti, 30, a native of West Germany who now lives in Berwyn. Basti, 6-2 and 205 pounds, played European hockey and was given a tryout by the Cougars this fall.

Joining the Warrior offense is Notre Dame University graduate John Noble, 21, a center from Toronto, Ont. Noble led Notre Dame's hockey team in scoring and "important points" during his first three years at the university and was rated one of the best playmakers in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

Other newcomers include:

—Defenseman Robert Fee, 20, who played for the Montreal Junior Canadiens and had a tryout this fall at the camp of the WHA Cleveland Crusaders.

—Goalie Bob Besner, 20, who played

Junior "A" hockey at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

—Defenseman Paul McKibbin, 22, who played Junior hockey in Windsor, Ont. and at St. Clair College in Windsor.

—Forward Ed Tkychak, 20, who played for the Brandon, Man. Junior team.

—Robbie Hesketh, 20, a forward who played Junior hockey in his home town of Chilliwack, B.C.

—Goalie Henry Durkin, 20, who played Junior hockey in his hometown of Swift Current, Sask. and who was given a tryout by the Pittsburgh Penguins organization.

Warrior losses to the pro ranks included defenseman Al McKenzie, who is playing for Long Island in the Cougars organization; defenseman George Towers, with Columbus, Ohio in the St. Louis Blues organization; and right wing Jerry Fortier, with Clinton, N. J. in the WHO Toronto Toros system.

Wheeling's Liljeberg looks to future

'Going to get this turned around'

by PAUL LOGAN
What's disappointment?
For Mid-Suburban League champion Hersey, it's knowing that the end of its first game cost a perfect record as well as a prestigious state football ranking.
For South Division winner Elk Grove, it's knowing it almost won a third consecutive Super Bowl. Almost.
However, they seem insignificant when compared to the hopes that were crushed for Wheeling High School's team this past fall. The Wildcats varsity team suffered the biggest disappointment of all — a continued losing season.
Players such as Randy Wiest, probably the team's best overall lineman, had hoped to leave the 1972 season behind this year. As a junior, he lettered on a team that lost seven after winning its opener.
The fates didn't allow Wiest and his letterman teammates to forget the agony of defeat. For only the second time in the 10-year history of the school, Wheeling had a winless season, 0-8.
Couple this with last year's streak and you have Wheeling in the midst of the longest losing skid in MSL history. Few head coaches must go through such long periods without the thrill of victory, but even fewer probably have taken it as stoically as Jack Liljeberg. He's still optimistic!
"We know we've got a long way to go," he said in assessing next year. "We know it's not going to be easy. But we're going to get this thing turned around."

Ken Smith

Randy Wiest

Liljeberg recalled that his young men played a "decent game against Malmo South" in the season opener. Trailing 14-0, they nearly came back to win, falling short, 21-12.
Then came possibly the turning point in the season against Elk Grove. Wheeling struck for two quick touchdowns and was driving for a third when a fourth down play ended the threat.
"I thought they (Wildcats) played just about up to their potential in the first half," said Liljeberg of his team's half-time lead of 13-6.
The Wildcats began the second half like a winner, driving from their 42 relentlessly toward a crucial third score. An interception almost in the shadow of the Grove goal posts began the turnaround. Two plays later, Elk Grove's all-arounder — Don Weadley — raced 84 yards for a touchdown. The eventual division champs went on to win easily, 26-13.

"If we could have won that game and broke those streaks (Wheeling's losing won and Elk Grove's 17-game winning one), it could really have had the kids believing in themselves," said Liljeberg. "It might have made a difference in a couple of later games."
Although the "might have beens" are behind the Wildcats, Liljeberg had praise for Ken Slepicka, Carl Pfister, Jack Damore, Mike Kamins, Bill Frank and Paul Groot. He also singled out fullback-linebacker Ken Smith and guard Wiest.
"He probably was the best all-around ballplayer we had all year," said Liljeberg of Smith, the only all-conference Wildcat. "I'm sure he led us in tackles, especially the good hits (and was a top ball carrier)."

"Wiest was probably our best overall lineman all year. He did a pretty fair job of trapping."
Helping to replace these and other graduating seniors will be 16 lettermen, the most ever for Wheeling. Among the top players for '74 will probably be Scott Hildebrandt, a halfback who had a 90-yard kickoff return against Palatine; Bill Larson, a receiving and rushing sophomore wingback; and Al Newman, a tight end.
Wheeling lost possibly seven or eight junior starters when Buffalo Grove opened. Also a sizable group of sophomores were taken. Wheeling will have from 20 to 30 sophomores — including quarterback Glenn Barry — to draw from.
Liljeberg said the morale was "very good all year." With some super hungry juniors as sophomores on weight training this winter, an end could be in sight next fall.
And, speaking of disappointments earlier, Wheeling fans should take heart — Malmo North has lost 18 straight.

Enthusiastic response for River Trails net leagues

When River Trails Tennis Center organized its first competitive league last year, management crossed its fingers and hoped its cozy little eight-man "B"-level group would spark a trend.
Today a nine-court Mount Prospect facility has 187 men, women and juniors participating weekly in 13 "A," "B" and "C" circuits. Competition is tight, and players, particularly at the higher levels, come from such faraway places as Evanston, La Grange, Deerfield and the south side of Chicago.
Each league has an established schedule, a secretary and a cadre of substitutes. Players generally see action three weeks out of every four. Standings are published periodically, and some of the leagues are planning end-of-the-season get-togethers a la bowling.
"The league offers a competitive variety often missing indoors," observed River Trails pro Ken Mackowiak of Des Plaines. "Serious and social players alike can keep their games sharp by meeting opponents with differing styles, many of whom they would never see in the summertime."

Brunswick World Open begins Sunday

The world's greatest bowlers assemble in Glendale Heights, Ill., to compete in the 3rd annual $100,000 Brunswick World Open, Nov. 18 - 24, the second richest prize in the Professional Bowlers Association circuit.
Two-time "Bowler of the Year" Don Johnson heads the list of top pros shooting for the $14,000 first prize check. The Akron, Ohio righthander won the first two World Opens and nailed down the "Bowler of the Year" titles with those wins.
The largest foreign entry in the history of the tournament will find champions from 10 countries represented. Japan is sending four, Canada, Great Britain and West Germany two, Finland, Sweden, South Korea, Argentina, Honduras, Bolivia and Mexico one each. Puerto Rico will also be represented by one bowler.

A Pro-Am event will kick off the World Open on Sunday, Nov. 18. Some 400 men and women amateurs will get an opportunity to compete with touring pros for cash prizes. The winner will take home a $1,000 cash prize plus an all-expense trip early next year to the Winston-Salem Classic Championship Pro-Am at Winston-Salem, N.C.
Leading candidate for Bowler of the Year honors, Don McCune, Munster, Ind., will be one of the early favorites. The crew-cut righthander is the leading money winner on the PBA tour with over $66,000 in the bank and six titles this year to his credit.
Other top contenders will be Dave Soutar, Kansas City, Mo. righthander who won the ABC Masters title last spring and the Portland PBA Open last summer; Skee Foremsky, Houston, Tex., lefthander who captured the Brunswick European Cup this past summer; Bobby Cooper, now bowling out of Mexico City, who won the 1970 All-Star title here in Chicago; and Larry Laub, San Francisco, a second place finisher in the first Brunswick World Open; and veteran stars Dick Weber, St. Louis, Mo. and Chicagoan Carmen Salvino.

Pro competition will get underway Monday, Nov. 19, with the beginning of qualifying action. Each pro will bowl 24 qualifying games over three days. The field will be cut to the top 64 on Thanksgiving Day Nov. 22.
The top 64 will bowl eight more games and then the field will be cut to 24.
The top five remaining after the end of competition Friday, Nov. 23 will bowl in the television finals to be broadcast live nationally over the CBS Network from 3:30 to 5 p.m. (CST) Nov. 24.

Injuries, poor starts hit Knights

Defense busy in Prospect campaign

by JIM COOK

If Prospect's offense played as much as the defense, its varsity football record may have read 8-0 instead of 0-8.

"Our defense was on the field twice as much as our offense," Knight head coach Don Williams agreed. "You can't really fault our defense. I suppose it gets pretty demoralizing when you're on the field that much."

The statistics speak for themselves. Over eight games, Prospect's offense accounted for just six points in the first half. And the half-dozen were the result of two Curt Schavitz field goals.

Prospect was shut out completely in the first quarter of every game it played and each with a different quarterback.

"Of course it's tough on the kids to try to learn all the details of those offenses and to execute them effectively. But if we started the season over tomorrow, I think I would have done the same thing."

His reasoning is sound, for you can have the most sophisticated offense in the world, but if you don't have the bodies or talent to make it work, you're not going anywhere.

"We started with 50 kids," Williams said, "but we had just a ton of injuries and a couple kids quit, so I think we dressed 37 for our last game."

The Knights' biggest void was in the line where crippling disabilities limited the blocking and pass-protection forces to either inexperienced juniors or senior volunteers.

At one time or another, Mike Sullivan (knee), Keith Lexby (knee), Paul Youngquist (wrist), Mark Blomquist (ankle), Tim Boll (knee), Steve Forten (knee) and Jon Devero (ankle) were absent from Prospect's lineup.

"When things really got bad," Williams remembered, "our regular tight end John Franson came up to me and said 'I can play tackle. I don't know much about it, but if you teach me, I'll try to learn.' Those were the kinds of things that made this season rewarding."

Watching linebacker-fullback Mark Luciani made the season rewarding, too. The Knights' Most Valuable Player and all-conference selection paced the team with an average of 12 tackles and nine assists per game while managing to head the club in rushing with 127 yards in 33 games.

Prospect gathered what resources it had in its best showing of the season against South Division champion Elk Grove. The Knights protected a 3-0 half-time advantage, fell behind, 14-3 after three quarters and nearly balled the decision out with a fourth-period score that left them trailing only 14-11 at the final buzzer.

The same held true in Prospect's 9-7 loss to Conant and 16-8 season-ending defeat at the hands of Buffalo Grove.

"We had 17 juniors on the field at one time," Williams optimistically stated in looking ahead to 1974. "If we can stay healthy to the point where we can spend time practicing our specialty teams without fear of losing someone who is also a regular on offense and defense, we'll be in good shape."

Quarterbacks Mike Quade and Tom Bates will return to direct the Knights' attack that hopefully will give the defense a rest.

Brothers bowling tourney now accepting entry forms

Entry blanks are currently being distributed to tenpin enthusiasts for the 51st Annual Brothers Bowling Tournament held at Crossroad Lanes in Peoria, Dec. 23 through Feb. 24.

Former Journal Star Sports Editor Fred W. Tuerk got the ball rolling with 119 blood brother teams in 1922, making the "Brothers" the oldest tournament of its kind in the world!

The "Brothers" also ranks as the largest tournament of its kind anywhere. Last year it drew 3,265 teams from 15 states. The tournament's constantly growing popularity is expected to make the 51st a record-breaking year.

Commented "Brothers" director and Journal Star sports writer Jim Obert, "We have watched 'Brothers' grow from a purely local event to a classic rarity among American Bowling Congress Sanctioned Tournaments. In our 51st year, we hope bowling blood brothers throughout Illinois and the Midwest, will help make this our biggest and best 'Brothers' Tourney yet."

"Brothers" is open to bowlers of all ages with bowlers under 19 years of age competing for trophies under rules of Junior Bowling organizations.

Two sets of brothers will be named champions in handicap and scratch categories. Handicap champions will take home trophies and $500; scratch champions, trophies and $250. Many more prizes will be awarded, and the prize fee is still only $1 per brother.

Deadline for getting in entries is midnight, Dec. 9. Blanks are available at select local bowling allies in your area, or by contacting: Brothers Bowling, c/o Jim Obert, 1 News Plaza, Peoria, Ill. 61601. Obert may be contacted at 309-688-2411.

The Journal Star's "Big S" Sports Section is recognized throughout the midwest for outstanding coverage in all areas of sports. A leader in fields ranging from news reporting to advertising methods, the newspaper serves more than 350,000 persons in downstate Illinois.

We defy you to order a car dealer's "rustproofing" now that you know all about Ziebart rustproofing:

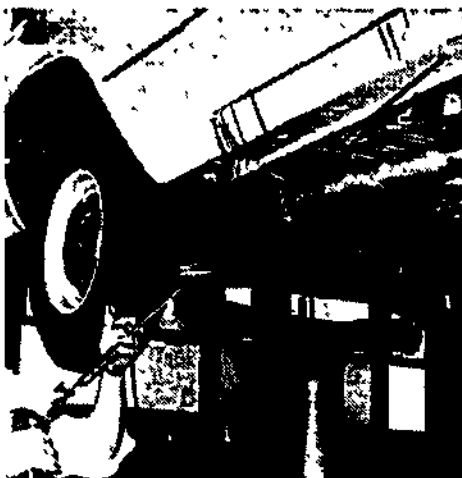

1. If you think your car dealer's "rustproofing" is factory approved, forget it.

No car manufacturer has the facilities to train rustproofing specialists. Or technical manuals for each and every car. Or specialized tools. (Where most "rustproofers" have two or three tools, we have nine. All patented.) Whatever a car dealer offers you is his own responsibility.

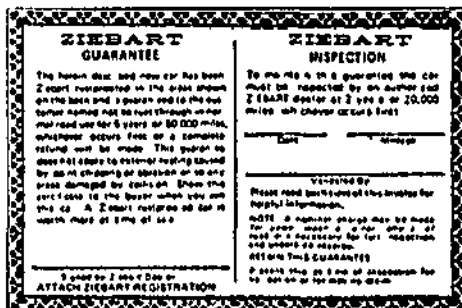

2. The Ziebart Process. Guaranteed to run and drip. And work.

Anybody who says he has "drip-proof" rustproofing doesn't have real rustproofing. Our sealant runs so it can penetrate seams—even welded seams. It runs, covers, spreads—protects. That's why rustproofing takes a full day at Ziebart: Only after the running and dripping is complete do we give you your new car back.

3. Would you believe we know more about the inside of your new car than any car dealer?

Being specialists, we are experts in our line of work. We use new car drawings as well as blueprints to determine exactly where the boxed-in, hidden areas are on every car. And just as important, we know where not to drill holes that might weaken or even damage your new car.

4. We give you a guarantee you can depend on.

It's a real guarantee. A full, money-back guarantee. A 5-year/50,000-mile new car guarantee against rust-through that's good at any Ziebart location worldwide. If you need service, your guarantee will be honored.

5. 1,000 car and truck fleet managers could have picked any "rustproofing." Instead, they picked Ziebart.

Ask the guys who make their living buying and selling cars and trucks. We rustproof for the U.S. government. For the City of Detroit. For major companies like Olin Corporation. For N.A.S.A. And unlike some "rustproofers", we don't use one grade of sealant to meet government specs and another grade on your car. We have only one grade—the best.

6. It's all we do for a living. We have to do it better.

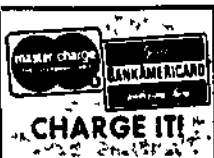

Rustproofing is what we do all day, every day. Our people are all trained in Ziebart technical schools. All of them use our exclusive patented spray tools.

7. The only way to get rustproofing "as good as Ziebart" or "the same as Ziebart" is to get Ziebart rustproofing.

Sure, you may be told by your car salesman that you'll get something "as good". Because word gets around about just how good our process is. But now you know that there is no way to get Ziebart rustproofing from a car dealer. No way. The best thing you can do for your new car is to say "No thanks." Then come see us.

And if you don't get it here, you're not getting Ziebart rustproofing:

Jackson (Bob Frisk's Kickin' It Around column Nov. 9), I am sure that you know what these boys go through to reach this pinnacle in their running career. I feel that they are as deserving as football, tennis, and golf to have a team photo appear on the pages of your newspaper.

After all, cross country is a team effort, not an individual effort.

Name withheld by request

Palatine

You're absolutely right, and there is a picture running today. However, this was planned before your letter arrived. There was a mixup at the end of the season because our cross country editor, who handles all the harrier coverage, left just before the state meet to take a new position in Michigan. Consequently, there were some problems to be straightened out. We don't think we have "completely disregarded" the Fremd cross country team, but we do appreciate your interest. As far as the paper shortage and the full-page spread on the Super Bowl, there was only one Mid-Suburban game to be previewed last Friday, not six games as in the past. This opened up the sports section and considering the thousands of people who were at Elk Grove for the championship, it appears that the big spread for that game was justified.

LIKED SUPER BOWL COVERAGE

Dear Fans Forum:

I thoroughly enjoyed your preview and coverage of the football game at Elk Grove last Friday night, and I see where you won another first place award in sports. It's well deserved and I know our family always looks at the sports page first. Keep up the good work.

Mrs. Sharon Nelson

Arlington Heights
A BECKERT FAN

Dear Herald:

Glenn Beckert was always my favorite Cub because he seemed like such a gentleman. I think Don Kessinger is the same way. If the Cubs trade Kessinger too, then I don't think I could be a fan anymore.

Terri Ballenger

LET'S WAIT AND SEE

Dear Fans Forum:

People knock the Cubs if they make trades and if they don't. I don't know that much either about these new players they are getting, but at least they're trying to make some changes. Let's wait until next year at this time before making any judgment on the trades. If the new players stiff out, then rap the Cubs. Let's wait and see.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN NIGHT AND DAY

Dear Fans Forum:

After Bobby Douglass had a decent game against Green Bay, Abe Gibrion said, "What a difference a day makes."

You're right, Abe. And what a difference a night makes. Your Bears were a national disgrace Monday night and Douglass went back to his old habits.

One game does not make a quarterback, Abe. Count up the good games for Douglass and the bad ones and then evaluate. If you do that, you'll know that the Bears need a change at the most important position on any football team. Douglass has had time. He has shown absolutely no consistency.

Highlights of Schaumburg hockey

Please double space in future.

GULL DIVISION

King Mites (ages 7 & 8)
Spartans 2, Schaumburg 1

This one was closer than the score indicates from a physical standpoint. The difference was in the defense with the Spartans getting 37 shots on goal to 15 for the Kings. Jamie Marx Shipplough continued to be impressive with 25 saves.

Both teams were evenly matched through two and one-half periods. The Spartans' size eventually won out as they scored three goals in the last 12 minutes.

Mike Stevenson, with an assist from Scott Dunne, got the only point on the King's side of the board.

Schaumburg 17,
Hoffman Estates 2

Schaumburg rebounded from their tough loss to the Spartans with an impressive display of power hockey against a surprised Hoffman squad.

Mike Stevenson scored a double hat-trick and Brad Sterling picked up one of his own. Scott Dunne, Vince Russo, and Joel Haggall added two goals each while David Bowman and John Holinski each scored once.

McArthur Realty Squirts (ages 9 & 10)

Glenview All Stars 8

The Kings blasted the Stars as Scott McArthur registered another shutout. Mike Holinski led the parade of scoring with four goals, while Dan Reilly picked a pair for himself. Other goals were scored by Doug Parliament and Joe Zeller. Assists came from Jody Horn, with four; Mike Bastone and Doug Parliament with three each; and Joe Zeller, Tony Devlin and Pat Gourley with an assist each.

Schaumburg 3, Spartans 2

In what had to be the game of the year for the Kings so far, Schaumburg beat down a very tough Spartan team. In an earlier match, the Kings could only walk away with a tie. Bill Dunne, burned the Spartans with two goals and two assists and Mike Rutinski scored his second hat-trick in as many games. Bob McKernon, John MacIntosh and Jody Horn picked up points for assists.

Schaumburg 6, Palatine 1

In their third start in as many days, the McArthur Squirts downed a spunky Palatine team. Palatine always a great competitor, was held to only four shots on goal by outstanding defense.

Doug Parliament picked up a goal and an assist as did Dan Reilly and Pat Gourley. Mike Rutinski and Dan Bragatz each scored unassisted. Carl Davis, Joe Zeller and Jody

Horn each assisted in scoring efforts.

Arrow Shoot Metal Pee-Wees

Schaumburg 3, Spartans 2

Schaumburg's earlier loss to the Spartans was avenged in a hard, cracking session on the ice. The Kings weren't to be denied twice. Mike Hurske, Scott Ross and Bob Vuglar each contributed goals for the Kings. Vuglar was singled out for his outstanding performance in the game.

Schaumburg 2, Palatine 1

Take two evenly matched teams, and you have a battle on your hands. Palatine managed 17 shots on goal and Schaumburg had 19. The hitting was hard and neither team was going to let the other coast.

Benji Housh stopped the puck past Palatine's goalie unassisted. The Kings' second score came from Scott Ross assisted by Kevin Kilmer.

King Mustangs (ages 13 & 14)
Palatine 3, Schaumburg 3

Like out-kick-off slipping through the fingers, the Kings Mustangs saw this slip away. The Mustangs, who have excellent talent, just couldn't put it together. Mike Reilly put two goals home, one unassisted. Craig Landis scored the third goal. Assists were by Landis, Kurt Kinzer, Kevin Granstron and Mike Weber.

Dunbar Realty Midgets

(ages 13 & 14)

Schaumburg 3, Palatine 1

Penalties were the order of the day in this encounter which saw the Kings and Palatine tied 1-1 for most of the game. It wasn't until the third period that the Kings broke loose and put the game on ice.

Mike Washburn led the assault with two goals and one assist. One of Mike's goals was unassisted. Carter, Dixon and LePrieux rounded out the goal scoring. John Freeman's presence was felt by Palatine on his two assists. Others assisting in the scoring effort were Ed Washburn, Mike Fahry, Moose Pollard, Bob Payson, Bob Krause and Barry Kaziminski. In spite of a great defense, new King goalie Bill Ernst was baptized with 15 shots on goal.

Campbell, Inc. Juniors

Schaumburg 10, Skidoo Cobras 0

Goalie Greg Tataraki not only shut out the Cobras, he actually racked up an assist through heads up play. Tataraki passed to Dan Weiss who set up Bob Harkness for the score.

Tom Althausen whipped two fingers into the net and assisted on another. Steve Bird scored three and assisted on two others. John Reburn assisted on two scores, but dumped one in of his own. Ed Pinneran scored a goal and an assist as did Weiss and Waller. Don Neumann also scored for the Kings in what was no less than a massacre when the final horn sounded.

PIERCE DIVISION

King Mites (ages 7 & 8)

Dundee 3, Schaumburg 0

Dundee and Schaumburg clashed with Dundee coming out on top despite a fine King effort. Schaumburg's defense played well and goalie Nick Cleva managed to keep the scoring down with some outstanding saves in the net.

King Squirts (ages 9 & 10)

Schaumburg 3, Lake In The Hills 0

A hard skating, much improved Squirt team downed Lake In The Hills for their first victory of the season. Schaumburg shot on goal 23 times while the Kings' defense held the opponent to three.

John Slavin scored a hat-trick with assists by Mike Malawski and Tom Anderson. Goalie Howard Leek played a fine game to earn his first shutout.

Elk Grove 2, Schaumburg 0

The King Pee-Wees played a hard-checking, fast-skating Elk Grove team to take their third defeat of the season. Goalie Mike Olaszewski played an outstanding game, stopping 25 of 27 shots on goal.

Elk Grove 6, Schaumburg 1

A strong Elk Grove team peppered King goalie Dan Gorman with 41 shots and walked away winners by only two. But Schaumburg had a few salvos of their own. Red Wade scored a hat-trick and Wally Walt whipped one past Elk Grove. Assists in the game went to Kings Pat Kennedy, Mike Kennedy and Bob Vuglar.

King Midgets (ages 13 & 14)

Schaumburg 2, Elk Grove 1

Led by Steve Casper, the Kings dumped Elk Grove in a close one. Casper scored both King goals with assists by Todd Zarka and Mike Eisenhower.

Spartans 6, Schaumburg 1

The King Midgets were defeated by a hard-checking, well-balanced Spartan team which completely dominated the game. Mark Busch was the lone goal scorer for the Kings.

Dundee 6, Schaumburg 1

Powerful Dundee defeated the hard-skating Juniors, despite a nearly equal number of shots on goal. Mike Stendall scored Schaumburg's only goal, unassisted, to spoil a Dundee shutout.

Bitter ending but there is hope

Demons on road back in football

by MIKE KLEIN

Yes, Mike Donatucci, you've had an interesting autumn, playing all taped up and bruised with your leg spasms and back problems.

In early October, the faithful elected you Homecoming King. So you offered thanks with a 56-yard punt return TD that helped Maine East defeat Maine North, 26-0.

Your teammates, although weighed down by no late season success, named you the Blue Demons' Most Valuable Player.

Then Monday night, Central Suburban football coaches voted you to their All-Conference team. You're joined by teammates Rick Filas and Joe Zimmerman.

But as it happened, your Maine East football season stopped for short of head coach Al Eck's optimism. True, the Demons won three football games, one more than last year and a big jump over their 6-8 performance of 1971.

But when Maine had a chance to finish 4-4 and in second place (3-2) of the CSL North division, the "good attitude" Eck had savored for so long disappeared.

It was a 17-0 season-ending loss at Highland Park that proved the Demons aren't yet over-the-hump to a successful grid program. One win over a team that started 0-5 would have assured a .500 campaign, Maine's first since 1967.

But instead, Highland Park closed with three straight wins for a 3-5 season and third place (3-2) in the North. Maine dropped three straight, also for a 3-5 season, but just 2-3 and fourth in conference play.

"A couple kids, real blue-chippers like Donatucci and Filas, played their tails off (at H-Park). But as a group, they just weren't up," Eck said. "A lot of yelling and jumping up-and-down in the huddle doesn't indicate if kids are ready to hit. You've really got to have it down deep."

The Demons had it "down deep" the previous week at Glenbrook South. And they left it there, on the Titans' north goal line, when the hosts scored with three seconds remaining to win, 14-7.

Coupled with a 21-0 demolition loss against Glenbrook North that started their three-game swoon, that was enough to eliminate East from CSL North title contention.

"The kids came back higher than a kite against Glenbrook South," Eck said. "That was just for a mathematical chance at the division. When we got beat in the last three seconds, that was it. I know I didn't get over that game until Wednesday of the next week."

Ahead lay only Highland Park, a club with two straight wins over Maine North and New Trier West but still not highly respected. Those two, after all, finished the season at 1-13.

"We preached about the difference between third place and a tie (with New Trier West) for fourth, about how it meant more ammunition going into the All-Conference meeting," Eck said. "They just didn't buy it."

"That was it; what can you say? We just didn't come to play ball. Their parents have a tough time understanding them. I'm just with 'em a few weeks."

But East's second year in the CSL was not a total loss.

The Blue Demons won three straight for the first time since 1962 by defeating Maine North (26-0), Niles East (12-0) and New Trier West (12-7).

Back-to-back shutout wins equalled a barrier not reached since 1959; and Selection of Donatucci, Filas and Zimmerman to the All-CSL team bettered last year's total by one when only tackle Bill Castanzo and halfback John Wolff were honored.

However, to Eck's dismay, his Demons:

—Scored only seven points during the three-game swoon after picking up 36 in the opening five dates;

—Were blanked on three weekends, by Evanston (26-0), Glenbrook North (21-0) and Highland Park (17-0); and —Flopped totally at Highland Park.

Losing to Evanston is no disgrace. Maine has no business competing against the Suburban League anyway. Anybody can see that. With a more equal opponent, they still might have been .500.

None of the All-CSL players will return, all being seniors. Donatucci carried 40 times for 116 yards and a single TD, but it was his defensive work at cornerback that prompted All-CSL selection.

Filas, the Demons' captain, was East's No. 1 center and a starting linebacker. Zimmerman, best college prospect among the trio due to his size (175) and speed, played defensive back.

Also gone are quarterback Mark

Franklin plus much of the line including standouts Jim D'Antonio and Jim Koukios. Lenny Cymbal, the 245-pound tackle, departs. Franklin passed for 448 yards.

The key returner, and cog to an improved offense, will be running back Mike Lauesen. He ad 135 rushes, 540 yards and five touchdowns. Lauesen was the No. 7 CSL scorer with 32 points.

Lauesen caught eight passes for 166 yards. Scott Magnuson's 11 receptions led the team. Donatucci had seven.

If there's another bright spot, it's the second straight CSL sophomore title Maine East gained this year. A better varsity is expected next season.

As Eck said, "It's turning our way, but a lot slower than I thought. I figured this group could be 4-4 and then we'd work from there."

Arlington Heights minor hockey

(Ed, Neler We are happy to run the results of the Arlington Heights Association, but we would appreciate double-spaced material and not all capital letters on some results. It was difficult to piece together some of this week's highlights. Also, the winning team is always put first in a score, regardless of what town they represent. Thank you.)

Traveling Team
Naperville 6, Arlington Heights 4
In this game played at Naperville, John Walsh, Jeff Gardner, Jim Ryan and Mike Reizer scored in the first period with assists from Scott Whittier, Bob Bettis, Tom MacDonald and Rich Miner. Brian Looker and Mike Reizer scored in the second period assisted by Rich Miner, Scott St. Pierre and John Walsh. Bob Bettis and Gerry Dudziak wrapped up the scoring in the final period, both goals assisted by Tom MacDonald. Dave DeLeane and Dino Pierotti shared goaltending and the first shutout of the year.

Arlington Heights 2, Palatine 1
Arlington won this first game of Northern Illinois Hockey League play after giving up a goal in the first few minutes of play. Great goaltending by Palatine kept Arlington scoreless until the third period when Scott Whittier scored with an assist from John Walsh. Bob Bettis shortly after, driving in the winning goal with an assist from Tom MacDonald.

Arlington Heights 1, Oak Lawn 0
Great goal tending by Dave DeLeane was a major factor in this victory over a fine Oak Lawn team. John Walsh scored two goals, Tom MacDonald and Bill McGuire one apiece. Assists were earned by Bob Bettis, Gerry Dudziak, Mike Reizer, Scott Whittier and Chris Lindahl.

House League
Rob Roy Raiders 6, Hangeret Bruins 3
Rob Roy dominated the first period scoring four goals. In the second period Hangeret took over scoring three unanswered goals. The third period netted two goals for each team. From Rob Roy, Rich Herdick scored twice and assisted on two other goals. Jeff Smith, Ron Schwenker, Brian Schmidt and Rich Miner each scored once. Brian Schmidt, Terry Jack, Rich Miner, Ron Schwenker each picked up one assist while Tom Lock assisted on two goals.

Hangeret goals were scored by Paul Kula and Dave Zimmer, with two apiece and Kent McLeisa. Assists came from Kent McLeisa (3), Marty Morina, Dave Zimmer, Ben Mattox and Marty Szpaniak.

Rob Roy 7, Hallmark 2
Rob Roy goals were scored by Jeff Smith and Rich Miner with a pair each and Kevin Golden, Rich Herdick and Tom Powell. Scott McFieley scored twice for Hallmark. Vern Kirkpatrick notched the other.

Rob Roy assists came from Rich Miner and Rich Herdick (2). Hallmark assists came from Doug Kinney and Tom Olcese.

Dino Pierotti played half the game in goal for Rob Roy earning a shutout, while Steve Vayk who played the other half, made some fine saves while his team suffered through a rash of penalties.

Hallmark Hawks 5, Hangeret Bruins 1
Scott McFieley scored a hat trick for Hallmark. Tom Olcese and Jeff Westrom scored the other goals. Tom Olcese earned two assists. Mike Pletch one. Jon Lamp and Bill Morrison played outstanding hockey. In the nets, Kent McLeisa, assisted by John MacIver, scored for Hangeret.

Arlington Soft Water 1, Johnson's Sporting Goods 2
Johnson goals were scored by Christenson and Bakas, with assists from Schmidt and Smith. Grasseman scored unassisted for Soft Water.

MITE DIVISION
House League
Arlington Jaycees 2, Arlington 4-2
This first game of the Mite season ended in a tie, both teams playing fine hockey. Todd Johnson scored both goals for the Jaycees, unassisted, while Pat O'Brien and Doug Ryan scored for the 4's, both unassisted.

Pete DeGhincini in the nets for the 4's and Brian Pond for the Jaycees each made some fine saves, both stopping a number of breakaways.

Pee Wee Traveling Team
Arlington 3, Glenview 1
In the first period Tony Aiello scored on a power play. In the second and third periods goals were scored by Lee Gray (hat trick) and Dan Porosinski, assists by Aiello (2), Mark Meyer, Paul Darbozo and John Mitchell. Good goal tending by Jim Murphy allowed only one goal.

Palatine 2, Arlington 1
In the first N.I.H.L. game of the season Arlington was defeated by one goal. Dan Porosinski scored the Arlington goal assisted by Tony Aiello.

Pee Wee House League
Firefighters 3, Hazel 1
Both teams opened up in the first period with one goal each. Hazel scored first. Billy Mitchell, assisted by Don Chatten and O. B. Berke. Firefighters goals scored by Lee Schmidt, George Kostopoulos, and Larry Smith. Assists by Kostopoulos (2), Smith, and Schmidt. Good goal tending by both Jim Aiello (Hazel) and Kevin McGuire (Firefighters) helped keep the score low.

City Wrestling 3, Incentive Services 1
The big scorers of the game were Conny Klutane with five goals and Paul Laverling who got a hat trick for City Wrestling. City Wrestling's assists from Roy Jenks (2), Jeff Johnson, Ed Cann, Jim Mundorf, Andreas Oster, and Klutane.

Incentive Services goal was scored in the first period by Bob Hillstrom and assisted by Tom Estey.

After playing up two goals in the first period against Niles, the Pee Wees battled back to play well in the second and third segments. The lone goal by Tim Butler, assisted by Mark Meyer, just wasn't enough.

Arlington 3, Madison 2
The Travelers came from behind and broke the tie in the third period to defeat Madison Southside Hockey Club, 3-2. Meyer picked up two goals, Rick Garber the other, with single assists going to Paul Barlow, Larry Cahan, Steve Schraeger, and Dean Schraeger.

Arlington 6, Madison 2
Cahan and Garber took turns assisting each other in the first period and single goals were scored by Meyer, Lee Gray, Andy Chatten, and Steve Schraeger. Chatten also earned an assist as did Dan Porosinski, Tony Aiello, and Paul Laverling.

Pee Wee House League (ages 11-12)
Incentive Services Blazars 3, Hazel 2nd, Saluts 1
Bill King scored the opening goal of the house season, assisted by Billy Mitchell and Hurch Holfield for Hazel, but the Incentive Blazars came back hard with two goals by Tom More and one each for Chuck Klingler, Mark Brawley, and Tom Estey. Assists were earned by Klingler, Brawley (3), More (2), and Steve Hall.

Firefighters 6,

City Wrestling 3, Hazel 2
Brian Rietke's hat trick and two goals by George Kostopoulos led the Firefighters to an easy win over City Wrestling. Larry Smith scored the Flames' sixth goal and assists were awarded to Tim Blitch, Lee Schmidt, and Sean Casey. Conny Klutane scored the Chargers' goals, both unassisted.

There are still a few openings for boys in the Pee Wee House League. For information, call Dan Chatten at 394-1788.

Dollaske earns top coach honors for soccer season

by MIKE KLEIN

Maine East's Bob Dollaske was named Coach-of-the-Year Wednesday night at the second annual Illinois High School Soccer Coaches Association banquet.

Also honored on the All-State team were Maine East back Phil Ludkowski and forward Louie Massong, both seniors.

Dollaske piloted the Blue Demons to a 12-4-1 season record, the Central Suburban League title and a sectional finals berth after East began with three losses and one tie.

Maine strung together 12 consecutive victories before losing, 2-1, in overtime to Lake Forest at the Niles West sectional finals.

In eight years at Maine, Dollaske's teams have compiled a 62-35-11 record. He's had only one losing season and the Demons were state champions in 1968. He has coached 15 All-State players since 1967.

Massong, voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates, set season (21) and career (33) goals scored records this year. In both cases, he exceeded Russ Anderson who totaled 19 with a season high of 17 during his senior year of 1971.

Massong and Ludkowski, plus Maine's Brad Bold and Bob Gullberg, were honored on the All-Central Suburban team this fall. Dave Welsbecker and Bill Ye-dor earned All-North division selection.

The CSL contributed five other players to the 22-man All-State squad. Others are Stuart Biegel, Jim Melamed and Mike Roeder of New Trier West, Highland Park's Dan Brugioni and Niles West's Dave Shelton.

Also on Wednesday night, the Soccer Association honored D. J. Nottis as its Man-of-the-Year. Nottis has been active in American soccer since the 1930's and is the author of many rule guides and instructional pamphlets.

Nottis serves as national chairman of the Youth Promotion Committee — U.S. Soccer Football Association.

Larry Lujack, idol of the airways, with his automatic shades.

Just a boy from Idaho

Larry Lujack, Superjock

JOE SWICKARD

Heeey Kids. It's Superjock, with a nose for news, slippin' you the skinny and latest views on your old buddy, the No. 1 boss rock jock, the one with all the drollest talk — Superjock.

Yes, children. Larry Lujack, your prime nifty neighbor from the Northwest suburbs, takes the time to tell you how he doesn't need a Stringray to be happy. Or, how he could be content to spin Merle Haggard on some little daytimer out West for all the lonesome cowpokes.

It's been a long trail from his home state of Idaho to be the Voice of Rancor. Along the way he acquired a new surname and a six-figure salary. (One has to wonder about somebody who takes the name of a Chicago Bears quarterback, Johnny Lujack, his boyhood hero. I hope there is no budding announcer wondering if tacking "Douglass" to his name would boost his career.)

LUJACK IS properly long and lean as he ambles down the WCFL corridors to the office he shares with World Famous Tom Murphy. To set the record straight, memos to them are addressed to "Super" and "World" respectively.

He wears a rock-'n'-roller cowboy shirt, hand-bleached jeans and zipper boots. Chain smoking, feet on the desk, the voice begins.

The voice is familiar, but more personal. Lujack seldom reveals his eyes, hidden by his automatic shades. He often faces the wall when he speaks and then the professional quality comes through.

All right, what makes a young man happy? What does he like best about a job that pays a reported $100,000 a year?

"Yeah, it's hard. But, I've got something I've always wanted — a five-day week, except during the rating periods. I've been working seven days a week for the last six years."

He paused to watch somebody's kids get a tour of the station. They, in turn, paused to peek at him.

"MY TIME GETS taken up. I used to play some golf and get in some skiing, but I don't have the time any more. I cut my last vacation short. Came back to do a fashion show and a Chicago concert. I've got a store opening this Saturday."

The voice became adamant. "Ain't enough money! Yeah, it's worth it. I bitch about getting no sleep, but I'm well reimbursed."

Money, money, money. The gossip columns offer tantalizing tidbits about Lujack jumping here or there for more money. He is up front about the negotiations and what would motivate his moving again.

In August, he said, "I've been talking to New York. I don't like living here. I hate living here. If there was enough money I'd consider going. I've never been to New York. Oh, I drove through it at 3 in the morning. I think I'd like it even less there from what I've heard. You know it's depressing spending at least an hour and 45 minutes just driving to work each day."

THIS WEEK, he said, "I'm still talking to New York and someone here in Chicago. I should know by next week what's happening."

If I recall correctly, you said you'd only go to New York for the really big bucks. Is that still true?

"Yep. That's still the situation."

Yes, that's one situation. There's another situation which might be the force behind his drive for money.

"If I had my druthers? I'd be gentleman rancher sitting on the veranda watching other people working with my herd of white face Herefords."

Lujack wants a ranch out West. He has a goal set for himself and when he gets there, he's gettin' out.

"I had a ranch. But then the divorce. I guess you aren't show biz unless you've been divorced at least once. At one point, I was two years away from the ranch. Now, it's going to take a while longer. I wouldn't miss all this at all. I don't need a Stringray to be happy. You bet I could be happy out in some little daytime station playing Johnny Cash and Charlie Pride."

ROCK 'N' ROLL radio offers just about as much job security as a colonel's coup in some banana republic. The ones who spin the wax to watch can pull an amazingly fast fade if the ratings slip or the station manager decides you're too old to peddle the pimple preparations.

"I've been on Chicago radio six years.

He still dreams of a herd of Herefords.

I guess that makes me a rock 'n' roll exception. I don't think there's an age limit when you can't do it anymore."

He said he plans to stay around a long time, but you'll probably never see him on late night TV with another set of fabulous golden oldies. All his listeners would probably come down with terminal acne if he started praising some quarter-acre Arizona ranchette where you get to rake the rocks under a blazing sun.

He understands his job: Getting listeners for the men who buy commercial time on his show.

He said, "I'm not a purist about music." He then added cryptically, "You gotta use worms to catch more fish."

Look, they're dancin'

Though the practice sessions each night attracted more couples than the actual competition, last week's dance contest at Fiddlers Supper Club in Mount Prospect rewarded the brave, often surprised, winners with free dinners and splits of champagne.

The King Fleming Trio provided the music for the three-night contest that culminates next Tuesday when last week's winners return to compete for the grand prize, a weekend for two at the Playboy Club in Lake Geneva.

Couples may enter one of several categories including the cha-cha, fox trot, waltz, polka, rock, rumba and jitterbug.

PARTICIPATING FROM this area are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Louiselle of Arlington Heights; John Austin and Marilee Vuklitch, both of Mount Prospect; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gerstung of Des Plaines; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swartz of Schaumburg; Mr. and Mrs. John Little of Mount Prospect; and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Cade of Arlington Heights.

The contest will begin at 9 p.m. in the downstairs cocktail lounge of the supper club located at Algonquin and Busse Roads in Mount Prospect.

KING FLEMING and his trio entertain in the downstairs cocktail lounge of Fiddlers Supper Club. They'll provide music for next Tuesday's dance contest which begins at 9 p.m.

'You gotta use worms to catch more fish,' observes Superjock.

Dad might enjoy seeing antique auto museum

If you can drag Dad away from the football game on TV one of these week-ends, tell him you'll take him to a museum which has the kind of relics he will surely enjoy seeing, and it has nothing to do with dinosaurs and African masks.

Take him to the Chicago Historical Antique Automobile Museum at 3160 Skokie Valley Rd. in Highland Park. Here are displayed 28 antique cars and assorted automotive memorabilia, all shown to the tunes and voices of 1930 radio shows. You can see "Big Bill" Thompson's (mayor of Chicago in the late '20s) dual-cowl phaeton, complete with private bar, while listening to Fibber McGee open the door to his famous overstuffed closet.

NOT ALL the cars are that old, for in addition to antiques (those which are over 25 years) are several "classics," which are valuable for reasons other than age. For instance, the 1932 Russian sedan, looking very no-nonsense and — well, Russian. Then there's the 1937 Cord model 812, which, although of antique classification, is very airy and sleek in design. See the 1929 Model "J" Duesenberg which did a top speed of 130 miles and could still do it, so they say. And the gold-trimmed 1936 Rolls Royce once owned by the British royal family, an impressive collection of nuts and bolts.

The owner of most of these special cars is J. J. Born of Northbrook, who is president of the museum. Others have contributed examples toward the display,

Collecting with Grace Carolyn

both private individuals and companies such as the Checker Cab.

THE KIDS will enjoy the "Invisible" car and mom will like the plush interiors of many of the classic oldies. In addition, there are art displays such as that by General Motors made for the 1933 Chicago World's Fair, showing hand-carved figures of automobile workers.

The man who tinkers with his Model A Ford in our garage was especially taken with the 1932 Auburn, which stands in regal splendor, spotlighted on the dark maroon carpeting. No greasy oil stained cement floors for these kings and queens of the automotive world!

The admission price, and well worth it, is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children, and the museum is open every day of the year from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

If you have questions about any antiques or collectibles, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Suburban Living, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope.

'Boys on Bus' scrutinizes White House press corps

THE BOYS ON THE BUS
by TIMOTHY CROUSE
Random House $7.95

Absolute power may corrupt absolutely, but it also has some effects on those around it. Some get corrupted, too, while others tend merely to stand in awe, unable to act as they should. So it is at the White House, the most powerful place on earth.

In recent years, the press has been one of several institutions struggling to cope with that power, to stand up to it. Until Watergate, the Congress, the Supreme Court, the bureaucracy, the national political parties, the news media — all were bending in the Presidential breeze.

Nowhere was the obedience of the media more of a problem than in the White House press corps, the men responsible for explaining to the people what the President is doing and what it all means. They're fighting back now, but a year ago they were more likely to go along, to take the handout or the photo opportunity and leave it at that. Ron Ziegler embodies the contempt in which they were held.

"IN A WAY," as Tim Crouse says in emerged clearly before the election: an indecisive, inept man who had trouble choosing issues and subordinates.

The Senator's warts came through and the electorate saw them clearly. But for some reason, there were different standards for Nixon. He campaigned as The President, not The Candidate and the press let him get away with it. It turns out we had two inept candidates who couldn't choose issues or subordinates. But Ron Ziegler and Co. rendered those faults inoperative.

WHILE THE reporters were dashing to the phones to call in the latest non-story on the latest campaign non-event, the people were being snubbed by massive amounts of misleading, simplistic advertising. Crouse quotes Brit Hume, Jack Anderson's former legman:

"You think anyone's interested in all these polls, or the cruel served up by the guys riding around in the press plane? Hell, no. It's just a waste of time. All those reporters care about is 'Who's gonna run, who's gonna win?' And that just isn't enough. The press has a greater responsibility than to do a bunch of god-dam handicapping stories."

Crouse's book asks the right questions about the role of the press, questions that need some new answers.

—Bob Casey

The book stall

this provocative book, "one could not blame Ziegler for openly disdaining the White House press corps. They were such a bunch of patsies. If they bought his act, they would buy anything. Ziegler, and the men from whom Ziegler gladly took orders, consistently harassed reporters in the most petty and underhanded of ways. And yet the reporters never cried foul, never mutinied."

White House reporters, Crouse notes, are mostly men who have paid their dues to the profession. They know how to go along. They tend to cover the Presidency in a pack, getting the same information at the same time and sending it out via the newspapers, wire services and networks in roughly the same form. For the routine news, the straightforward news, the system works. When an incumbent President starts his run for re-election, it fails.

While the press covered the campaign of 1972, Tim Crouse was covering the press for Rolling Stone magazine. "Boys On The Bus" is the story of how the press failed in that campaign, how it was used, why it was impotent.

CROUSE APPARENTLY spent much of his time with McGovern. That's where the action was and where many of the media stars were assigned. His portraits of the national political correspondents are excellent, showing an eye for what got those men to their influential jobs and the agonizing they did over the challenge of 1972.

Despite their often sympathetic attitude toward McGovern, the men who followed his campaign on the press bus were the ones who provided the picture of the Democratic candidate that

"FROM TIME TO TIME," BY HANNAH TILLICH
Stein and Day, $7.95

Paul Tillich began revolutionizing the philosophy of religion as a young minister and lecturer and in his later years became regarded by his contemporaries as perhaps the greatest Protestant theologian of the 20th Century.

In doing so, he became a controversial figure. His most charitable detractors looked upon him as a misguided existentialist while others denounced his writings as atheistic.

Eight years after his death in Chicago, Tillich's widow has come forth with an unusual book which portrays Paulus, as he was known to his close friends, as a vulnerable human being who enjoyed wine and women.

Mrs. Tillich is no apologist for Paulus' indiscretions as she freely admits that she, too, did her own thing.

Hannah's candor may send some shock waves through the religious community, but it must be understood that the Tillichs came into mental maturity during a bleak period in German history. Their country had been defeated in World War I and the postwar Weimar Republic, which was short-lived, destroyed the moral fabric of that generation, making life — as the song says — a cabaret.

Mrs. Tillich professed she would never forgive Paulus for spending their wedding night in a final bachelor's fling with friends. But in the touching description of Paulus' death in a Chicago hospital, she imparts a feeling, intentionally or otherwise, that her great respect for him really never died.

'Harvey' plays this weekend

Six-foot tall rabbits are not too common around the northwest suburbs, but one is expected to make a stage appearance in Des Plaines this week when the Footlighters present "Harvey" at Rand Park Fieldhouse, 2025 Milner St.

"The play's message is simple though the story is hard to explain," said Ken L. Johnson, director of "Harvey." "The message is that imagination is a precious commodity that should not be locked away."

The play will be presented tonight, tomorrow and Sunday.

Appearing as Elwood P. Dowd, the amiable man with a thirst for bars and people who claims Harvey as his friend, is Fred Houk. Others in the youthful cast are Darice Quinnett, as Elwood's sister; Kevin Marquette as the psychiatrist; Linda and Jeanne Lombardo, Steve Homeyer, Bill Wright, Larry Scalfaro, Don Steffan, Julie Stoneburner and Betsy Forkins.

Lisa Wolf is stage manager and Mark Anderson her assistant.

Tickets at $1 for adults and 75 cents for children may be obtained at the Des Plaines Park District office, 748 Pearson St.

Burt's singing mars his record debut

Well known actor and "centerfold boy" Burt Reynolds is not a singer. Thus his singing is the major fault with his first album, "Ask Me What I Am" (Mercury Records).

As the star of many movies, including "Deliverance" and "Fuzz," Reynolds has built a somewhat solid reputation as an actor. His debut as a singer only builds up the thought — "Forget it, Burt." His style of singing more often than not is really talking out a lyric. When he does actually sing, his voice strains too much and really isn't melodic.

Reynolds' voice aside, however, the album is a pretty good one. There are a handful of good songs written by some of Nashville's best songwriters, including Bobby Goldsboro (who coproduced the album too), Dick Feller and Red Lane. According to Mercury publicists, Reynolds sat down with these writers to discuss his beliefs and life several months ago. He then went off to make a movie and they went off to write eight of the 11 songs used in the album.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

The best of the songs are "You Can't Always Sing A Happy Song" and "I Like Having You Around." (Is that Dinah Shore singing along on the latter?)

Reynolds has said, "I wanted to do an album not to prove I could sing... but because I felt I had some things I wanted to say too." A book could have been more effective.

MORGANA KING is back and that is very good news.

First her husband was killed in an auto accident, then a couple of years later another accident almost took her life. Miss King needed time to think, to "replenish." But now her self-imposed, semi-retirement has ended with the issuance of "New Beginnings" (Paramount Records), her first album since 1967.

Wow. Miss King has lost none of her clear, soaring style with those chilling jazz improvisations of phrasing. Her voice just seems to take off, taking you along for a brilliant ride.

More good news is that she has turned to some of the best young songwriters of the day for her songs. These include Stevie Wonder, Leon Russell, Roger Cook, Paul Williams, Kenny Rankin and Donny Hathaway. She does a stunning version of Wonder's "You Are the Sunshine of My Life." Other good songs are "A Song For You," "We Could Be Flying" and "Jennifer Had."

This album is guaranteed to put some sunshine in anybody's life.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED: "Isley's Greatest Hits" (T-Neck Records). From the early "Shout" to the fairly new version of Stephen Stills' "Love the One You're With" to their multi-million seller "It's Your Thing," the Isleys have always been at the musical front — setting trends and staying viable through different musical eras.

These 14 high energy songs are a sure invitation to dance and a long awaited "greatest hits" album. The Isleys have been consistently good from the '60s to this day and their current hit, "Who's That Lady" (which isn't included here).

"Imagination" by Gladys Knight and the Pips (Buddah Records). Another group that has been together a long time — 21 years to be exact. This is their first album away from Motown Records, but it is consistent with all the earlier, good albums made there.

The big excitement is the top single, "Midnight Train To Georgia," which is included in "Imagination." I particularly like the choral refrain. Other good tunes include "Where Peaceful Waters Flow" and "I've Got To Use My Imagination."

Night out

Turkey dinner the easy way

by GENIE CAMPBELL

All kinds of alternatives to fixing Thanksgiving dinner at home this year are being offered by area restaurants and hotels. Suggestions range from spending the entire weekend away from the house to a carry-out service... one stuffed turkey to go please, with all the trimmings.

HUGO'S GOURMET RESTAURANT at the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE is featuring a special Thanksgiving menu on Nov. 22, from 1 until 6 p.m. Family groups who desire a more informal setting can eat their turkey out on the GARDEN TERRACE SIDEWALK CAFE.

ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS is featuring a THANKSGIVING EXTRAVAGANZA which includes five days and four nights beginning next Wednesday and continuing through the entire weekend.

But for those who are just looking for a turkey dinner, a buffet is being served in the CAROUSEL ROOM of the hotel on Thanksgiving Day, from 1 until 9 p.m. Ham, roast beef and French fried shrimp will be featured as main courses along with turkey.

Fully-cooked, dressed and boxed 12-pound turkeys will be ready for pick-up Thanksgiving Day at Arlington Park Towers. Orders must be placed with the food and beverage department by next Tuesday.

All-you-can-eat turkey dinners will be served family style at PHEASANT RUN. Turkey will also be on the Thanksgiving Day menu in the dinner-theater where MICHAEL COLE is starring in the thriller "WAIT UNTIL DARK."

The world premiere of "DANCE ON A COUNTRY GRAVE," a romantic folk musical, will be staged at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE after Christmas. The opening is scheduled for Dec. 28 with previews Dec. 26 and 27.

Based on the writings of Thomas Hardy and set in 19th century England, "Dance on a Country Grave" concerns the loves and ambitions of two people of Edgmoor Heath, around whom are scattered a handful of characters struggling to fulfill consuming and conflicting destinies.

The creator of this new musical is KELLY HAMILTON, a 25-year-old San Franciscan. With his book, music and lyrics, Hamilton paints a mystical portrait of life on the heath, its loneliness, friendships, superstitions and also hopes.

Orchestration will be by EDDIE SAUTER and JAY NORMAN will choreograph the production.

The cast of 20 and 13-piece orchestra will be directed by PATRICK HENRY, noted for his work at the Goodman Theatre in Chicago.

ROBERT GERRINGER, who played the lead role of Mr. Antrobus in "THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH," current offering at Arlington Park Theatre, is resting comfortably at Northwest Community Hospital after becoming seriously ill during the first performance last Saturday night.

Gerringer apologized to the audience before leaving the stage following the first act. It is the first time in his 23-year acting career that Gerringer has had to walk out in the middle of a production.

ART KASSUL, who appeared in "The Rainmaker" and "The Fantasticks" at Arlington Park Theatre, stepped in last Sunday to finish out the remaining shows. The play closes this weekend.

The MARK LUCAS AND CLANCY TROY SHOW opens Monday at ALL-GAUER'S FIRESIDE LOUNGE, 2855 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Northbrook. The duo will entertain nightly through next Saturday, Nov. 24, except Thanksgiving Day.

The BRUCE BLANCH TRIO is being featured Tuesdays and Saturday evenings at ZAPPONE'S BRANDYWINE, 1000 Busse Road in the Holiday Inn. The piano trio includes BLANCH of Palatine, GORDON JOHNSON of Schaumburg and BOBBY KAY of Tinley Park. The three begin playing at 9 p.m.

BRIAN BEDFORD will star in Simon Gray's play "BUTLEY" for a three and a half week engagement at Chicago's STUDEBAKER THEATRE. The show opens next Thursday.

A Paddock review

'Music Man' delightful nostalgia

by LYNN JESSEN
Guest reviewer

There's a treat in store with Best Off Broadway's production of "The Music Man" now being staged at Wheeling High School. Meredith Wilson's witty, tuneful and fast moving musical comedy captures all the warmth and nostalgia inherent in a story about a small Iowa town, 1912.

Every musical expression used, including soft shoe, ragtime, barbershop quartet and march, has a feeling of genuineness that adds extra flavor to the BOB production.

Steve Strong as Professor Harold Hill, the persuasive but unscrupulous music man, dominates every scene in which he appears, displaying the skill and polish of a true professional.

FRAN PITCHFORD, as Marion Paroo, expresses the incongruous strength and weakness of a woman torn between love and duty. She is an eloquence of beauty and her perfect singing pitch offers a dramatic depth to the show. Mrs. Pitchford's "My White Knight" particularly is a vocal delight.

Charmaine Sayre as Mrs. Paroo and 8-year-old Michael Grizzi as Winthrop provide the right touches of humor and pathos to their individual roles. Michael's "Gary, Indiana" is a show stopper.

Almost every musical seems to include one number that is an applause catching specialty with little reference to the actual story line. "Shipoo!" is like that.

Ably sung by Don Potter as Marcellus with the entire company accompanying him in dance, this number is by far the best scene of the show. The choreography by Camille Baranchik is the best I've seen yet in community theater.

JAN DICOSOLA'S Eulalie Shinn, while bordering on a "burlesque of a burlesque," proved a huge hit Saturday night. The barbershop quartet consisting of Jim Groat, Frank Getz, Tom McManus and Jim Sprinkle, experienced intermittent intonation problems. Overall they were clearly an audience favorite. "Lida Rose" was superbly done.

Eleven-year-old Janet Locker as Amorylla, is a standout in the piano lesson scene. Her clear voice adds charm to "Goodnight, My Someone," sung with Mrs. Pitchford.

Dave Dove deserves credit for the exceptional set design and George Wajda's lighting also added to the show's success.

Fine art auction

An auction of international fine art will be sponsored by Maine Township Jewish Congregation tomorrow at the temple, 8800 Ballard Road, Des Plaines.

A one-hour preview will start at 8 p.m. with the auction at 9. Admission is $1.50.

Among the more than 125 pieces to be auctioned are works by Peter Max, Durer, Rembrandt, Hogarth, Daumier, Utrillo, Lautrec, Dali, Chagall, Picasso and Miro. Each is custom framed.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Arlene J. Fighlulo, 827-7823.

The costumes, designed by Mimi Santicola, were fresh, colorful and beautifully coordinated.

HANK VANDENBOOM in his debut as a musical comedy director deserves much applause for providing a thoroughly delightful evening of theater. John Shaw trained the excellent chorus and Stan Louisenau conducted the orchestra.

Additional performances of "The Music Man" will be staged tonight and tomorrow, 8:30, at Wheeling High School. A special family matinee will be presented Sunday, 2:30 p.m. Tickets, 392-4875.

Walden fair an experiment

The community center of Walden Place, off Algonquin Road in Schaumburg, is the site this weekend of an art exhibit that will feature works by artists residing on both coasts.

Steve Rowe of Palatine, who organized the show, is acquainted with the other exhibiting artists either through school or past art fairs.

This is an experiment for Rowe... "hitting them right where they live. This is a way of bringing art almost right into their own homes," he said when asked why he chose an apartment complex as an exhibit place. Mostly abstract paintings and ceramics will be displayed.

Also participating are John Schmitz of Chicago, Jesse Contrell of California, Max Ang of New York, Lee Durant of Barrington, Leslie McDowell of California and Victoria Lynn of British Columbia.

Hours of exhibition are tonight, 5-9; tomorrow 2-8 p.m. and Sunday, 3-6 p.m.

Nancy (Fortunate) Anstedt of Palatine and Bob Straube of Park Ridge will be the featured artists at a pottery and paintings "Christmas Boutique" beginning tonight, 8 p.m. through midnight, and continuing all day tomorrow at the Left Bank Boutique shop in downtown Palatine.

Nancy Anstedt is a watercolorist as well as graphic illustrator. Straube is a potter.

Throughout November Samuel A. Griffith Jr. is displaying his paintings at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library. Griffith is a resident of Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Hillenbrand's craft appears in the special Christmas crafts section of the publication.

April Ford is the first featured artist in the new gallery at Lord & Taylor in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Born in Wisconsin, Mrs. Ford spent five years studying at the Art Institute of Chicago where she received numerous awards.

She currently lives on a large blueberry farm in Indiana but commutes often to Chicago where she uses the workshop facilities of The Art Institute to produce her lithographs which are now hung in the Woodfield store.

Art Berkewski of Schaumburg is directing his sixth play as resident director of the Northwest End. "Tonight We Improve," an audience participation play, opens tonight at Gordon Tech High School, 3633 N. California Ave., Chicago.

Among the cast are Marshall Kievit and Glee Paxton, both of Des Plaines. Judith Schwarz of Arlington Heights designed the sets.

'Thoreau' tryouts Sunday and Monday

Open tryouts for Des Plaines Theatre Thoreau Spent in Jail, will be held Sunday and Monday, at Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines.

Kenneth MacCowan of Glenview will direct "Thoreau" and conduct the readings beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday and at 8 p.m. Monday. Guild Playhouse is at 620 Leo St., second floor.

"The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail" is set in Concord, Mass., in 1946, and through a series of flashbacks presents glimpses into the life of philosopher and essayist Henry David Thoreau. About 25 roles will be cast, according to MacCowan, with 11 major parts to be filled. Age range of the characters is from 17 to 60, with roles for 14 men and 11 women.

Puzzles workshop at Countryside

Puzzles for children and adults will be demonstrated at Countryside Art Center's final Christmas workshop next Tuesday. Persons attending will see many different possibilities using drawings, photographs, painted and felt surfaces, staining and natural wood and Chinese puzzles.

Those wishing to participate in making puzzles should bring materials: glue, paint and fabrics. A jig saw will be available along with two-ply plywood.

There is a $1 donation for the workshop, and nursery service is available from 9:30 to noon at a fee of $1 per child. Those wanting more information may call Countryside, 253-3005. The center is located at 414 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

VT children's play is cast

Village Theatre of Arlington Heights has announced the casting of its children's show, "Due To A Lack Of Interest . . . Tomorrow Has Been Cancelled." Book and lyrics were written by Ed Graczyk, music by Shirley Hansen.

The play will be presented at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights, Dec. 15 at 1, 3:30 and 8 p.m. and also Dec. 16 at 1 o'clock.

The play begins with a plot by Mayor Ezekiel, played by Pat Lawlor of Palatine, and his wife Zebadia, portrayed by Sonja Lernas of Schaumburg, who try to outwit the hero, Jeremy Cricket, played by Matt Penn of Palatine, by rewriting the history books to make everyone believe Cricket Corners was founded by a bug and not a cricket.

Matters are made worse when Witch-amajigger, portrayed by Karen Knudsen of Palatine, casts a spell over the town, cancelling their tomorrows "due to a lack of interest" by the townspeople. Jeremy Cricket and his friend Thumbby, who is Janet Locker of Arlington Heights, have their work cut out for them throughout the play.

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast are Zeke, Bill Allenfort; Whatchamacallit, Tom Anderson; and Granny Goodmother, Elaine Andrews, all of Arlington Heights.

'Rumplestiltskin' at Woodfield through holidays

Music On Stage's children's musical, "Rumplestiltskin . . . Is a Funny Name," opens at Woodfield Saturday, Nov. 24, and will continue with performances each weekend until Christmas.

In the lead role of Marion, the Miller's daughter who spins straw into gold, is Cherie Koch, Mount Prospect. The daughter falls in love with the King, played by Merv Solomon, Rolling Meadows, who has financial problems caused mainly by his party loving sister, Princess Catherine, portrayed by Sue Wille, Mount Prospect.

The Miller and his nagging wife are played by Pete Piper, Arlington Heights, and Marguerite Dietrich, Arlington Heights. Piper is directing the musical. He also wrote the script and the music.

Featured as the crusty elf, Rumplestiltskin, is Frank Randall, Lake Zurich.

The play will be staged in the Schaumburg Room at Woodfield at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Nov. 25, Dec. 1, 2, 8, 9, 15, 16, 22 and 23. Tickets are 75 cents. They may be bought at the door or in advance at 966-4720. Groups may be arranged for specially.

Thrift shop has new managers

At a recent membership meeting of Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. W. J. Willy, president, announced that the Pink Box Thrift Shop at 407 N. Vail, Arlington Heights, has two new managers. They are Mrs. Floyd Hookout, Long Grove, and Mrs. Joseph H. Smith, Palatine. Both have volunteered at the Box since its inception in April, 1972. Treasurer is Mrs. Richard Ekstrand, Arlington Heights.

The Pink Box offers a variety of items for sale including good, used clothing featuring mens suits and ties, household items, bric-a-brac, antiques, books and toys. A 50 cent rack is popular with bargain hunting customers. All merchandise has been donated (tax deductible to the donor), and proceeds go to the hospital.

THE SHOP IS open five days a week. Monday's donations are accepted from 9 a.m. to noon. This is sorting and pricing day. The doors are open for customers Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

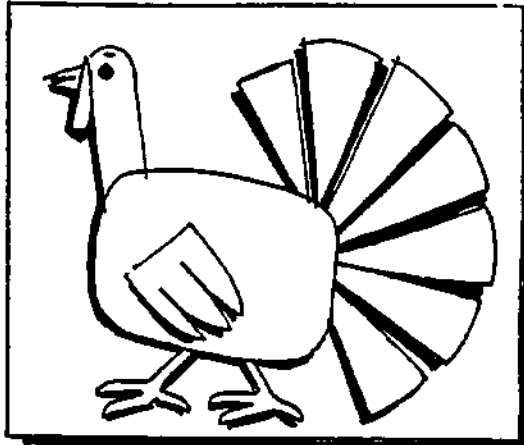

Although there are approximately 30 women now working at the Thrift Shop, the managers need more help, and urge women who have spare time, even a few hours, to volunteer their services. Interested volunteers may call Mrs. Smith at 338-8235 or Mrs. Hookout at 459-6148.

TOM, THE TURKEY STRUTTER

Materials: construction paper magazine pages with colored pictures scissors, crayons, paste

Even 4 and 5-year-olds can make Tom strut for Thanksgiving. To make this easy turkey, round off the corners of a brown sheet of construction paper with scissors. This makes the turkey's body. Paste it to another sheet of paper.

Cut colorful tail feathers from construction paper or colored magazine pages. Paste them to Tom's body. Cut out and glue on a head. Draw on legs, eyes and wings.

Choral Society sings 'Creation' Sunday evening

Northwest Choral Society will present Haydn's "The Creation" Sunday evening at Christ Church of Des Plaines, Corn and Henry Streets. James C. Thunder Jr. will direct the program that begins at 7:30 p.m.

Soloists include Arthur Berg, bass baritone; Alexis Darden, soprano; Joan Volberding, soprano; Jan Jarvis, baritone; and John Melcher, tenor.

Mrs. Volberding, Jarvis and Melcher, who is director of music at St. Martin's Church in Des Plaines, recently appeared with the Choral Society in its presentation of Bach's "St. John Passion."

Other concerts scheduled in the future are a popular one, featuring music of Noll Diamond and Carol King, and the Mozart "Requiem" and "Vespers."

Tickets for Sunday's concert are $3 for adults, $1.50 for students and children. They may be obtained by calling 824-1971.

Tom Bastable Jr. marries college sweetheart

It was a college romance for Betty Marie Bradac and Thomas Dale Bastable Jr.

Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bradac, Chicago, received her B. A. degree in sociology from Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, and is now a staff assistant for Sears Roebuck & Co., Chicago.

Tom, son of the Thomas Bastables, 2010 Pine Tree Drive, Arlington Heights, majored in English at Northern. A graduate of Wheeling High, he is now with United Parcel Service, Northbrook.

The couple honeymooned in Florida for two weeks and are now making their home in Buffalo Grove.

THEIR MARRIAGE took place Oct. 6 in Trinity Community United Church of Christ, North Riverside, in a 10:30 a.m., double ring service. A reception for 100 followed at the Fontana D'or, Chicago.

Betty chose her sister, Carol Latimer, Buffalo Grove, as matron of honor, and Maureen Meehan, Wheeling, and Claudia Alvarez, Chicago, as bridesmaids. Jack Bastable, Rocky Mountain, N. C., was his brother's best man, and his brother, Jim, Arlington Heights, and Thomas Savick, Oak Lawn, were ushers.

Yellow piano keys a problem

Dear Dorothy: Do you have any information on keeping piano keys white? Thanks for a good column — the "his nobs" here reads you, too.—Mrs. F. L. Finnegan

While the conventional wisdom is that all ivory keys will yellow, a piano manufacturing executive reports that he has had a piano with ivory keys for 45 years and they are snow white. He says the fall-board has always been kept open. Most pianos now are made with plastic keys which do not yellow easily. Another standard "rule of thumb" is that the acid in some people's fingers hastens the yellowing action.

All I can tell you is that when piano keys get dirty, they should be washed with a cloth wrung out of a solution of the mild white household soap, then carefully rinsed and dried. One caution: The cloth should not be wet enough for any fluid to seep beneath the keys.

One thing never changes: The attraction clean walls hold for the small fry. We just had our walls painted and one of our lively grandchildren came by for a short visit — but long enough to leave a grand design. It wouldn't wash off. A call to the painter brought the information that latex water-base flat paint has to set for at least a month before it is washed. We had to have a touch-up painting job, but remember this "setting time" on the Beat the energy crisis. Walk! Walking rather than autoriding saves gasoline, cuts down on pollutants, and improves your physical and mental well-being. This is the message Dr. Gerald Robin, of Chevy Chase, Md., delivered to the annual meeting recently of the American Podiatry Association. He said, "It's one of the best — if not THE best — exercise for the entire body and a perfect way to work off the tensions of the day."

Dear Dorothy: With so many people taking up breadmaking, I want to contribute something my mother told me — and which I have found, through long experience, works. Stir in the scalded milk in half of the flour, let it set awhile, then add the other ingredients and yeast. And be sure the yeast is dissolved in tepid liquid. If the liquid was hot, it would kill the spores and stop the action.—Diana Blades

Three weeks in Hawaii

Lynn Alice Neubert and her bridegroom, Douglas Steffey, spent three weeks honeymooning in Hawaii following their Oct. 6 wedding in Faith Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights. The couple are now residing in Addison.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neubert, 224 S. Phelps, Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Steffey, Elmhurst, are parents of the couple.

Attending Lynn as maid of honor at the 4 p.m., double ring service was Nancy Petersen of Arlington Heights. Bridesmaids were the groom's sisters, Carol and Marcia Steffey, and junior bridesmaid was Kimberley Neubert, a niece of the bride from Oshkosh, Wis.

ROBERT OLSON, Arlington Heights, was best man, and ushers were Steve Harry, Addison, Dave Kneuffer, Elmhurst, and the bride's brothers, Donald, Pewaukee, Wis., and Jerald Neubert, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A reception for 140 guests was held at the Georgetown Club in Wood Dale.

Lynn is a graduate of Prospect High and Doug a graduate of York. Doug is employed in Villa Park as a pattern maker with Capital Pattern and Model Work.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Steffey

Four sisters in wedding

Four O'Donnell sisters came down the aisle of St. Colette Catholic Church, Rolling Meadows, for the Oct. 6 wedding of Barbara O'Donnell. Her sister Noreen was maid of honor; Debbie and Sheila O'Donnell were bridesmaids.

Barbara became the bride of Lawrence C. Swanson Jr. of Chicago in a mid-afternoon ceremony.

She and her sisters are daughters of Mrs. Rosena O'Donnell, 2106 Campbell, Rolling Meadows. The groom is the son of Mrs. Margaret Swanson of Chicago.

Also in the bridal procession were the bride's niece, Kimberly Hebbard, Hanover Park, as flower girl, and Johnny Wenzel of Ingleside, her cousin and godchild, as ring bearer.

THE GROOM chose Gary Henderson, Mount Prospect, for his best man. Two of his Chicago friends, Thomas Dillon and Gregory Mazzone, ushered.

Barbara's great-uncle, the Rev. John

Wenzel, S.J., officiated at the double ring rites. He had also baptized Barbara as a baby.

One hundred fifty guests greeted the newlyweds at a reception in the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, after which the couple left for a honeymoon on St. Thomas and St. John Islands in the Caribbean.

A '65 graduate of Forest View High School, the bride is now an inservice instructor at St. Anne's Hospital, Chicago. Her husband graduated from the University of Illinois in '71 and is a senior research assistant at the University of Chicago. They are living in the city.

Bride borrows an old-fashioned gown

Wearing a 34-year-old wedding gown of ivory moulre taffeta, Mari (Jill) Dal Ponte became the bride of Craig S. Gibson of Arlington Heights on Oct. 20.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. R. S. Krafka of Des Moines, Iowa, and Jock Dal Ponte, Centerville, Iowa, came down the aisle of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights in a gown borrowed from Mrs. Roger Frederickson of Arlington, a friend of the groom's mother. Craig's parents are the H. Clay Gibsons of 602 E. Valley Lane, Arlington.

The bridal gown was styled with a sweetheart neckline, shirring down the front of the Empire bodice, and long sleeves gathered at the shoulders. With it Jill wore an ivory waist-length veil flowing from Juliet cap of Venise lace and carried a bouquet of white daisies and blue baby's breath.

She also wore a choker necklace and bracelet borrowed from her matron of honor, Lou Ann Ahee of Waukesha, Wis.

SHE WAS ESCORTED down the aisle by her stepfather, R. S. Krafka of Des Moines, after which she and Craig exchanged vows they had written themselves. Jody Helton of Kirksville, Mo., played guitar and sang during the ceremony.

Jill and Craig met while attending Northeast Missouri State University. She now works at Northwest Community Hospital and he is with Monroe Calculators, Chicago. Craig graduated from Wheeling High School in '68 and attended Northern Illinois University before transferring to the Missouri school.

EACH HAD THREE attendants for the evening nuptials. Along with Miss Ahee pounds 7½ ounces. Other children in the family are Tom, 11, Patrick, 9, Michael, 8, and Mary Beth, 6. Mr. and Mrs. Marlon Baron, Chicago, are the children's grandparents.

Michael Gerard Dispart is a brother for Nick, 5, Ann Marie, 4, and Stephanie, 3, in the Hoffman Estates home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Dispart, 118 Evergreen. The baby weighed 7 pounds 4 ounces and was born Oct. 22. Mrs. Marie Despart and Mrs. Dorothy Brenner, both of Chicago, are the children's grandmothers.

Amy Kathleen Kleinfeld was born Oct. 25 to Mr. and Mrs. G. Roger Kleinfeld, 405 Regent Drive, Buffalo Grove. She weighed 6 pounds 5½ ounces. Jennifer Ann, 19 months, is the sister of the baby and Mr. and Mrs. George Kleinfeld, Woodstock, and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Van Eckhoutte, Moline, are the grandparents.

OTHER HOSPITALS

Rebecca Lynn Cutler was born Nov. 13 in Highland Park Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barry Cutler, 607 E. Burr Oak, Arlington Heights. Brett, 4, is the brother of the baby, and the Ted Weinsteins, Glenview, and the Jerry Cutlers, Chicago, are the grandparents.

Martha Ann Klein is a sister for Mary Calla, 2, in the Robert Klein home, 170 Mohave, Hoffman Estates. She was born Nov. 2 weighing 7 pounds 11 ounces in Memorial Hospital of DuPage County. Mrs. Mary Charlton, Humboldt, Iowa, and Mrs. Callie Baker, Indiana, are the grandparents of the girls.

Time on your hands?

A classical definition of leisure says that it requires little or no expenditure and the only prerequisite is time.

Americans work hard at leisure, spending over $42 billion on recreational activities in 1971. That's double what was spent in that category in 1960. The definition about "expenditure" obviously refers to the "leisure" of another era.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

In accordance with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Interim Regulations on the Preparation of Environmental Impact Statements, the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago will hold public hearings of the Environmental Assessment Statement for proposed construction of the new Salt Creek Water Reclamation Plant under construction in the Village of Schaumburg, Illinois.

The purpose of these hearings is to discuss the potential environmental impacts of the project. Since public understanding and participation is an important part of this resource recovery project, your attendance and comments on the Assessment Statement are requested at these hearings. Verbal comments must be limited to fifteen minutes per person in order to insure equal opportunity to all persons wishing to make statements. The full text of written statements and supporting material requiring longer than fifteen minutes to deliver will be entered into the record of these hearings if presented to the District within ten days after the hearing date.

The hearing will be held at:
LOCATION: Schaumburg Village Hall
ADDRESS: 217 South Civic Drive
DATE: 12/17/73
TIME: 7:00 p.m.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment will be available at the hearings. Additional copies are available at: The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, Chief Engineer's Office, 100 East Erie Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Persons who wish to make advance arrangements to present testimony or having inquiries may call or write: Mr. James S. Braxton, Assistant Chief Engineer, The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, 100 East Erie Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Telephone: 312/751-5243. The record of these hearings will be held open for a period of ten days after the hearing date for the receipt of written statements. Published in Paddock Publications Nov. 16, 23, 30, Dec. 7, 14, 1973.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Freedom Train

Steam-engine train to tour country in 1976 to celebrate Bicentennial

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — Ross E. Rowland, Jr., is a genuine patriot with faith in his country, be times good or bad. He is also one of the four men in history who has been named lifetime member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (the others are Harry Truman, J. Edgar Hoover and Johnny Cash). Here you find a man who would naturally be named President of the American Freedom Train Foundation. This nonprofit, nonpolitical group plans an exposition which will bring the Bicentennial celebration to Americans all across the country.

We don't have to come to it. It will come to us. The American Freedom Train in celebration of the 200th birthday of our nation will depart in April, 1976, powered by a restored vintage steam engine and it will visit every state during its historic journey carrying a panorama of Americana — artifacts, recordings, literature, slides in 25 cars — admission free.

ROWLAND'S love of steam engines and trains caused him to organize part of the "Proud Trip to Promontory" an exhibit held in Utah to commemorate the driving of the Transcontinental Railroad Golden Spike.

To work on the Freedom Train he has taken a three-year leave of absence from his Wall Street commodities firm.

Team Rowland with Daniel Schneider, executive director of the American Freedom Train Foundation, who noted Julie and David Eisenhower to become honorary chairmen of the board of trustees and is helping the American people to enjoy the chance of seeing their past at no cost to them, and it's hard to believe the response won't be fantastic. Whatever we feel, contentment or disillusion, in our present we're a patriot and a proud lot. And we'll come in droves to see the history that made us that way.

"We're crazy enough," said Rowland, the steam engine buff, "to put together a non-commercial, apolitical vehicle."

"We're taking basic treasures of America back to the people via the train. Why are we doing it that way?"

"WE FEEL THAT we are citizens of the one country that to date has been by far the most successful example of democracy in the recorded history of mankind. We are proud of America and we feel our 200th birthday deserves a celebration that all Americans can enjoy."

Schneider said, "As to date none of the planned events we know of for the Bicentennial are noncommercial. And we felt that this should not be the way to celebrate our 200th birthday."

"So we have taken leave from what we were doing to form a group to go the noncommercial route," Rowland added.

THEY SELECTED a train as the vehicle for two reasons: it can physically get to within 30 minutes' drive of 90 per cent of the American people; and railroads in general had so much to do with our history that the steam engine is a natural part of our industrial growth over the years."

Among the extensive memorabilia on board will be the Declaration of Independence and the Gettysburg Address.

"We're not right wing. We're not left," Rowland said. "I want this train to become part of our national heritage and we're going straight down the main line to America's heart. The train starts from St. Augustine, Florida, the first settlement in what is now the United States of America. The U.S. Marines will guard the artifacts."

ROWLAND isn't unused to the word president. In his 33

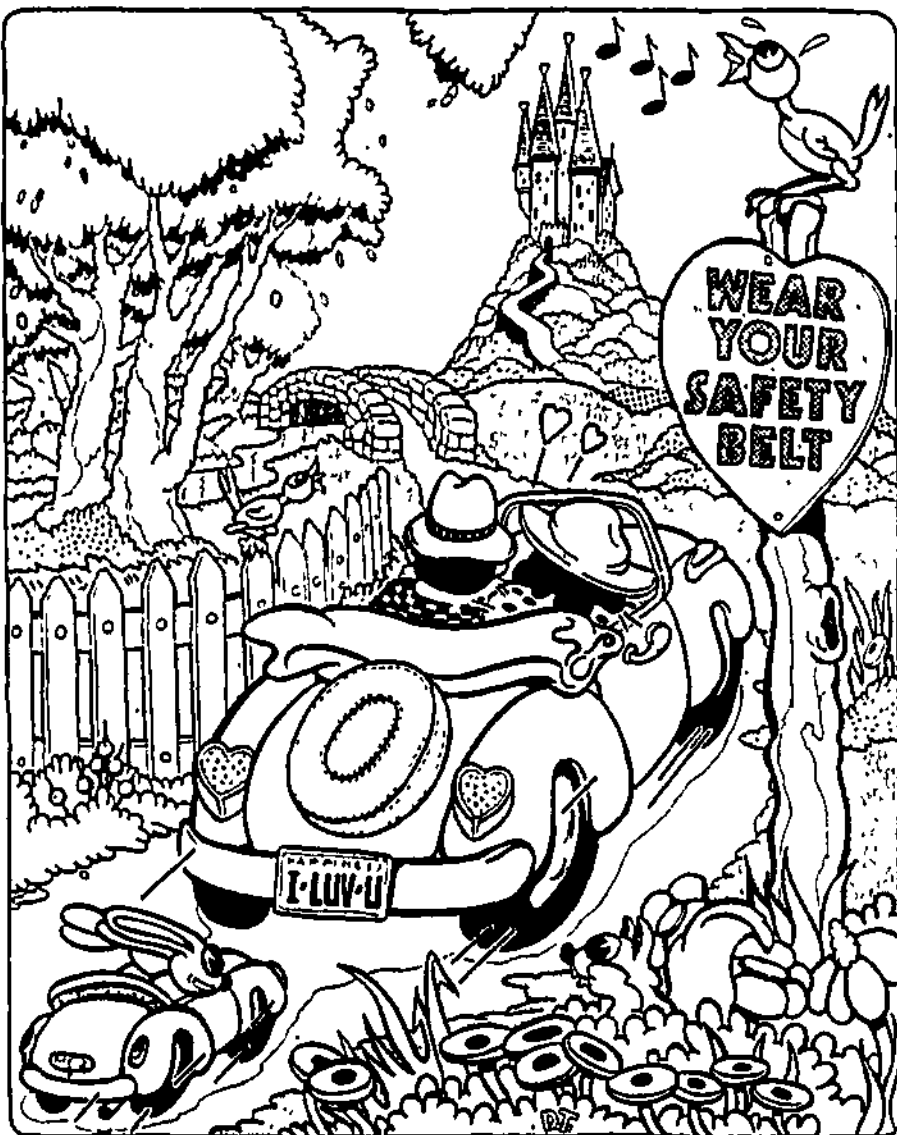

DAN SCHNEIDER and Ross E. Rowland, executive director and president of the American Freedom Train Foundation, go over the concept of how the American Freedom Train will look when it takes to the road.

years he has served as president or partner in such firms as Floor Broker Associates, Andco, Inc. and L. J. Cohen & Co. — all commodity brokerage organizations. But the "president" he likes best to be (and is) is president of HI Iron Co., Inc., a railroad company which has restored to service and operates mainline steam locomotives for the enjoyment of the many steam "buffs" in the United States.

He seems to be the ideal man to organize what may well be the ideal way to restore the faith of the American people in their country. It will be a reminder of what we had once and how we built it. It may not only stop a few "so whats" on the part of the disinterested who may feel it was always like it is now. And it may stir a bit of unselfish enthusiasm in others who have raised a noisy rumpus when a favorite TV program is preempted in national interest.

(Anyone who wants to make a tax deductible contribution to this nonprofit endeavor can send it to: The American Freedom Train Foundation, Box 1076, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.)

Height variation sought for final Cambridge condo

The developer of Cambridge-on-the-Lake in Buffalo Grove has asked the village for a height variation for the final building in the development.

The developer, Richard J. Brown Inc., has requested permission to make the building slightly taller than 50 feet. Village zoning ordinances state a multi-family building, such as Brown has proposed, shall be a maximum of 45 feet, or four stories, whichever is less.

Brown, however, has requested a hearing before the village's zoning board of appeals to get a height variation. The hearing is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

According to law, the zoning board of appeals can grant a 10 per cent variation, thus allowing the building to be 49½ feet tall. The building, however, as planned would still be taller than what could be allowed.

CHIEF INSPECTOR William Dettmer said yesterday he does not oppose granting a variation, but said the building would have to be lowered somewhat so it would not exceed 49½ feet. He said this could be accomplished by putting the structure deeper into the ground.

At a public hearing last summer, a spokesman for Brown, when questioned by Trustee Clarice Rech about the height of the building, said it would be under the 45-foot maximum. The developer could not be reached yesterday to find out why the height variation has now been requested.

Last summer the village board approved a change in the final phase of Cambridge-on-the-Lake. The new plan calls for a four-story building, about 600 feet long, that will house about 80 condominiums. In addition to the four residential floors, there is also a parking level underneath the building.

Originally, the final phase was to consist of two six-story buildings, about 100 feet long. The buildings had been approved before the more restrictive height ordinance had been passed.

THE CHANGE in the development will reduce the number of units from 512 to 392. The developer said the original plan called for mostly small units, while the new plan will consist of all larger units. The change was requested because the larger condominiums were selling better than the smaller ones, the developer said.

At the time of the change some residents opposed it because they said the reduction in units will increase the monthly maintenance fee for residents. Each homeowner in the development is assessed to help pay for the upkeep of the buildings and common areas in the development.

The developer said the increase will be about $4 a month, but some residents claim it will be more substantial.

Friday, Nov. 23 deadline to sign for police exam

Persons wishing to take the upcoming Buffalo Grove Police Department qualifying examination have until 5 p.m. Nov. 23 to apply. The exam will be given Nov. 26 at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School, 501 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

The exam that will be given is the new statewide Validated Entrance Examination for Police Officers, as approved by the Illinois Association of Boards of Fire and Police Commissioners. The test is designed to predict on the job behavior and is supposed to be unbiased.

"I'm super sold on this. It is the absolute finest examination," said Nick A. Tufano, Buffalo Grove Fire and Police Commissioner. "The selection of competent law enforcement personnel has long been a sensitive area for municipal administrators. This new examination process is a giant step forward in the fair selection of qualified personnel."

THE NEW EXAMINATION is the result of a three-year research study conducted by the Industrial Relations Center of the University of Chicago. Tufano said. The Illinois Law Enforcement Commission funded the $120,000 project.

In addition to the new test, a Bureau of Testing Services has been formed as a not-for-profit organization.

Police Chief Harry Walsh said his department is currently authorized to hire one additional policeman. Next year, he said, the department will request funds to hire additional men. Walsh, however, would not say how many men he will ask for.

THE BUFFALO GROVE Police Department now has 14 patrolmen, five sergeants and one lieutenant.

Wheeling- Buffalo Grove UNITED FUND

"People Helping People"

Over the top

$12,000 campaign goal reached: residents, teachers cited

by LYNN ASINOF

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove United Fund has reached its goal, collecting more than $12,000 in this year's fund raising campaign.

James Bauer, United Fund president, said his group went over the $12,000 mark Wednesday. He attributed the success of this year's campaign to a healthy residential campaign and the outstanding effort by the teachers and administrators in School Dist. 21.

Bauer praised the school district for its response to the campaign. "They contributed well over half," he said. "They raised $5,900 in pledges. Of course, not all of this has been received because some of it is pledges."

BY COMPARISON, the United Fund received only $275 from business and industry in the two villages. Bauer said he found this response disheartening. "Apparently, we have not been very effective in communicating to the people that work and really make their livings in the community the need they have to support the agencies in the community," he said.

Originally, this year's campaign was designed to concentrate on local business and industry. In recent years, area United Fund residential campaigns have declined because of the emphasis of donating at work. To compensate for this trend, organizers sent 600 letters to retail stores, gas stations, industrial firms and businessmen.

"Six hundred letters went out to industry-type of operations, and we have raised $275," Bauer said. "If everyone of those people we sent a letter to had contributed just $5, we would have had $3,000. We hardly paid off the postage costs."

Bauer said this year's goal was based on expectations of community response. "Our budget is based on what we realistically thought we could raise," he said.

BAUER SAID that although the United Fund reached its goal, there is still a need for more aid to these agencies.

Bauer also said he found the lack of response from the business community distressing. "We have the potential to really go up and over our goal," he said. "We had such an additional amount of potential that we have not realized. We feel that we apparently failed to communicate the need to the business community."

The residential campaign has brought the fund $2,233 to date, slightly more than the goal of $2,000. Bauer said that the campaign was successful because of recent growth of the two villages. He said the United Fund also has been able to collect money from residents in developments that weren't in existence last year.

According to Bauer, the people living in Cambridge-on-the-Lake in Buffalo Grove were particularly generous in this year's campaign.

SEVERAL SPECIAL projects have also brought substantial funds to this year's drive. A McDonald's Day, sponsored by the Wheeling drive-in on Dundee Road, raised $1,500 and an additional $750 through a rock concert at Wheeling High School.

Residents will have a chance to meet the staff and tour the school following Sunday's dedication ceremonies.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES for the new Buffalo Grove High School are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday. The ceremonies will include speeches and a performance by the Buffalo Grove High School band. The school is located at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

High school dedication, open house set Sunday

High School Dist. 214's eighth school, Buffalo Grove, will be dedicated Sunday in ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m.

The dedication of the high school, which has been in operation since September, will be followed by a public open house and tour of the building. Featured speaker for the dedication will be Lowell Fisher, past chairman of the Illinois committee of the North Central Association, a regional accrediting agency.

Also speaking at the ceremonies will be Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, school board Pres. Gene Artemenko, Principal Clarence Miller, Alden Orput of Orput and Associates Inc., architects of the building, and

The Buffalo Grove band, directed by Robert Rogers, will perform. Rev. Steve Dahl of Kingswood United Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove will offer the invocation.

Buffalo Grove was built to accommodate 2,300 students. This year about 1,335 freshmen, sophomore and juniors from Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove are attending the school.

Buffalo Grove High School has been designed on an "open" plan, with some classrooms without doors and with central "resource rooms" in each academic area. In addition, the school has a large central library, an auditorium, and fieldhouse.

BUFFALO GROVE High School — the sports area is to the left of the main building, the theater is located just behind the main building at the right.

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile.

An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 28.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Horman, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "battering" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

Annexation, zoning approved

Flower shop request gets OK

A request for annexation and zoning to allow operation of a flower shop on the old Heikotter Farm near Buffalo Grove has been given the "go-ahead" by the plan commission.

Austin Brodman, owner of Jo-An's Country Flowers, 125 N. Buffalo Grove Rd., has made the request so he can move his shop to the new location. He plans to operate his business out of the barn and move into the farm house.

Last week a number of residents from the Strathmore subdivision, to the rear of the property, voiced objections to allowing business zoning on the property. Although there were no objections to the flower shop, the residents feared granting business zoning would "open the door" to less desirable commercial development in the future.

In approving Brodman's request Wednesday night, the plan commission said it will recommend the village board grant R-1 (residential) planned development zoning, with a special use permit which will allow operation of the flower shop. Until the residents protested, the plan commission was considering residential zoning for the farm house and business zoning for the barn.

UNDER THE special-use zoning, it would be virtually impossible for any other kind of business development to go on the property without village approval, officials said.

Under the annexation agreement, Brodman has agreed not to build on or subdivide the property until approval is given by the village board. If he were to sell the property, the new owner would have to get village permission before developing it.

William Moore, Brodman's attorney, said his client wants to use the existing buildings and has no intention of developing the property at this time.

Under the zoning with the special use permit, the plan commission will recommend only the existing home be allowed on the 4.5-acre site. This is to prevent the owner from building additional units at a later time.

COMMISSIONERS Howard Mendenhall and Burt Harris approved of Brodman's plan, but voted against it because they felt limiting him to one house on the site was not only too restrictive, but contrary to the zoning ordinance. Under R-1, zoning, two homes are allowed on each acre.

Moore agreed, saying the recommendation could prove to be a arduous task on his client should he ever wish to sell the property.

Brodman has an option to buy the Heikotter property, but will do so only if the zoning is approved by the village board. It is not known when the board will consider the matter.

The site is on the west side of Ill. Rte. 83, south of Checker Drive, in unincorporated Lake County.

agents and Walsh. An eligibility list will be drawn up from the Nov. 26 exams and will be used next week.

Those applying for the test should be U. S. citizens between the ages of 21 and 35. As a physical agility test is given first, applicants must bring gym shoes, suitable clothes and a doctor's certificate of fitness to participate in the test.

Applicants are to meet at 6 p.m. Nov. 26 at the police department, 50 Raupp Blvd. Buffalo Grove policemen receive a starting salary of $9,888.

Dist. 96 wrapup

Student soliciting may be prohibited

The Dist. 96 school board may take action to prohibit students from soliciting money door-to-door as part of fund-raising activities.

Board member Tom Rusk said Monday he thinks the soliciting is "undue harassment" and should be curtailed.

Band members are currently selling candy to help raise funds to buy new uniforms. The Kildeer Community Club has also sponsored projects in the past that involved students selling items on the street.

Policy committee chairwoman Linaya Back said the district may already have a policy that applies to student soliciting. She is to report to the board at the next regular meeting set for Dec. 10.

School furniture pact let

A contract in the amount of $3,742.50 for school furniture at Twin Groves School was awarded Monday night to the Paddock School Equipment Co. of Downers Grove.

Durty Nellie's gets stoned; pair rocked with charges

A 50- to 70-pound rock thrown through a window of Durty Nellie's West Irish Pub, 55 Bothwell St., Palatine, led to the arrest of two men in Buffalo Grove early yesterday morning.

The manager of the pub, John Jewell, and employee Danny Craig, told police they heard a crash and ran out of the pub, where they saw two men running from the scene. The employees chased the two suspects and got the license number of their auto as the men sped away.

Buffalo Grove police later stopped the auto from a description sent through a police message system. The men, who are charged with breaking the window, are Roland L. Thompson, 24, of Deerfield, and Steven C. Bredeson, 19, of 500 Arbor Gate Ln., Buffalo Grove.

Thompson was also charged with two counts of reckless conduct, after Jewell and Craig contended that Thompson attempted to run them down with his auto during the incident.

Court date for the two men is set for Dec. 27 at 1:30 p.m. in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Improvements planned for N. Arlington Rd.

Buffalo Grove and the Vernon Township Highway Department are planning improvements later this month for a 500-foot section of Arlington Heights Road, north of Ill. Rte. 83.

Buffalo Grove Public Works Director William Davis said the work will consist of adding a three- to four-inch layer of asphalt on the existing road. The asphalt will make the road smoother and safer to drive on, he said.

The new surface, Davis said, is expected to be adequate for about two years. At that time, more extensive road improvements are planned.

In addition to the resurfacing, some work will be done on the drainage ditches to the side of Arlington Heights Road, Davis said. The work will consist of improving the ditches so more water can flow through them, he said. The project will cost about $2,000 and will be shared equally by the village and the township highway department. The work is expected to take one to two days.

Sometime next year the Illinois Division of Highways and the Lake County Highway Department also plan to improve the intersection of Arlington Heights Road and Ill. Rte. 83. The plan calls for installation of left-turn lanes and a traffic signal.

Girl still 'critical' after inhaling fumes

Holly Hansen, 19, remained in critical condition last night at Northwest Community Hospital, after she and members of her family apparently inhaled toxic fumes believed to be monoxide poisoning.

Other family members hospitalized include parents Richard and Lois, in fair condition; Laurie, 14, in serious condition; Richard Jr., 12, in serious but improved condition; and Wendy, 18, in good condition.

All members of the Hansen family were found unconscious Wednesday afternoon in their home at 510 S. Cleveland Ave. Arlington Heights police said that Wendy regained consciousness for a short time to telephone police.

The police department is conducting an investigation to determine the origin of the fumes.

Air samples taken shortly after the family was discovered, showed traces of monoxide poisoning, but not enough to cause sickness, authorities said.

Police said a gas company check revealed that all gas connections were proper and functioning.

The family cat was found dead, and according to Jeri Verden, a toxicologist at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, where the animal was tested, showed it died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police also checked for possible gas leakage in the sewer system and a furnace that had repairs last week.

A life saver Bike safety training facility sought

by BOB GALLAS
First of Two Parts

Elk Grove Park District officials have unveiled plans for a multi-acre bicycle safety and training course. The facility would be a first in the Northwest suburbs and only the third of its kind in the state.

Jack Claes, superintendent of parks and recreation, said he hopes to get cooperation from as many agencies as possible so the program can include children and adults from surrounding communities.

The course would be laid out on a yet-to-be-determined five-acre site. It would be modeled after a course in Peoria, but would be changed somewhat to fit the traffic patterns of the suburbs. Boulevards, underpasses, turn lanes, cul-de-sacs, train crossings, along with every type of traffic light and sign would be included in the course, according to Claes.

CLAES AND Richard Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, have already visited the Peoria bicycle safety course to study its construction and operation. According to Claes, no cost figures for the local facility have been obtained, but he expects it to be in line with the Peoria facility: about $125,000 to build and $45,000 per year to operate and maintain. "There are a lot of ways we can cut that construction cost figure, even though the facility was built seven years ago when labor and materials were cheaper," said Claes.

Peoria officials told Claes several parts of their facility were perhaps "overbuilt." "A bridge on the course cost more than $30,000 and will support a 20-ton truck, even though the heaviest traffic over it is a child on a bicycle," said Claes.

The course would give children a safe place to practice good bike-riding techniques, according to Claes. "It would also provide a place to instruct children on how to ride a bike in every street situation, without the hazard of traffic," he added.

THE COOPERATION of the schools is necessary, not only to keep the facility in operation during the day, but to educate the child in advance on bicycle safety rules and procedures, Claes said.

"Children should be trained in bicycle safety from kindergarten right on through junior high. You won't make a child a good and safe bicycle rider by bringing him in for one session. Bicycle safety has to be a part of the school's educational program," said Claes.

Local support for the bicycle safety facility has already started to grow. Presentations have been made to the Elk Grove Park Board and officials of Schwinn Sales Midwest Inc., a firm that distributes Schwinn bicycles.

"We're for any type of bicycle safety program," said Al Singer, president of Schwinn Sales Midwest which has an office in Elk Grove Village. Singer said he wasn't sure right now what financial backing Schwinn would be able to give. He added that Schwinn has helped bicycle safety organizations in the past by providing bicycles.

Also in favor of the bicycle safety facility is Richard Hall, Elk Grove Township supervisor. Hall and other township board members promised backing from the township after listening to a presentation on the facility, Tuesday night.

Before making any definite financial commitment, the board asked park district officials to find out what other support they will have, such as from the schools. Board members also asked for more specific information on the operation of such a facility.

LUDOVISSY SAID he and Claes will check on other supporters for the project and will get more information from Peoria officials on the operation and benefits of the Peoria program.

"There's no doubt that a need exists for bicycle safety education," said Hall. "I hope they (the park district) come up with a program we can participate in," he added.

Hall said that if the program turned out to be something more than the township could handle financially, he might seek support from neighboring townships, such as Schaumburg, Moline, Wheeling and Palatine.

City may force annex Algonquin, Elmhurst Rd. land

by STEVE BROWN

The legal jousting between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines over annexation of the last few scraps of unincorporated land along Elmhurst Road has taken another tack.

Des Plaines city officials will decide Monday whether to submit involuntary annexation petitions for several parcels of land near the intersection of Elmhurst and Algonquin roads.

The land includes property now occupied by the Waterfall Restaurant and several apartment complexes. Des Plaines has already filed annexation petitions for the property in late August, but Mount Prospect filed a lawsuit objecting to the move.

In the meantime, Mount Prospect officials annexed several properties on the southwest corner of the controversial intersection. The move has paved the way for the latest Des Plaines action.

IT NOW APPEARS Des Plaines will withdraw its initial voluntary annexation petitions and file for involuntary annexation of the land. Because the property is now surrounded by incorporated municipalities, Des Plaines, can annex the land without the owners' consent.

Des Plaines corporation counsel Robert DiLeonardi declined to comment on the latest move. Earlier this week, he received a continuance in the law suit filed against the city by Mount Prospect over the August annexation attempt.

However, Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Telchert said yesterday he did not feel any change in strategy by Des Plaines would alter Mount Prospect's position in the courts.

"We feel their annexation was faulty and we will probably continue to take that approach," Telchert said.

OFFICIALS IN BOTH towns have criticized each other for land grabbing and poor planning along the Elmhurst Road battle front.

The Des Plaines city council will also make a decision Monday on an appeal of a Cook County Circuit Court decision on another annexation decision in that area.

The court ruled against Des Plaines and stated Mount Prospect could annex property known as the Dawn Fresh Mushroom Farm at Elmhurst Road and Thacker Street.

Although Des Plaines had filed their annexation petition before Mount Prospect, the judge ruled the city's request was not complete.

Mayor Herbert Behrel said recently he will recommend the city council direct DiLeonardi to appeal the case.

"I don't understand how the judge could make such a ruling based on a technicality," Behrel said.

THERE ALSO HAS been speculation that there will be renewed negotiations over the possible annexation of the Waycinden Park area on the city's southwest side.

Residents in that area are protesting a hefty proposed water rate increase being pushed by the Citizens' Utility Company.

Earlier negotiations over the annexation question were stalled because no agreeable solution could be reached between the city and the utility company, which also serves Mount Prospect, over the purchase of the water and sewer system in the neighborhood.

CHECKING ONE OF the newest projects in Des Plaines, William Baldaccini, Elk Grove, the city's new building commissioner, examines excavation work on the $1.6 million city hall building. Baldaccini officially starts work next week, but met this week with retiring Building Commissioner Alfred Prickett to discuss the city. Des Plaines officials hope to have the six-story city hall completed by 1975.

Steel shortage may delay plans

Excavation starts for new city hall

Excavation work began this week for the new $1.6 million Des Plaines City Hall in an effort to get the project rolling before winter.

Mayor Herbert Behrel said the Frederick Quinn Construction Co., general contractor, has been given a temporary permit to begin excavation.

City officials were told that work on the six-story building might be delayed because of a shortage in steel reinforcing rods.

Behrel said Tuesday he was told the contractor has been able to obtain about 80 per cent of the steel needed and plans to go ahead with the work.

The mayor said the temporary building permit was granted because the con tractor had not obtained all necessary permits from the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the Environmental Protection Agency.

He said the contractor has applied for all the permits.

Behrel indicated Quinn asked a number of questions about the project, which were already answered in the specifications for the building.

"I guess he just thought he had all the time in the world and that we were in no hurry," Behrel said, adding the city informed the contractor the city is anxious to get the project under way.

City officials hope to have the building completed in early 1975.

Two men charged for recent rapes of local women

Cook County Sheriff's Police have charged a Des Plaines man and a Hoffman Estates man in connection with the recent rapes of two local women.

The suspects were identified as Robert Hinton, 21, of 1031 Linda Ln., Des Plaines and Harry Houck, 25, of 391 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates.

According to Lt. Howard Vanick, Hinton is charged with raping a Maine Township woman Oct. 20 after forcing his way into her apartment while she slept.

Hinton was nabbed near Des Plaines Wednesday night by investigators answering the call of a woman who told them of a "peeping tom" near her home.

Vanick said investigators had been suspicious of both men through composite sketches made from victims' descriptions given police.

HOUCK, ARRESTED at his apartment late Wednesday, is charged with the Nov. 9 rape of an Alexian Brothers Medical Center nurse, Police said Houck stopped to assist her after her car broke down. He pretended to take her to a service station, but drove instead to an Elk Grove Village trailer court and raped her.

Police said both men were identified by their victims during separate lineups in the Sheriff's Police Niles Division station late Wednesday.

Hinton was released on $10,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court Nov. 27. Houck is being held in lieu of the same amount pending a Dec. 11 hearing in Niles.

Vanick declined comment on the possibility of the two being involved in other unsolved rapes in the area.

Worker 'critical' after electric shock

A construction worker remained in critical condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital after suffering a severe electric shock during a work accident Tuesday in Des Plaines.

Kenneth Johnson, 25, of 426 Prairie in Elgin, was being kept in intensive care, a hospital spokesman said.

According to reports, the accident occurred outside the Jewel Food Store, 819 Elmhurst Rd., while Johnson was using a remote control boom to unload bricks from a truck.

The boom accidentally struck a high voltage wire, shocking Johnson.

Police said Johnson's fellow workers became aware of the mishap when the tires under the truck-mounted boom exploded from the impact of the shock, startling the workers.

Johnson is employed by the Ampress Brick Co., 1289 Golf Rd., Des Plaines.

Board denies retaliation

Teachers might sue over 'reprisal'

East Maine teachers may file a law suit against the Dist. 62 school board in response to official letters of warning placed in union officers' files.

The Dist. 62 board Wednesday night charged union leaders "conspired, promoted, encouraged, advocated and organized" a sick-in day.

The union officials were told that any future strike actions would be grounds for dismissal.

The board voted unanimously to issue notices of remediation to the 15 directors and officers of the East Maine Education Association (EMEA). The board said the EMEA officers committed "acts of unprofessional conduct and breached teacher contracts."

CHARGES FILED against the teachers include:

- Organizing an illegal withholding of services in the form of a sick-in on Oct. 23 by teachers.

- Encouraging teachers to remove lesson-plan books, text books and other materials necessary for teaching from their classrooms on Oct. 26.

Teachers named in the resolution are: Henry O'Neill, Kenton Howenstine, Kathleen Zoran, Barbara Korb, Louann White, Jerome Slowinski, Helen Peterson, Margaret Danaberg, Susan Panzella, Georgene Felman, Cathleen O'Donovan, Michele Leahy, Luke Allen, Barbara Danielson and Carolyn Skolnik.

WHILE ONE union leader termed the board action an "obvious reprisal," board members denied it was a retaliation for union activities.

Board member Larry Reiss said the resolution was taking notice "that certain illegal actions took place."

Reiss said the board had also considered possible criminal action against union leaders but decided on the letters instead.

Superintendent G. Allan Gogo said the word "reprisal" "is totally inappropriate to describe the board's action." He denied that future union activities would be curtailed because of the board resolution.

"We're not restricting teachers at all. We encourage the EMEA to speak out," he said.

EMEA PRESIDENT Hank O'Neill

called the board action "another attempt to weaken our organization. They don't want to call it 'reprisals.' All it can be is intimidation to weaken the contract bargaining process," he said.

Ken Howenstine, EMEA vice president, said teachers can't accept "these reprisals because they seriously jeopardize the jobs of our leaders and the future of our organization."

"We cannot understand the board's stance. If they are truly interested in maintaining a harmonious working relationship with their teachers, how can they take this action?" he said.

Howenstine added that the board has "seriously disturbed what was a very fragile peace."

A REPRESENTATIVE of the Cook County Superintendent's office said his office does not favor reprisal action. Leo Hennessy said he couldn't comment on the Dist. 62 action without seeing the notices of remediation.

"Our official position is that reprisals are not in the best interest of students or the school board. We advise school boards to tread very carefully in terms of reprisals for teacher actions," he said.

Parents attending the meeting expressed fears that the board's action would reopen hostility between the teachers and the board. "We finally had some peace and now they do this," one woman said. "They should have let it alone."

Dist. 62 school board asks 'compromise'

The Dist. 62 School Board last night called on teacher union leaders "to compromise and settle the issues" in the 11-month contract dispute.

In a statement issued last night, board president James Kremers said the board has agreed to include five working conditions in the contract agreement. He said the board's offer will avert the strike "only if the DPEA (Des Plaines Education Association) will agree to drop some new demands presented at the last negotiation session."

Des Plaines teachers voted last week to strike Monday if no settlement is reached. Kremers said it is the board's feeling that the majority of teachers in the district don't want to strike.

Kremers said the board has instructed the administration to keep the schools open on Monday, and to work with the objective in mind "of offering a full and complete program under the direction of certified teachers."

The board president said efforts to bring about an orderly resolution of the issues was being made difficult "because strike leaders were issuing threats and intimidating both teachers and substitute teachers."

DPEA leaders denied that the union has threatened or intimidated teachers not supporting the strike. Kremers said that each teacher that goes out on strike will lose about $70 for each day he is out on strike. He said "it is unfortunate that striking teachers have to subsidize the strike."

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile.

An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 28.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Hormon, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "bilateral" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

Schoolchildren can use Lively, Dempster pools

After nearly a year of waiting, Dist. 59 school children now will be able to use the pools at Lively and Dempster Junior High Schools during physical education classes.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administration for the Elk Grove Township School District, said work needed to allow the pools to reopen is "virtually complete."

The pools were closed last December by Richard Martwick, Cook County Superintendent of Schools, for failure to meet Illinois Life Safety requirements. The life safety code sets rigid safety requirements that apply only to school districts. Park districts continued to use the pools after they were closed to the schools.

Dist. 59 does not hold title to the pools. Kopp Pool at Dempster Junior High in Mount Prospect is owned by the Mount Prospect Park District. Disney Pool at Lively Junior High in Elk Grove Village is owned by the Elk Grove Park District.

The school district has an agreement with both park districts to use the pools during the day for physical education classes.

IT WAS originally anticipated the pools would be ready to reopen in September but an apparent oversight by the engineering firm doing the life safety work caused a delay. According to Perry, the firm apparently overlooked necessary controls for pool heaters and boilers. The oversight went unnoticed until a representative of the county superintendent's office came out to inspect the pools, according to Perry.

Perry said that no inspection has been made of the pools by the county superintendent's office, but a request for an inspection has been made. Perry added that permission has been granted by the county superintendent's office for high school Dist. 214 to use the pool at Lively for after-school swim team practice.

Perry estimated the additional life safety work would cost about $2,000 per pool, with the respective park districts sharing some of the cost.

Indoor golfing planned by parks

Golf buffs who dread a long hard winter will still be able to whack a few balls without being knee-deep in snow.

The Mount Prospect Park District is starting an indoor golf range, with group and private lessons as well as open time for those who already know (or think they know) how to hit a ball.

Jack Hogan, a Professional Golf Association member, will be available for lessons on Fridays and Saturdays, beginning today. The lessons are $20 a person for five group lessons of 45 minutes each, or $6 a person for a half-hour private lesson.

Lessons are available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 5 to 10 p.m. Fridays and from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 4 to 10 p.m. Saturdays, at Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

Appointments can be arranged by calling the park district office at 255-5380.

In addition to the above times, open times will be available from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays and from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning today. The fee is 75 cents for a bucket of balls.

The range is 40 feet.

Camp Fire Girls skate

Camp Fire Girls from Maine-Niles district are holding their annual roller skating party Monday, Nov. 26, from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Hub Roller Skating Rink, 4510 N. Harlem Ave., Norridge.

A member of Gov. Daniel Walker's consumer advocate staff is also expected to attend the strategy session in Butterfield to advise the group as to the type of information it would need to combat the company's petition for higher rates.

"I don't know what Citizens' case is but we've got an awful lot of information," said Susan Varno of Orland Park, organizer of the opposition.

CITIZENS, BASED in Addison, is to go before the Illinois Commerce Commission Dec. 8 for a hearing on the proposed rate schedule.

Present rates are $3 a month for sewage service, and a sliding scale that comes out to $8.20 a month for the average household use of 8,000 gallons of water.

That total would be increased to $18.40 if the Citizens petition is granted: $6 a month for sewage and an average $12.40 a month for water.

Teachers, board meet

Negotiators for the Des Plaines Education Association and the Dist. 62 school board were scheduled to meet last night following a special session of the board.

Stuart Kisten, head of the board negotiation team, said the special session was to work out new wording on several items presented by the DPEA. The items include teacher evaluation procedure, leaves, in-service training and teacher protection.

The negotiating teams are scheduled to meet again at 4 p.m. today. Teachers voted to strike Monday if no agreement is reached during the weekend in the 11-month contract dispute.

Dist. 214 wrapup

Sub teachers call raises 'insulting'

Substitute teachers and teachers for homebound students will receive raises in January, but the increases were called "insulting" by a representative of the teachers.

The Dist. 214 board agreed to raise the daily rate for substitute teachers from $27.50 to $28 and to increase the hourly rate for substitute teachers and teachers of homebound students from $5.50 to $5.60. In addition the board raised the rate that substitutes will earn after 10 days on the same job from $33 to $33.60.

The board also agreed that next September, the daily rate will be raised again to $28.50, the rate after 10 days on the same job will be raised to $34.20 and the hourly rate for teachers of homebound students will be raised to $5.70. The hourly rate for substitutes will be raised to $5.70. The rate for teachers of homebound students will be expected to cover mileage.

Rosealee Meisner, a substitute teacher in the district, said she believes the increases too small, particularly since all substitutes must take the extra period of supervisory duty that has been assigned to each teacher this year.

Mrs. Meisner said, "Fifty cents a day isn't much of an increase. It hardly pays for the increase in the school lunches this year."

Bus contract to be extended?

SCHOOL BUS CONTRACTS, which three years ago landed the Dist. 214 board in court, will probably not be rebid this year. Instead, the board has agreed to try to negotiate a one-year extension on its contract with the two companies that provide bus service to the district.

The board Monday authorized Assistant Supt. Robert Weber to try to negotiate one-year extensions on the contracts with Ritzenthaler Bus Lines and Cook County Bus Co. The contracts are due to expire at the end of this school year.

Weber told the board he had originally thought the contract should be rebid for another three years, but as he heard news of the fuel shortage and of financial problems of some bus companies he said, "I began to feel it might not be a bad idea to negotiate for one more year."

The district is not required by law to bid for school bus service, Weber said. Supt. Edward Gilbert added that, if the district extends its present contracts for one more year, its contract will then expire at the same time as some area elementary school districts and it might be possible for elementary districts and Dist. 214 to form a cooperative in buying bus service.

District officials estimate the contracts could be renegotiated at a five to six per cent increase over last year. In 1971, Dist. 214 asked the Cook County Circuit Court to decide between Cook County Bus Co. and a rival bidder, Davidmeyer Bus Co. Both companies had bid on providing service to the southern part of the district.

The district decided to go to court after a dispute over which company had submitted the lowest bid and over the legality of a board action awarding a bid. Finally, Cook County was awarded the $900,000 contract to provide service for the southern part of the district and Ritzenthaler received the $1.4 million contract on busing in the northern part of the district.

Teachers' grievance to be heard

THE DIST. 214 board agreed that, if necessary, it will hold a public hearing on a grievance filed by the Dist. 214 Education association at its next regular board meeting, Nov. 26.

The grievance protests the board's policy, adopted this year, that all teachers must be assigned one period of extra supervisory duty in addition to the five class periods. In the past, extra supervisory duty, including such jobs as hall monitor, were assigned to only a few teachers.

Representatives of the association have appeared several times before the board to protest the policy. Under the formal grievance, which has now been filed, it is charged that the policy violates the board's contract with the association.

Under the grievance procedure in the district's contract, the charges are first heard by Supt. Edward Gilbert and then, if the association wants to appeal further, by the board in a public hearing. Gilbert said he will hear the case this week.

Elk Grove High debaters take first

Elk Grove High School debaters scored 15 victories and one defeat in a three state debate tournament involving 63 high schools last week at Northern Illinois University.

The varsity team of Cheryl Kettler, Sue Sanders, Carol Swanson, and Ted Czarnecki captured the first place trophy in the varsity division. The novice team of Howard Hoss, Steven LaForge, Alan Harvay and Bob Kinn took the second place trophy in the novice division.

The team will debate in the High School Dist. 214 tournament Saturday at Wheeling High School.

Two Chicagoans charged in theft

Rede Zec, 20, and Paul Brammer, 19, Chicago, were arrested and charged with theft by the Elk Grove Village police earlier this week.

The two were charged with taking a home entertainment set, consisting of radio, tape player and phonograph, from Brother International Corp., 900 Lunt Ave.

Zec was placed on one-year probation. Brammer was turned over to the military police after it was learned he was wanted at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Present kennel to be expanded

Improvements planned for care of 'strays'

Improvements in the village's kennel for stray animals are expected next week, according to Judy Paulsen.

Mrs. Paulsen, 930 Hartford Ln., was one of about 20 people who met with Police Lt. Richard Losch and Patrolman Donald Jones on Wednesday to discuss treatment of the animals.

She and Marge Holland, 927 Hartford Ln., have been among the most active citizens in caring for strays and attempting to find homes for unclaimed animals.

According to Mrs. Paulsen, the village plans to partition the present kennel at Landmoler and Tonne roads into three sections. Additional doghouses will be purchased to provide one for each section.

THE HOUSES reportedly will use hay to keep the dogs warm and will have a heat lamp to keep food and water from freezing.

Slats will be installed on the fence to provide shelter from the wind.

Previously, the village kept stray cats in a small box which was then placed in the pen. Mrs. Paulsen said cats would now be kept in an adequate size cage which will be stored indoors.

Jones, who was recently named the village's animal warden and licensing officer, said the meeting was a good one and gave the department an opportunity to explain the new procedures for handling strays.

Although named animal warden at the beginning of the month, Jones has manned the police desk during the past weeks. Reportedly, the department is waiting for delivery of a van to be used by Jones before he will actually work as the animal warden. The van is now overdue from the manufacturer.

AFTER THE MEETING, Jones said he was checking different methods for handling sick and injured animals and the destroying of unclaimed animals.

The village now sends unclaimed animals to the Anti-Cruelty Society where they are killed in a decompression chamber.

The residents were opposed to the use of the decompression chamber as a means for killing the animals.

Jones said other meetings may be held, especially if the residents want to meet again. "The police department will be more than happy to meet again," he said.

AN ARDENT FISHERMAN catches a few more autumn days of casting his line into the waters of a nearby forest preserve lake. Cold winds, snow and ice are just around the corner, but will not prevent him to fish for more. He'll try for fish that will have moved deeper in the lake to a warmer winter climate.

That's how many car-bicycle accidents happen every year

by BOB GALLAS
Second of Two Parts

Everybody agrees that something has to be done about bicycle safety. For that reason, Elk Grove Park District officials are trying to drum up area support for a proposed bicycle safety facility to be built in Elk Grove Village, but made available to as many Northwest suburban youths and adults as possible.

Park district officials hope such a facility will help curb the number of car-bicycle accidents — about 38,000 in the U.S. annually. This year, National Safety Council projections predict some 380 bicycle riders will die nationally. In the Chicago area so far this year, over 900 have been injured in bicycle accidents and at least seven have been killed.

Safety authorities and administrators of bicycle safety operations are quick to point out that there are many more advantages in having the expensive bicycle safety facility than not having it.

THE ADVANTAGES, however, aren't tangible. There are no statistics to prove that bike injuries and deaths have gone down in areas that have bike-safety programs. Such statistics just don't exist, according to the experts. But the advantages are there, they say.

"That's the most frustrating part of being in the safety business," said Harold Heldreth, coordinator of bicycle safety for the National Safety Council. "You can't really compile statistics to definitely prove your efforts have been successful since there are so many variables involved," he added.

According to Heldreth, the variables include the increased amount of bicycles on U.S. streets — which has reached record numbers — along with the fact that there are more streets and cars now than ever before. The factors increase the chance of bicycle accidents.

Heldreth said he thinks the proposed Elk Grove Village bicycle safety facility could be successful if it receives the support of area schools.

HELDRETH PUT strong emphasis on having the school teacher preparing the child in proper safety methods in the normal class situation before the child goes onto the bike safety course.

A possible disadvantage of the bike safety course would be the limited amount of time the expensive course could be used due to the weather, according to Heldreth.

Even though the Elk Grove bike safety facility would be only the third of its kind in the state, the park district would have the advantage of being able to learn from similar facilities' mistakes, according to Bill Rutherford, head of the Forest Park Foundation in Peoria. The foundation financed the bike safety facility in Peoria.

Park district officials already have visited the Peoria site and returned with ideas on improving such an operation in Elk Grove Village. The ideas included ways to cut construction costs, more cooperation between the safety facility and local agencies — especially the schools — and opening up the course to allow adults and children to use it for riding practice.

RUTHERFORD ALSO suggested using four-wheel mini autos that would be pedal powered. "That way, the kids would get an idea of how the driver thinks and cars would also help simulate real traffic," said Rutherford.

"It would be a great prelude to high school driver education," said Lew Smith, Elk Grove park board president, in reference to the bike safety facility. "The kids would have first-hand experience in traffic situations at an earlier age which should help them understand traffic regulations better by the time they attempt to drive a car," he added.

Smith also pointed out that the course could help adults too, especially since adult interest in bike riding has picked up during the last few years.

"A lot of adults could use some updating on bicycle rules of the road," said Smith. "I've seen many adults riding the wrong way, against traffic, which is the way bike riding was taught some years ago."

"We need a complete bicycle safety facility to help train bike riders at an early age to obey the rules of the road," said Smith. "It doesn't make the driver of a car which has just struck and killed a child feel any better to know the child ran a stop sign."

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile.

An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 26.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Horman, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "blistering" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

FISH coming to village to lend a hand

FISH is coming to Elk Grove Village.

FISH is a helping-hand organization that assists people who have an emergency need. For example: An elderly couple needs help while both are ill — FISH responds with meals, cleaning and shopping. A family needs temporary housing because of a fire — FISH volunteers take them in. A cancer patient needs transportation for treatments — FISH volunteers do the driving.

Volunteers in the community are being recruited so Elk Grove Village can have one of the more than 300 chapters in the country.

A meeting will be held Nov. 28 at Christus Victor Lutheran Church, 1045 Arlington Heights Rd., at 8 p.m. to inform interested persons of what the organization is all about.

The meeting will feature Clark Robinson of Mount Prospect FISH, who will help plan the strategy for the local group. Volunteer commitment sheets, which are being sent to residents, can be turned in at that time. Election of officers and incorporation will also be held.

FISH IS A program of an ecumenical group of Christian laity who want to be good neighbors. Volunteers provide emergency baby-sitting, preparing a meal, driving, referral to an agency and other services.

Assistance from FISH is available to people in the community without obligation, charge or religious affiliation.

The original idea for the organization was conceived at St. Andrew's Church in Oxford, England, in 1961. People who needed help placed a "fish card" (with the fish symbol for Christ) in a window. Passersby would notify FISH members of the need.

A visiting American layman was impressed with the idea, signed up as a volunteer and, when he returned to the United States, brought the idea back with him.

By 1969 there were more than 200 chapters of the organization in this country. Chapters have also been formed in other countries.

FISH MEMBERS remain anonymous and serve for one 24-hour period a month. Service can also be offered on a one-time basis for those who cannot give 24 hours.

A person who needs help calls the FISH telephone number (which has not yet been selected in Elk Grove Village), asks for FISH and gives his name and telephone number. The telephone answering service contacts the volunteer on duty who returns the call, finds out what is needed and responds.

While FISH is geared primarily to providing one-time-only help it doesn't disregard cases where protracted care is needed.

Organization meetings for the local chapter are being held monthly. Call Darlene Greaves, 437-0422, for further information.

HUNTING SEASON IS open and sportsmen are in nearby fields daily after the elusive pheasant. But weekend hunting is heaviest and the extra caution that should always be used with guns is emphasized.

Town road commissioner quits post

by NANCY COWGER

Ralph Wilkening resigned yesterday from his office as Schaumburg Township Highway commissioner after a 2½-hour conference with representatives of Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey.

Wilkening has been accused by the Better Government Association, and has admitted the charges publicly, of accepting $375 in gift certificates from Royal Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mo., with whom Wilkening placed orders for $4,000 in supplies for the township.

The resignation was hand-delivered yesterday to Township Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein, said Wilkening's attorney, John Bickley.

Bickley also indicated Wilkening may be permitted to testify for Carey's office if the chemical companies are prosecuted. Legal action by the state's attorney against the firms appears to be "in a hiatus at the present time," he said.

HOWEVER, "I offered Mr. Wilkening's cooperation to the state's attorney's office, and it was indicated they would accept this cooperation," Bickley said. BICKLEY BELIEVES the "main thrust" of Carey's investigation will bear on the companies which provided highway commissioners with gratuities in the form of appliances, sports equipment and gift certificates, allegedly in return for government orders.

Wilkening resigned because he was "mindful of his party's resolution (urging his resignation) and wanting to insure the credibility of his office with regard to the citizens of Schaumburg township." Wilkening was supported in reelection campaigns for the office, which he held for 12 years, by the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST).

BICKLEY SAID Wilkening "cooperated fully" and "answered all questions" from the state's attorneys about township practices, his own office and the chemical firms with which he placed orders.

"He pointed out that he never solicited any type of reward, that any gift certificates, which were minimal in nature, or other advertising gimmicks furnished by the companies were done without solicitation," said Bickley.

The gifts amounted to five certificates, not exceeding a total of $375, and were mailed to Wilkening over a period of about 18 months, said Bickley. They "were not solicited, nor were there any return for any orders," said the lawyer.

Bickley also noted Wilkening was not offered immunity by the state's attorneys, and did not ask for any special consideration in return for his cooperation.

Volleyball registration open

Registration for the Elk Grove Park District men's competitive volleyball league is being accepted at the district office, 499 Blesterfield Rd.

The season will run 12 weeks and starts on Jan. 7. All games will be played at Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd.

A maximum of 14 teams, in two, seven-team divisions, will be accepted.

Registrations for the league is $80 per team for a team made up entirely of players who live or work within the boundaries of the Elk Grove Park District.

For teams with members who do not live or work within the park district boundaries, the registration fee is $120.

THE REGISTRATION fee covers the cost of referees and trophies which will be awarded to the first and second place teams.

The winner of each division will play to determine the first and second-place finishers.

Games will be scheduled at 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Teams will normally play one game per week, but on three different weeks, each team will be required to play twice.

Official volleyball rules will be used in each game. Each team will play three games per night that will be considered a match. All games go toward league standings.

No games shall be longer than 20 minutes or until 21 points is reached. A team must win by a minimum of two points.

For further information, contact Ric Arnold at the park district office, or call 437-8780.

John Karstrom: an 80-year-old 'youth expert'

by JERRY THOMAS

At 70, John Karstrom of Schaumburg was the moving force behind the formation of the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth. Karstrom, now 80, and still an active member of that committee, was honored Tuesday for 10 years of service.

Mrs. Joyce Kroll, COY chairman, presented Karstrom a plaque citing his efforts to create youth services in the township when the committee was formed 10 years ago.

She called Karstrom "the guiding light for young people of the community."

KARSTROM, LONG interested in politics, accepted an appointment to a vacancy on the Schaumburg Township Board in 1960.

"My job was to recruit members to a committee on youth and get it working. This was real new stuff, so I found out as much as I could about it and got busy," said Karstrom.

"Being 70 didn't mean a thing to me then anymore than my 80 years do now," he added.

"Calendar age doesn't impress me, it's how you feel that counts, and I believe people of all ages should involve themselves in living," said Karstrom.

KARSTROM complimented Mrs. Kroll for her dynamic leadership and said COY's present services are testimony to her good leadership.

"When the committee was first formed, we were very novice. It usually took a new member a year to find out what COY was all about and we'd lose the member by then," said Karstrom.

"Today's members are interested people who have worked hard to make the committee more than a monthly discussion group," he added.

"A farsighted board of auditors and the support of the township supervisor combined with interested people will make the next ten years even better," he predicted.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Vern Laubenstein said Karstrom is not content with his own service to the township but has been responsible for interesting many township people in various phases of political and village service.

"The recruiter, is how I always think of Karstrom," said Laubenstein. "It was Karstrom who recruited me to act as a Republican block captain many years ago, an interest in politics that led to my eventual election to the office of supervisor," said Laubenstein. "I am only one of the many people in this area that Karstrom got moving," he added.

The COY serves a population of nearly 80,000. The township now employs three full-time youth workers: Larry Walker, director of youth services; Jerry Lipsch, counselor and youth outreach worker, and Claudia Tull, outreach worker.

The staff works closely with schools, police and mental health agencies, coordinating programs wherever possible with similar agencies.

The newest program, Youth Employment Service (YES), opened this month. YES is a free employment placement for young people of the township. Offices are in the Buttery, 105 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

Girl's condition still 'critical' from gas fumes

Holly Hansen, 19, remained in critical condition last night at Northwest Community Hospital, after she and members of her family apparently inhaled toxic fumes believed to be monoxide poisoning.

Other family members hospitalized include parents Richard and Lois, in fair condition; Laurie, 14, in serious condition; Richard Jr., 12, in serious but improved condition, and Wendy, 18, in good condition.

All members of the Hansen family were found unconscious Wednesday afternoon in their home at 510 S. Cleveland Ave. Arlington Heights police said that Wendy regained consciousness for a short time to telephone police.

The police department is conducting an investigation to determine the origin of the fumes.

Air samples taken shortly after the family was discovered, showed traces of monoxide poisoning, but not enough to cause sickness, authorities said.

Police said a gas company check revealed that all gas connections were proper and functioning.

The family cat was found dead, and according to Jeri Verden, a toxicologist at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, where the animal was tested, showed it died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police also checked for possible gas leakage in the sewer system and a furnace that had repairs last week.

The local scene

Elks veterans month

The Elk Grove Elks Lodge 2423 has proclaimed November as Elks Veterans Remembrance Month.

The Elks have contributed millions of dollars in equipment, supplies and services to Veterans Administration and military hospitals. Also, many man-hours by volunteer Elks and their ladies in fulfilling their promise that so long as a disabled veteran is hospitalized they would not be forgotten.

CHECKING ONE OF the newest projects in Des Plaines, William Baldaccini, Elk Grove, the city's new building commissioner, examines excavation work on the $1.6 million city hall building. Baldaccini officially starts work next week, but met this week with retiring Building Commissioner Alfred Prickett to discuss the city. Des Plaines officials hope to have the six-story city hall completed by 1975.

Salvation Army kettles go to work-for village

For the first time in history, Elk Grove Village will have Salvation Army Christmas kettles to collect donations — if volunteers can be found to man the kettles.

Trustee Nanci Vanderweel said kettles will be placed in the village for three consecutive weekends, Dec. 7-8, 14-15 and 21-22.

On Friday nights, Dec. 7, 14 and 21, a single kettle will be manned from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Bank of Elk Grove, Arlington Heights and Higgins roads.

On Saturdays, Dec. 8, 15 and 22, kettles will be operated from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Bank of Elk Grove, the Jewel food store in the Grove Mall Shopping Center and the IGA in the Park 'n' Shop center.

PERSONS INTERESTED in volunteering to work at a kettle may contact Mrs. Vanderweel or George Coney by calling the village hall at 439-3900.

Volunteers will be asked to operate a kettle for a minimum of one hour, although they may stay longer if they want.

According to Mrs. Vanderweel, 20 per cent of all money collected will be used in the village. The remaining 80 per cent is given to the metropolitan service unit of the Salvation Army. With its donation to the metropolitan unit, the village will be eligible for additional services.

Mrs. Vanderweel said the village now receives services from the Salvation Army through several means.

The emergency canteen, stored at the Greenleaf Fire Station, is supplied by the Salvation Army.

Other services include emergency funds for persons who have lost their homes, eyeglasses for needy, elderly and children, and hearing aids for the needy.

Students in recital

An informal recital was recently presented by a group of Mrs. James B. Roberts' music students in the William A. Castle home in Elk Grove Village.

Jan Knez played an original composition entitled "Just Justice." Other students appearing were Debbie Roberts, Pam Roberts, Beth Harbin, Jennifer Durringer, Laurel Castle, Rhonda Melgaard, Jeff Castle, Margi Falkowski, Steve Anderson and John Harbin.

Trash pickup rates rising; homeowners' cost unknown

Garbage pickup rates are going up more than 10 per cent in Palatine, although the impact of the rate increase on homeowners is not yet known.

Village officials were informed yesterday of the rate increases by Browning-Ferris Industries of Illinois, Inc., Barrington. The cost to the village for curb pickup is increasing from $2.15 to $2.39 a month per household and the cost of back door service is up from $4.58 to $5.10 a month per household. The rate increases are retroactive to Nov. 1.

The increases represent an increased cost to the village of nearly $1,600 per month. It is not known whether the village will absorb the increased costs budget or pass it on to homeowners.

Currently homeowners pay $2.25 per month for curb pickup and $4.45 for back door pickup.

IT HAS BEEN the village's policy in the past to make the refuse fund a self-sustaining fund, said William Hibner, finance director. Hibner added the village would not be able to absorb the additional cost in the refuse fund without going into debt but the village board could transfer funds from the general fund to the refuse fund to cover the additional cost if it wanted to.

Hibner is preparing a report on the increased garbage rates to present to the village board on Monday.

David Paige, general manager of Browning-Ferris, which provides scavenger service in Palatine, said the rate increases were necessitated by a new contract recently negotiated between the scavenger companies and the garbage-men's union. The new contract, retroactive to Oct. 1, calls for wage increases of 15 to 18 per cent a year.

The village's scavenger service has been provided by Browning-Ferris for more than 15 years. In recent years, the village board has discussed providing its own scavenger service to residents but determined the initial capital investment would make the project prohibitive.

School board names woman to seat

Jean Sisler, consultant on youth for the Bridge Youth Service Bureau in Palatine, was appointed to the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education last night.

Mrs. Sisler, 921 S. Mallard Dr., Palatine, will complete the term of board member Paul Hughes, who resigned because of poor health last month. The term expires in April. She was chosen from eight candidates who applied for the board and were interviewed by board members Saturday.

In commenting on the appointment, which was approved unanimously, board president Robert Creek said Mrs. Sisler

"comes with outstanding credentials."

MRS. SISLER practiced law in California for 17 years before moving to Illinois in July, 1970. Her practice included juvenile law, family law, private law and neighborhood legal services. She received her law degree from the University of California at Los Angeles, where she also earned a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Since September, 1971, Mrs. Sisler has been employed by the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago, as a consultant to the Bridge. She is also on the board of directors for Shelter Inc., a not-for-profit agency now forming in the Northwest suburbs to provide shelter care for neglected and abused children. She is on the board of elders at the Presbyterian Church in Palatine and on its community action and day care center committee.

Mrs. Sisler said last week "I'm very interested in young people, and have had the opportunity to be involved with many young people." She said she would "try to understand the needs of young people in the school system and serve the best interests of the community."

MRS. SISLER and her husband, Peter, an assistant manager of product sales in an oil company, have three daughters, including two who graduated recently from Fremd High School in Palatine. She is a member of the Fremd High School Boosters Club, the Hunting Ridge Homeowners' Association and the Art Institute of Chicago.

The Dist. 211 board will present a plaque to Hughes for outstanding service to Dist. 211 since he was elected in 1971.

Creek said interviews with candidates were a benefit to board members. He thanked the candidates "for some ideas which had not occurred to us — some of which we may follow." Board member Edward Perry said that candidates have given the board insight into "new ideas, new approaches."

VIP paper drive Jan. 19 — save now

The Very Interested Parents Club at Palatine High School is asking residents to save their newspapers for the club's paper drive Jan. 19.

It will be the club's second paper drive this year. Students will be working with the group and will share the profits.

Pay school bus established

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board has established pay bus transportation for three schools and approved a possible pay bus route for a fourth school.

The board Wednesday night unanimously approved two bus routes for Winston Park School, 900 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine. Depending on the number of riders, either one or two pay bus routes will start at Jonas E. Salk School, 3705 Pheasant Dr., Rolling Meadows. One pay bus route was approved for Lincoln School.

The board also agreed to start a bus route for Virginia Lake School, 925 N. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine. If 40 students are willing to pay for transportation, drivers are found and a bus is available.

Transportation will start as soon as drivers are available.

The pay transportation was established after the transportation committee of the school board took a survey of the number of children who would be signed up for pay transportation if it were available.

Winston Park has 72 future bus riders; Jonas Salk had 60 and Lincoln had 23.

The survey was made after several parents at each school had requested transportation for their youngsters.

Scout garage sale

Palatine Scout Troop 91 will hold a garage sale November 17 and 18 at 257 S. Elmwood, Palatine. The sale will run from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

HUNTING SEASON IS open and sportsmen are in nearby fields daily after the elusive pheasant. But week-end hunting is heaviest and the extra caution that should always be used with guns is emphasized.

Durty Nellie's gets stoned; pair rocked with charges

A 50-to 70-pound rock thrown through a window of Durty Nellie's West Irish Pub, 53 Bothwell St., Palatine, led to the arrest of two men in Buffalo Grove early yesterday morning.

The manager of the pub, John Jewell, and employee Danny Craig, told police they heard a crash and ran out of the pub, where they saw two men running from the scene. The employees chased the two suspects and got the license number of their auto as the men sped away.

Buffalo Grove police later stopped the auto from a description sent through a police message system. The men, who are charged with breaking the window, are Roland L. Thompson, 24, of Deerfield, and Steven C. Bredeson, 19, of 500 Arbor Gate Ln., Buffalo Grove.

Thompson was also charged with two counts of reckless conduct, after Jewell and Craig contended that Thompson attempted to run them down with his auto during the incident.

Court date for the two men is set for Dec. 27 at 1:30 p.m. in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

LOW-LEVEL FOG like this spread across the Northwest suburbs yesterday morning causing delays of up to 10 minutes in airline traffic at O'Hare International Airport. A cold front moving into the area yesterday precipitated the ground clouds which also slowed rush hour traffic along the Northwest Tollway.

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile.

An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 28.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Horman, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "battering" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death. "We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

$3,500 expenditure for windows OK'd

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board approved an expenditure of $3,500 to take out several windows recently installed at Gray M. Sanborn School in Palatine and put in temporary windows.

The recently installed windows were rejected Wednesday night because they did not meet standards set by the Cook County Superintendent of Schools' Office. They will eventually be replaced with similar windows made of reinforced fiberglass that are less likely to produce poisonous gas under fire and are more flame retardant.

Until then, regular glass panes with a center panel of masonry will be installed. Supt. Frank Whiteley said the new fiberglass windows could be installed next spring at the earliest.

The $40,000 window replacement project was initiated last summer to bring Sanborn up to safety standards set by the state. Controversy developed when parents of the students attending Sanborn discovered the windows would be partially transparent.

The Cook County Superintendent's office was called in and inspected the windows. Testing concluded earlier this month revealed the windows did not meet the county superintendent's standards.

The board Wednesday decided to send the windows back to the construction company and have them replaced with similar partially transparent materials that meet the county superintendent's standards. Whether the replacement will increase the cost of the entire project is unknown.

The rejected windows had only been installed in four of the 18 classrooms in the school.

Fences around 3 schools

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board voted to construct fences at three schools upon request of Little League clubs who are using school property for games.

Fences will be built at Plum Grove School, 26 W. Old Plum Grove Rd., Rolling Meadows; Stuart R. Paddock School, 225 W. Washington Ct., Palatine and Plum Grove School, 26 W. Old Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

Chalk, board bids accepted

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board accepted the $3,645 low bid for chalk and tack board at Winston Park and Kimball Hill Schools.

Larson Co. of Chicago will install the boards in six classrooms at Kimball Hill for $2,532. The boards will be installed in 32 classrooms at Winston Park by the same company for $3,113.

Fencing bid accepted

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board accepted the $9,621.63 low bid for fencing at Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The fencing, constructed by Guardfence of Schaumburg, will serve as security for the 60 buses parked in the back parking lot of the school.

No bids on the construction of outdoor recreation facilities were received. The district is planning to build a football field, a baseball field and a track on the school lot.

It was reported that no bids were received because of the time limitation. Construction companies are still working on projects begun last year that were delayed because of bad weather. Bids will be retaken early next spring.

Minibike rider hurt in accident

A 16-year-old Palatine youth was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights Wednesday afternoon after the minibike he was riding hit a stopped auto.

The youth was riding the minibike on the sidewalk in the 900 block of Saratoga Drive when the accident occurred. Another youth, 17-year-old Scott Peotter, told police he was backing his auto out of the driveway at 958 Saratoga Dr. when bystanders yelled for him to stop to avoid hitting the approaching minibike rider.

Peotter said he stopped his car across the sidewalk. The minibike rider was reportedly unable to stop the bike before colliding with Peotter's car.

The accident occurred at 4:55 p.m. The minibike rider was treated for neck, shoulder and ankle pains from the accident. He was charged with failure to have the proper driver license classification.

Boy hit by auto in 'good' condition

Wayne Herzig, a 13-year-old youth injured in a hit-and-run accident Monday, was reported in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights yesterday.

Wayne was walking on the lawn at 751 N. Stephens Dr. in unincorporated Palatine Township when an auto allegedly driven by two juveniles struck the boy. Earlier reports had indicated that Wayne was riding a bicycle when the accident occurred.

Cook County Sheriff's Police later questioned the two youths who allegedly were in the auto.

Two speaker systems stolen from school

Two speaker systems were taken from Immanuel Lutheran School, 160 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, sometime between Saturday and 7:40 a.m. yesterday.

The speakers were valued at $200. They were taken from a sixth-grade classroom that school officials say was kept locked. Police discovered no signs of forcible entry to the room.

Low attendance blamed on nice weather

Ice rink rented to hockey team to prevent a deficit

by REGINA OEHLE

The Rolling Meadows Park District recently rented three of the most popular public ice skating nights to the Chicago Warriors, a semi-professional hockey team, in an attempt to stave off a possible deficit.

The reason for renting the ice rink, is money, according to park board commissioners. With receipts from the summer ice skating program down and only 14 family passes sold as of October, the board of commissioners is preparing against a possible loss of revenue.

"Attendance has been very low," said Comr. William Billings. He blamed the lack of numbers on "nice weather."

"I really don't know why people don't come to our rink," said Comr. Jeannine Placek. The most popular ice skating nights are Fridays and Saturdays where attendance during October ranged from 86 to 193, according to park district records.

ONE SATURDAY and two Fridays in this month have been rented to the Warriors. The Warriors also rented one Sunday — a time slot generally limited to adult skating.

The Warriors are paying a total of $2,400 for prime hours Nov. 17, Nov. 20, Nov. 27 and Dec. 2. Team manager Gene Ubriaco admits the price is high, but added that the Warriors couldn't get ice time in other area rinks on the dates they wanted.

Similar time slots at another area rink, the Randhurst Metro Sports Ice Stadium, is $70 an hour. The Warriors paying $200 an hour for the Rolling Meadows rink.

The rink was constructed three years ago as part of a $900,000 referendum to build the entire Rolling Meadows Sports Complex that passed in February of 1969.

While commissioners are worried about the future finances of the ice skating arena, park district director Steve Person is optimistic. "We are confident that the ice rink will be operating in the black," he said.

PERSON REFUSED to release figures on the sale of passes this year as compared to last year. He said he would present the information at a future board meeting and did not want to release it beforehand.

He admitted that sale of passes is down and that the park district did not make the expected amount of money from the summer program.

Person said that since the park board had lowered the cost of daily admission, he had expected the sale of passes to go down and daily attendance to increase.

The cost of adult admission was cut in half, to $1. The cost of a child's admission was lowered from $1 to 75 cents. The charge for passes, $40 per family and $20 per individual has remained the same.

DAILY ATTENDANCE has not increased to date, but Person blamed this on the pleasant fall weather. "We haven't had good weather for skating," he said.

Person said it is too early to tell whether the park district's ice skating rink was in financial trouble or not. "We're just coming into our peak season," he said.

Person is fairly confident that the ice arena will remain in the black though past performance shows that the arena "carries" the rest of the sports complex, he said.

The ice arena makes up for losses incurred in other programs and has, in fact, provided the finances to furnish the planned open recreation center, which will contain pool tables, ping pong tables and other recreational activities, according to Person.

Most of the money in the past has come from the sale of passes and rental of facilities during "dead" hours in the afternoon.

This year the park district is renting afternoon ice skating slots to Harper Junior College, Rolling Meadows High School and the Chicago Warriors.

THEY ARE ALSO considering starting a physical fitness skating session during the noon period, in an attempt to make the "dead" hours more lively.

The Warriors will stop using the rink as soon as their own ice arena is finished in Villa Park. Present estimates say the arena will be completed by Dec. 16, the fifth home game for the Warrior.

Person said that as soon as the Warriors stop renting the arena, he will attempt to find some other group to take the Warriors' former time slot, either this year or next year.

Many of the youngsters who use the park district ice arena said they would enjoy watching the Warriors play but feel that $4 a ticket is a little stiff.

"Our dollars a ticket? I'd rather skate!" said one youngster.

Inflation: abandoned cars may be hauled away free

Recent increases in the value of scrap metal may mean the Rolling Meadows police department will no longer be paying to dispose of abandoned cars.

The department to date this year has spent more than $3,000 to tow away and dispose of more than 200 abandoned vehicles. But junk dealers, in an attempt to take advantage of new premium rates for scrap metal, are now offering to haul away the abandoned vehicles at no charge to the city.

The city council's police committee last night heard proposals from three junk dealers, each of whom are hoping to enter into a contract with the city to haul abandoned cars. Each proposal calls for free removal of vehicles picked up by the police. The dealers would benefit in the plan by selling the scrap metal at costs which have now reached almost $50 per ton for reusable metal.

The committee will delay a decision on awarding a contract to one of the three dealers until next month, committee chairman Ald. Thomas Scanlan (1st) said. Before a contract is awarded, City Atty. Donald Rose will review all terms, Scanlan added.

THE THREE companies bidding for the arrangement are Midwest Karserveo Corporation of Chicago, Diamond Scrap Metal of Waukegan, and Globe Auto Disposal Company of Des Plaines. Representatives of each company proposed nearly identical plans.

A five-year contract is being proposed by the Karserveo company, a two-year contract by the Globe company, and a negotiable time period contract by the Diamond company.

There was some question by aldermen on the committee about where abandoned autos would be impounded and held for the ten-day period required by law before a municipality can junk a car. Joy McKenna, representing the Chicago company, said a location would have to be decided upon somewhere in the city, but she added a mobile crushing machine which the company operates could dispose of most cars on the scene.

Representatives for the two other companies appearing last night said they already have existing facilities in unincorporated Cook County where vehicles could be held.

Shopping center lights to dim earlier

The lights will be going out earlier at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center soon.

In the wake of growing national fears of an imminent energy crisis, members of the shopping center association yesterday agreed to take steps to curb energy consumption at the center located on Kirchoff Road east of Ill. Rte. 53.

Phyllis Peszek, publicity director for the association, said yesterday lights at the shopping center mall, including Christmas lighting, will be turned off earlier this year. Lights will be going out at 10 p.m. instead of the traditional midnight hour.

"Most stores on their own accord will be cutting down on inside and outside lighting," Mrs. Peszek said. "Outside lights, like the sign identification lights, will be going off earlier and some of the parking lot lights will be turned off."

She said merchants will be eliminating all unnecessary lights that are not needed for night security purposes.

"The members were definitely interested in the energy situation," Mrs. Peszek said of the meeting Wednesday. "They were all concerned about the problem and were willing to do something collectively."

She said heating will be lowered in most stores as well as the merchants agreed to take that step also to conserve energy. She added signs will likely be posted in stores advising customers of the new policies on light and heat reductions.

Businessmen's exercise

Businessmen in Rolling Meadows may take advantage of a noon-hour exercise program at the Rolling Meadows sports complex.

The program is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce on Mondays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. to noon and on Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Exercise and basketball games are organized during the hours, Chamber Director Harry O'Brien said.

Any businessman may attend the sessions.

HUNTING SEASON IS open and sportsmen are in nearby fields daily after the elusive pheasant. But week-end hunting is heaviest and the extra caution that should always be used with guns is emphasized.

Community Chest drive nearing $9,020 target

The Community Chest drive in Rolling Meadows is nearing its goal of $9,020.

As of yesterday, the campaign has netted $7,370 in donations, campaign treasurer Frank Catini said. The total is only about $1,650 short of the city goal, and Catini said campaign directors are confident of reaching the goal soon.

Catini said the campaign's directors met last week to discuss the drive's progress and agreed the campaign "is going well."

"We're very close to our goal," he said. "We also have received a pledge from Dist. 214 of about $1,200 that their employees have raised, and that will bring us very close to our goal."

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE still being solicited from the city's business community as well, he added. "We should hit our goal," he said. "We're very confident."

The drive's theme this year is "A Dollar A Month" to urge residents to contribute an average of $12. Last year $8,300 was collected from primarily homeowners as well as businesses and industry in the city.

The campaign is held each year in conjunction with the Chicago Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Local contributions may be sent to the Rolling Meadows Community Chest, P.O. Box 3500, Rolling Meadows, 60008. Funds collected locally are distributed to the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Clearbrook Center, the Northwest Mental Health Association, the USO, the Salvation Army, and the Family Services branch of the Salvation Army.

Directors for the Rolling Meadows campaign this year are Jim Zaloudek, president; Elaine Werling, executive vice president and campaign chairman; Frank Carroll, industrial campaign chairman; Al Carlson, vice president; Catini, treasurer; Billy McHinn, business campaign chairman; Carmen Vincenzo, publicity chairman; and Deane Wandersee, secretary.

Shop center unit selects officers

New officers have been elected to direct the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center Association in 1974.

They are Eric Holliday, president, from Radio Shack; Jerry Meylek, vice president, from the Rolling Meadows Drug Store; Doug MacNiff, treasurer, from the Bank of Rolling Meadows; and directors Stan Herman from Jeans and Jeans; Herb Baldwin from Northwest Suburban Office Supplies; Hildon Hancy from Crawford's; and Paul Geddis from Baird and Warner.

The new officers will be installed at the association's Jan. 9, 1974 meeting.

Car stickers, dog licenses available

Vehicle stickers and dog licenses are now available at the Rolling Meadows City Hall, but the tags may not be displayed until Dec. 1.

The 1974 stickers will cost $3 until Feb. 15 after which the price will increase to $3. Dog licenses may be purchased for $3.

Stickers for trucks are also available, with the price of the sticker determined by the size and license classification of the truck.

HOW ABOUT A HORSE??? Mrs. Eleanor Wolf, an advocate of public transportation, was late getting to a city council meeting in Rolling Meadows where she had been invited to speak on the proposed regional transit authority. Mrs. Wolf told the council she got tied up in traffic on the way from Springfield, at which point Ald. Thomas Scanlan (1st) quipped "you should have taken a bus!"

ders, either one or two pay bus routes will start at Jonas E. Salk School, 3705 Pheasant Dr., Rolling Meadows. One pay bus route was approved for Lincoln School.

The board also agreed to start a bus route for Virginia Lake School, 825 N. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine, if 40 students are willing to pay for transportation, drivers are found and a bus is available. Transportation will start as soon as drivers are available.

The pay transportation was established after the transportation committee of the school board took a survey of the number of children who would be signed up for pay transportation if it were available.

Winston Park has 72 future bus riders; Jonas Salk had 68 and Lincoln had 23.

The survey was made after several parents at each school had requested transportation for their youngsters.

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile.

An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 26.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Herman, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "blistering" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

Girl's condition still 'critical' from gas fumes

Holly Hansen, 19, remained in critical condition last night at Northwest Community Hospital, after she and members of her family apparently inhaled toxic fumes believed to be monoxide poisoning.

Other family members hospitalized include parents Richard and Lois, in fair condition; Laurie, 14, in serious condition; Richard Jr., 12, in serious but improved condition, and Wendy, 18, in good condition.

All members of the Hansen family were found unconscious Wednesday afternoon in their home at 510 S. Cleveland Ave. Arlington Heights police said that Wendy regained consciousness for a short time to telephone police.

The police department is conducting an investigation to determine the origin of the fumes.

Two men charged for recent rapes of local women

Cook County Sheriff's Police have charged a Des Plaines man and a Hoffman Estates man in connection with the recent rapes of two local women.

The suspects were identified as Robert Hinton, 24, of 1031 Linda Ln., Des Plaines and Harry Houck, 25, of 394 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates.

According to Lt. Howard Vanick, Hinton is charged with raping a Maine Township woman Oct. 20 after forcing his way into her apartment while she slept.

Hinton was nabbed near Des Plaines Wednesday night by investigators answering the call of a woman who told them of a "peeping tom" near her home.

Vanick said investigators had been suspicious of both men through composite sketches made from victims' descriptions given police.

HOUCK, ARRESTED at his apartment late Wednesday, is charged with the Nov. 9 rape of an Alexian Brothers Medical Center nurse. Police said Houck stopped to assist her after her car broke down. He pretended to take her to a service station, but drove instead to an Elk Grove Village trailer court and raped her.

Police said both men were identified by their victims during separate lineups in the Sheriff's Police Niles Division station late Wednesday.

Hinton was released on $10,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court Nov. 27. Houck is being held in lieu of the same amount pending a Dec. 11 hearing in Niles.

Vanick declined comment on the possibility of the two being involved in other unsolved rapes in the area.

Fences around 3 schools

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board voted to construct fences at three schools upon request of Little League clubs who are using school property for games.

Fences will be built at Plum Grove School, 25 W. Old Plum Grove Rd., Rolling Meadows; Stuart R. Paddock School, 225 W. Washington Ct., Palatine and Plum Grove School, 26 W. Old Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

Chalk, board bids accepted

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board accepted the $5,645 low bid for chalk and tack board at Winston Park and Kimball Hill Schools.

Larson Co. of Chicago will install the boards in six classrooms at Kimball Hill for $2,532. The boards will be installed in 32 classrooms at Winston Park by the same company for $3,113.

Fencing bid accepted

The Palatine Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board accepted the $8,621.63 low bid for fencing at Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The fencing, constructed by Guardfence of Schaumburg, will serve as security for the 60 buses parked in the back parking lot of the school.

No bids on the construction of outdoor recreation facilities were received. The district is planning to build a football field, a baseball field and a track on the school lot.

It was reported that no bids were received because of the time limitation. Construction companies are still working on projects begun last year that were delayed because of bad weather. Bids will be retaken early next spring.

Minibike rider hurt in accident

A 16-year-old Palatine youth was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights Wednesday afternoon after the minibike he was riding hit a stopped auto.

The youth was riding the minibike on the sidewalk in the 900 block of Saratoga Drive when the accident occurred. Another youth, 17-year-old Scott Peotter, told police he was backing his auto out of the driveway at 956 Saratoga Dr. when bystanders yelled for him to stop to avoid hitting the approaching minibike rider.

Peotter said he stopped his car across the sidewalk. The minibike rider was reportedly unable to stop the bike before colliding with Peotter's car.

Over gift certificates from chemical firm

Township highway boss Wilkening resigns post

by NANCY COWGER

Ralph Wilkening resigned yesterday from his office as Schaumburg Township Highway Commissioner after a 2½-hour conference with representatives of Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey.

Wilkening has been accused by the Better Government Association, and has admitted the charges publicly, of accepting $373 in gift certificates from Royal Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mo., with whom Wilkening placed orders for $4,000 in supplies for the township.

The resignation was hand-delivered yesterday to Township Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein, said Wilkening's attorney, John Bickley.

Bickley also indicated Wilkening may be permitted to testify for Carey's office if the chemical companies are prosecuted. Legal action by the state's attorney against the firms appears to be "in a hiatus at the present time," he said.

HOWEVER, "I offered Mr. Wilkening's cooperation to the state's attorney's office, and it was indicated they would accept this cooperation," Bickley said.

Ralph Wilkening

BICKLEY BELIEVES the "main thrust" of Carey's investigation will bear on the companies which provided highway commissioners with gratuities in the form of appliances, sports equipment and gift certificates, allegedly in return for government orders.

Wilkening resigned because he was "mindful of his party's resolution (urging his resignation) and wanting to insure the credibility of his office with regard to the citizens of Schaumburg township."

Wilkening was supported in reelection campaigns for the office, which he held for 12 years, by the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST).

BICKLEY SAID Wilkening "cooperated fully" and "answered all questions" from the state's attorneys about township practices, his own office and the chemical firms with which he placed orders.

"He pointed out that he never solicited any type of reward, that any gift certificates, which were minimal in nature, or other advertising gimmicks furnished by the companies were done without solicitation," said Bickley.

The gifts amounted to five certificates, not exceeding a total of $375, and were mailed to Wilkening over a period of about 18 months, said Bickley. They "were not solicited, nor were there pay in return for any orders," said the lawyer.

Bickley also noted Wilkening was not offered immunity by the state's attorneys, and did not ask for any special consideration in return for his cooperation.

National GOP officials also censured

Local GOP urged Wilkening quit

Ralph Wilkening's resignation yesterday came after he was urged by local Republicans to leave his Schaumburg Township road commissioner's office because he had admitted accepting gifts from chemical suppliers.

The suggestion that Wilkening resign was among three resolutions approved this week by the central committee of Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) dealing with corruption on the local and national level. The Watergate scandal prompted the statement to national GOP officials.

Also censured by the local committee were the Committee to Reelect President Nixon, members of the White House staff and Royal Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mo., the firm alleged to have given Wilkening the gifts.

The Wilkening resolution cites past statements by ROOST that it is responsible to the public for actions of candidates it states and elects to office. "The acceptance by public officials of gratuities from companies or persons with whom they do public business is unacceptable, however small the gratuities may be," the committee stated.

COMMITTEEMAN Donald L. Totten, state representative for the Third District, said most committee members believed Wilkening's intent was innocent of bribe allegations, but felt the organization could not condone his accepting gifts from chemical suppliers. "Ralph must therefore be called upon to resign," Totten said.

Totten also noted that the Wilkening resolution can be called "a pressure tactic" by "the people who were instrumental" in Wilkening's election.

"But it can have no official public force, since ROOST is a political, not a public body," said Totten.

ROOST "CONDEMNED" Royal in another resolution offered by committee member William Catlin. Royal's "illegal activities should not get off scott-free while the government officials take the brunt of criticism. They're just as open to criticism," said Catlin.

Although the committee did not disclose voting totals on the other resolutions, all 34 committee members present for the Sunday meeting voted in favor of the condemnation of Royal.

Citing "deceitful campaign practices at the national level," the central committee "expresses disapproval of all persons having engaged in illegal campaign activities" in its third resolution.

The resolution named "a small group of people on the White House staff and within the Committee to Reelect the President" as having participated in the illegal activities. It noted local party organizations were not aware of and had not been consulted on the Presidential campaign activities. But local GOPs will "bear major responsibility for repairing the political damage," it said.

THE COMMITTEE called for renewed importance of local organizations in forming party thought and practices.

Glenn Hoffmann, deputy committeeman, offered the Watergate resolution, and noted "debate was rather spirited." The committee made several language changes before approving it, because of "concern the public would misread our support for the President," he said.

The committee does support Nixon, Hoffman said, but questioned the behavior of men close to the President.

"Some of us felt that there had been a good deal of stupid advice and action given and taken in this whole situation, and all of us wished to raise a cry to our national leaders to please consider our problems at the grass roots before going off the deep end again. We're the ones who suffer when the big shots make mistakes," Hoffman said. He termed the President's advisors "politically astute."

Hoffman referred to Nixon's record in international politics, and said he has handled the economy "tolerably well."

Christian Scientist speaker

Drug abuse can be healed through finding one's highest selfhood, Thomas O. Poyser, Christian Science Board of Lectureship member, will tell an audience in Schaumburg, Nov. 25.

Poyser will speak at 3 p.m. at Helen Keller Junior High School, 820 W. Bode Rd., on the problem of drug addiction.

Mrs. Elaine Howe, second reader of the Christian Science Society of Schaumburg, will introduce the lecturer. The program was coordinated by Mrs. Florence Fuller.

Poyser, holds a degree in engineering from the University of Michigan.

School renovation, buildings referendum set for February

A Feb. 16 multi-million referendum faces Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 voters.

At press time last night, only the referendum date was certain. Board of education members were expected to act on a building and sites committee recommendation to call for a one-question, $16 million referendum.

Board members reportedly are undecided on the referendum total and whether it should be one question or split into three.

The five-year plan recommended by the building and sites committee includes renovation of eight older schools, a building program to handle increased enrollment and construction of an administration center and a nature center building.

During committee meetings, change-over Blackhawk School to an administration center instead of construction of a $700,000 facility was discussed.

The five-year building program cites the need for an additional 162 elementary classrooms, and a fifth junior high school. Renovation of the older schools built in the 1950s is approximately $3 million of the total referendum package.

HUNTING SEASON IS open and sportsmen are in nearby fields daily after the elusive pheasant. But weekend hunting is heaviest and the extra caution that should always be used with guns is emphasized.

School board appoints woman to fill vacancy

Jean Sisler, consultant on youth for the Bridge Youth Service Bureau in Palatine, was appointed to the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education last night.

Mrs. Sisler, 921 S. Mallard Dr., Palatine, will complete the term of board member Paul Hughes, who resigned because of poor health last month. The term expires in April. She was chosen from eight candidates who applied for the board and were interviewed by board members Saturday.

In commenting on the appointment, which was approved unanimously, board president Robert Creek said Mrs. Sisler "comes with outstanding credentials."

MRS. SISLER practiced law in California for 17 years before moving to Illinois in July, 1970. Her practice included juvenile law, family law, private law and neighborhood legal services. She received her law degree from the University of California at Los Angeles, where she also earned a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Since September, 1971, Mrs. Sisler has been employed by the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago, as a consultant to the Bridge. She is also on the board of directors for Shelter Inc., a not-for-profit agency now forming in the Northwest suburbs to provide shelter care for neglected and abused children. She is on the board of elders at the Presbyterian Church in Palatine and on its community action and day care center committee.

Mrs. Sisler said last week "I'm very interested in young people, and have had the opportunity to be involved with many young people." She said she would "try to understand the needs of young people in the school system and serve the best interests of the community."

MRS. SISLER and her husband, Peter, an assistant manager of product sales in an oil company, have three daughters, including two who graduated recently from Fremd High School in Palatine. She is a member of the Fremd High School Boosters Club, the Hunting Ridge Homeowners' Association and the Art Institute of Chicago.

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile.

An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign-relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 28.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Horman, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "bilateral" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI Sr., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

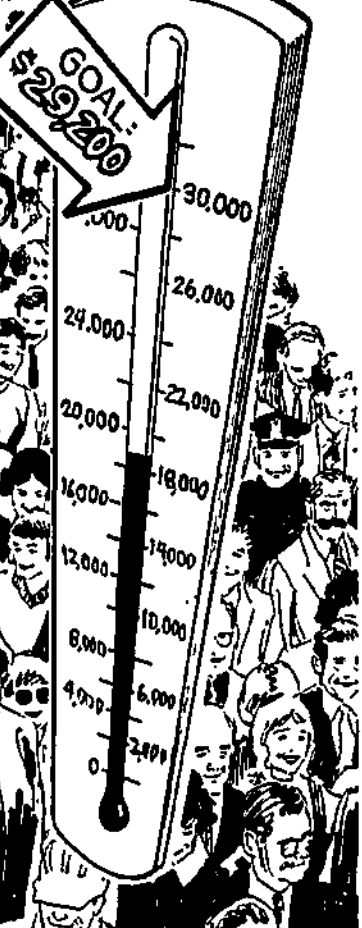

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

MT. PROSPECT CRUSADE OF MERCY

"People Helping People"

Combined Appeal drive at 64%

The Mount Prospect Combined Appeal drive is nearly two-thirds of the way toward its $29,200 goal.

Harold J. Predovich, president of the combined appeal, announced yesterday that contributions now total $18,629, representing 64 per cent of the goal.

The sum was given a sizable boost by a $1,200 donation from the Mount Prospect State Bank and a $1,700 donation from employees of High School Dist. 124.

Meanwhile, contributions from residents continued to stream in. Mount Prospect residents have provided $8,027 and Prospect Heights residents have chipped in $1,364.

The typical Prospect Heights donation is $11, slightly topping the average Mount Prospect contribution of $10.

The Mount Prospect residential donations are well on their way toward meeting the $12,500 goal, at 67 per cent.

The Prospect Heights' total of $1,364 represents 39 per cent of the $3,500 goal for that category.

IN OTHER categories, Predovich said he was especially disappointed with the money contributed by professionals, who so far have given $442, or 38 per cent of the $1,150 goal.

In other categories: Business-retail, $1,195, for 58 per cent of the $2,050 goal; financial institutions, $1,200, or 39 per cent of the $3,050 goal; advance gifts, $4,188, or 99 per cent of the $4,200 goal; municipal, $198, or 26 per cent of the $750 goal; and schools, $1,700, or 68 per cent of the $2,500 goal.

Carousel Beauty Salon INTRODUCES

Helen Curtis' NEW "UniPerm"

The "No Guess Work", No Mistake Permanent Wave Called UniPerm, it replaces guesswork perming with an automatic curling process. At the same time, the system provides an automatic conditioning treatment. In addition to incorporating formulas that are far milder than the currently-used cold waves, it actually puts extra conditioners into the hair. These automated processes eliminate virtually all of the potential post-perm problems, including an over-cured or over-permed look, uneven curl, curl relaxation, dryness, dullness, and poor condition.

Lil Floros

Hazel MacKenzie, Prospect High School's foreign exchange student from Barbados during the school year 1969-70, is in town. She is now Mrs. Springer and has a two-year-old son, Richard, who is traveling with her during the three-week visit. Hazel lived with the Ralph Byers, 102 S. Brighton, Arlington Heights, during her AFS year here. She is currently staying with the Ken Dorsch family, 109 N. Emerson. She leaves for home on Monday.

BERTIE (Mrs. Paul J.) Sellinger, 1103 Sycamore Ln., who teaches food courses in the Maine Oatton Niles Adult Continuing Education Program, traveled to Pittsburgh a week ago to do a bread making demonstration at Horne's Department Store there. CBS television station KDKA taped her performance for their evening "News with Marie Torre."

NOVEMBER 13 Retarded Children's Month — and one of the local organizations whose philanthropic gifts go exclusively to retarded children is the Mount Prospect Grandmother's Club. Outgoing president Evelyn Lausche, 816 S. 31st, grandmother of eight, explained that the group has card parties to raise the needed money.

"We have only 42 members," said Evelyn. "But, nevertheless, we manage to raise $100 each year to be divided between Country Side Center, Kirk Center and Dixon School." The money is then spent for Christmas gifts for the children.

Art prints available for loan from library

Nineteen new art prints have been added to the Mount Prospect Public Library's collection, bringing the total prints available to 76. All prints can be borrowed from the library, 14 E. Busse Ave., for four weeks at a cost of $1.

The new prints, for which waiting lists have not yet developed, include reproductions of paintings by Henri Toulouse-Lautrec, Camille Pissarro, Pablo Picasso, Claude Monet, Henri Matisse, Winslow Homer and Paul Cezanne.

Librarian Mary Jo Hutchings also reminds library patrons that there are eight sculptures that can be borrowed up to four weeks for $1 each. She suggested the sculptures or art prints might help brighten a house during the upcoming Christmas visiting season.

Bobby Riggs book now at the library

Bobby Riggs' "Court Hustler" and Allen Drury's new novel, "Come Ninevah, Come Tyre," highlight the Mount Prospect Public Library's newest acquisitions. The library is at 14 E. Busse Ave., Mount Prospect.

Other nonfiction books on interest include: "The Early Window: Effects of Television on Children and Youth" by Robert M. Liebert; "Aging in America" by Bert K. Smith; "Sue the Bastards: The Victim's Handbook" by Douglas Matthews; "The Art of Walt Disney" by Christopher Finch; "Over the Hill To the Super Bowl" by Brig Owens; "Kesey's Garage Sale" by Ken Kesey, and "Upstairs At the White House" by J. B. West.

New fiction includes: "Do With Me What You Will" by Joyce Carol Oates; "The First Deadly Sin" by Lawrence Sanders; "The Doctor's Private Life" by Elizabeth Seifert; "The Mannings" by Fred Mustard Stewart, and "Theophilus Nod" by Thornton Wilder.

PTA notes

Eucled School PTA, Dist. 26, Mount Prospect, will have a book fair next Monday and Tuesday in the school library. The sale will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. each day.

Books available are intended for preschool through sixth grade children.

The school is located at 1211 Wheeling Rd., Mount Prospect.

Mexican 'luminaria' to light village during Yule season

Two groups in Mount Prospect are organizing similar but unrelated projects to assure that the village will have a bright Christmas, energy shortages notwithstanding.

The old Mexican custom "Luminaria" is being started locally by Boy Scout Troop 235 of St. Emily's Church's Scout Name Society and the Mount Prospect Junior Women's Club.

"Luminaria," or "little fires," are used symbolically to light the way for Christ on Christmas eve.

Luminaria kits, containing paper bags, sand and vigil candles, are being sold by the two groups. The custom involves placing the candles five to six feet apart on walkways and driveways.

The scout troop is concentrating its efforts on St. Emily's parish area, bounded by Euclid Avenue on the north, Golf Road on the south, the Tri-State Tollway on the east and generally Elmhurst Road on the west.

The Boy Scout kits include 24 candles for $3.50 and are available through the scouts or the scout leader, Richard Holzkopf, 298-1985.

Local girl to play in youth symphony

Carolyn Toll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Vern Toll, 303 N. Eastwood Ave., Mount Prospect, will participate in the annual Thanksgiving concert of the Youth Symphony Orchestra of Greater Chicago. Miss Toll, a violinist, attends Prospect High School.

Girl Scout garage, candle sale slated

Girl Scout Cadet Troop 481 will sponsor a garage and candle sale this weekend.

The sale will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday at 1817 Buckhorn Dr., Mount Prospect. Babysitting will be provided.

Proceeds will go toward troop activities.

Another battle in annex dispute with Des Plaines

by STEVE BROWN
The legal jousting between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines over annexation of the last few scraps of unincorporated land along Elmhurst Road has taken another tack.
Des Plaines city officials will decide Monday whether to submit involuntary annexation petitions for several parcels of land near the intersection of Elmhurst and Algonquin roads.
The land includes property now occupied by the Waterfall Restaurant and several apartment complexes. Des Plaines has already filed annexation petitions for the property in late August, but Mount Prospect filed a lawsuit objecting to the move.
In the meantime, Mount Prospect officials annexed several properties on the southwest corner of the controversial intersection. The move has paved the way for the latest Des Plaines action.
IF NOW APPEARS Des Plaines will withdraw its initial voluntary annexation petitions and file for involuntary annexation of the land. Because the property is now surrounded by incorporated municipalities, Des Plaines, can annex the land without the owners' consent.
Des Plaines corporation counsel Robert DiLeonardi declined to comment on the latest move. Earlier this week, he received a continuance in the law suit filed against the city by Mount Prospect over the August annexation attempt.
However, Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert said yesterday he did not feel any change in strategy by Des Plaines would alter Mount Prospect's position in the courts.
"We feel their annexation was faulty and we will probably continue to take that approach," Teichert said.
OFFICIALS IN BOTH towns have criticized each other for land grabbing and poor planning along the Elmhurst Road battle front.
The Des Plaines city council will also make a decision Monday on an appeal of a Cook County Circuit Court decision on another annexation decision in that area.
The court ruled against Des Plaines and stated Mount Prospect could annex property known as the Dawn Fresh Mushroom Farm at Elmhurst Road and Thacker Street.
Although Des Plaines had filed their annexation petition before Mount Prospect, the judge ruled the city's request was not complete.
Mayor Herbert Behrel said recently he will recommend the city council direct DiLeonardi to appeal the case.
"I don't understand how the judge could make such a ruling based on a technicality," Behrel said.
THERE ALSO HAS been speculation that there will be renewed negotiations over the possible annexation of the Waycinden Park area on the city's southwest side.
Residents in that area are protesting a hefty proposed water rate increase being pushed by the Citizens' Utility Company.
Earlier negotiations over the annexation question were stalled because no agreeable solution could be reached between the city and the utility company, which also serves Mount Prospect, over the purchase of the water and sewer system in the neighborhood.

STORIES IN SONG AND DANCE were part of an American Indian cultural program presented Wednesday at Eisenhower School, Dist. 23, Prospect Heights. Three dancers performed several interpretations of authentic American Indian dances, sang songs and taught the children phrases in American Indian sign language.

Seniors notch 13th birthday

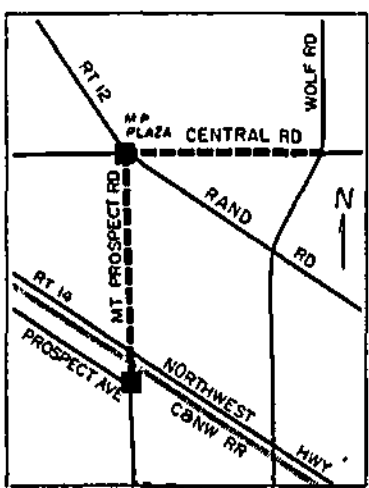

The senior citizens club of the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club is observing its 13th anniversary.
The club was the first formed in Mount Prospect to serve the elderly. It meets at 7:30 p.m. on the third Monday of each month from September to May at the Mount Prospect Community Center.
This month's meeting, on Nov. 19, will pay tribute to charter members, past chairwomen, and the guests of honor, Mrs. William Gastineau, president of the Junior Women's Club, and Mrs. Kathleen Stoga, program coordinator of the Mount Prospect Senior Citizens Advisory Council.

Mrs. Jack Anderson will present the program, which will include a performance by the Arlingtoners singing group.
Tickets will be available at the meeting for the group's Christmas party and dinner Dec. 17 at the Camelot restaurant, 1730 S. Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines. Cocktails will be available at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:15. Tickets are $4.50 a person.

Southeast section of village earmarked for road repairs

Main thoroughfares in southeast Mount Prospect, near Des Plaines, dominate Mount Prospect's plans for road upgrading.
Work has already begun on the intersection of Mount Prospect Road and Prospect Avenue, and Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said the village will attempt to obtain federal funds for three other projects in the same general area.
He characterized the projects, which mainly affect Mount Prospect and Central roads, as "needed for years."
"It's just a matter of trying to get some extra funds. We think there's some money available (through federal agencies) and we want to get our bid in."
According to Eppley, the high priority projects include:
• Widening Central Road from Rand Road to Wolf Road.
• Widening Mount Prospect Road from Central Road to Northwest Highway, and installing curbs and gutters and eliminating the ditch along the side of the road.
• Improving the intersection of Rand, Central and Mount Prospect roads. State approval is being sought for better signalization.

The present project, being undertaken by the village's public works department, involves adding a right-turn lane to Prospect Avenue where it meets Mount Prospect road.

TWO KEY ROADS slated for repairs lie near the Mount Prospect-Des Plaines border. They are Mount Prospect Road, from Prospect Avenue to Central Road, and Central Road, east of there to Wolf Road. Two intersections in the area also are to be improved.

Technicality denies teen use of special library books

by TOM VON MALDER
A handicapped Mount Prospect teenager has been denied access to special library materials because her handicap does not fit the definitions of the law.
The girl has a hearing defect and a speech problem, yet cannot use the "talking books" because she is neither blind nor physically unable to turn a book's pages.

Mount Prospect Librarian Mary Jo Hutchings said she and her staff have been trying since April to get the talking books for the girl. A talking book is a recording to which a blind or handicapped person listens, hearing the same book an ordinary library patron would read.
"Mrs. Hutchings said, 'She can turn pages.'"

HOWEVER, the girl's doctor thinks the talking books would be "a way of helping her to learn to speak," Mrs. Hutchings said. The books are recited slowly and distinctly.
"I resent it as a librarian," Mrs. Hutchings said. "If you choose to take out a book, I have no right to ask you what you're going to do with it. Our first prerequisite is to serve the people."
What licenses the librarian is that the talking books are seldom used and thus the Mount Prospect girl's use of them would not be depriving a blind person or one who cannot turn pages.

MRS. HUTCHINGS said a check with the Gall Borden Public Library in Elgin, the subregional library for talking books in the Chicago area, showed that with a total of 3,000 to 3,500 books, monthly circulation figures have never exceeded 700.
"It seems so perfectly ridiculous," she said. "If there were 10,000 people waiting for the books, I could understand it. Her family's taxes have helped pay for the books."
The fight to get the girl access to the talking books has been carried to almost every available source. The result has been no access and a feeling the law will have to be changed first.

MRS. HUTCHINGS has contacted the Library of Congress, which administers the talking book program, and has talked with Sen. Charles Percy's and Sen. Adlai Stevenson's local offices.
Mrs. M. J. Gapp, staff assistant and secretary to Stevenson, said yesterday she has been getting opinions on what can be done. "We will do our best to find some solution," she said. "It seems to be the consensus of the opinions we have received that the law will have to be changed."

Agreeing, Mrs. Hutchings said, "Change the law." Meanwhile though, she confessed, "For the first time in 30 years, I am ashamed to be a librarian."

Zoners reject proposal for Golf Road condos

The Mount Prospect Zoning Board of Appeals turned thumbs down last night on a proposed 45-unit condominium project on Golf Road, west of Busse Road.
The board voted 5-1, with only chairman Carolyn Krause dissenting, to recommend that the village board deny the request submitted by L&D Builders, Des Plaines, to rezone the 2 1/4-acre parcel.
Some 35 residents, mostly from the nearby Mount Shire subdivision, were on hand to oppose the project, and several of the residents voiced their feelings.
Edward B. Rhea, Jr., president of the Mount Shire Homeowners Association, who lives just south of the condominium site, expressed fear that a rezoning of the narrow piece of property would prompt a domino effect on surrounding lots.
"With a little imagination, you can envision what Golf Road will look like five to 10 years from now," he said.
Another resident, Michael Fanizza, 807 S. Deborah Ct., said flatly: "I don't want this and it's not what I moved to Mount Prospect for."
FANIZZA AND other residents said they were concerned that any building on the L&D property would worsen drainage in the area.

"Right now I'm under 18 inches of water," said one adjacent property owner. If the condominium project is given the go ahead, he said, "I'll be under five feet of water."
Robert DiLeonardi, attorney for the developer, said sewer and water facilities in the area are "very adequate."
He added that he could sympathize with homeowners who oppose multifamily buildings nearby, but said: "I think we're entitled to some consideration in the reasonable use of our land." The present single-family zoning, he said, is "unreasonably restrictive."
DiLeonardi described Golf Road and the general vicinity of the L&D property as in "such a state of transition that property along that stretch is no longer suitable for single-family."
The proposed development would consist of a single three-story building, 32 feet tall, containing 30 two-bedroom units and 15 one-bedroom units. Though the building would front on Golf Road, access would be limited to Grove Drive, behind the building.

Senate group to probe deaths in Chile

by STEVE BROWN

A U. S. Senate subcommittee will hold hearings in January into the deaths of American citizens, including a Des Plaines man, during the September coup d'etat in Chile. An aide to U. S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., said McGee's foreign relations subcommittee on Latin American Affairs will investigate the circumstances of the deaths of Frank Teruggi Jr. and another American citizen who were killed during the military overthrow of Marxist president Salvador Allende.

McGee's committee already has held several closed committee hearings into various aspects of the Chilean situation. Representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency will be questioned by the subcommittee on Nov. 28.

McGee's aide, Richard McCall, said the subcommittee members

"have shown considerable interest in the circumstances that led to the deaths of Teruggi and Charles E. Horman, a New York film-maker."

McCALL SAID several U. S. State Department officials underwent "blistering" questioning during a recent subcommittee executive session.

"There were many unanswered questions which the senators would like to see cleared up," McCall said. Former U. S. Ambassador to Chile, Nathaniel Davis, was one of the witnesses to appear before the executive session.

McCall also indicated there will be hearings on the Chilean overthrow by a committee of the U. S. House.

FRANK TERUGGI SR., the young man's father, told the Herald recently that he has not received any detailed explanation regarding the circumstances of his son's death.

The state department sent a chronological report detailing information that the family already knew.

"There was no new information there, I would like to know why the State Department did not act to protect the U. S. citizens who were there," Teruggi said.

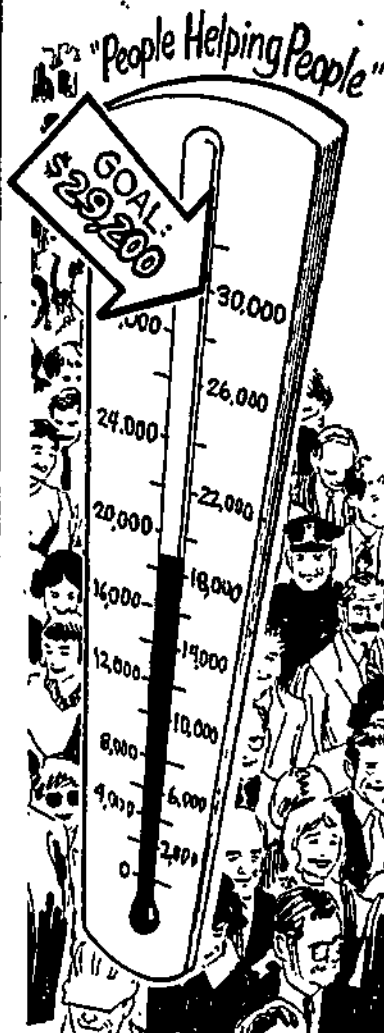

McCall said the Senate subcommittee hopes to gain more information regarding the Teruggi death.

"We would also like to know why there were no contingency plans set up to aid U. S. citizens," McCall said.

THE TERUGGI family was informed of their son's death on Oct. 3, more than 10 days after the young man had last been seen by friends.

While an autopsy report indicates Teruggi was shot at least 17 times, Chilean officials deny he was executed. Military leaders claim Teruggi was taken into custody for a curfew violation, but released one day later on Sept. 21.

MT. PROSPECT CRUSADE OF MERCY

Combined Appeal drive at 64%

The Mount Prospect Combined Appeal drive is nearly two-thirds of the way toward its $29,200 goal.

Harold J. Predovich, president of the combined appeal, announced yesterday that contributions now total $18,629, representing 64 per cent of the goal.

The sum was given a sizable boost by a $1,200 donation from the Mount Prospect State Bank and a $1,700 donation from employees of High School Dist. 124.

Meanwhile, contributions from residents continued to stream in. Mount Prospect residents have provided $8,027 and Prospect Heights residents have chipped in $1,364.

The typical Prospect Heights donation is $11, slightly topping the average Mount Prospect contribution of $10.

The Mount Prospect residential donations are well on their way toward meeting the $12,500 goal, at 67 per cent.

The Prospect Heights' total of $1,364 represents 39 per cent of the $3,500 goal for that category.

IN OTHER categories, Predovich said he was especially disappointed with the money contributed by professionals, who so far have given $442, or 38 per cent of the $1,150 goal.

In other categories: Business-retail, $1,195, for 58 per cent of the $2,050 goal; financial institutions, $1,200, or 39 per cent of the $3,050 goal; advance gifts, $4,188, or 99 per cent of the $4,200 goal; municipal, $198, or 26 per cent of the $750 goal; and schools, $1,700, or 68 per cent of the $2,500 goal.

Lil Floros

Hazel MacKenzie, Prospect High School's foreign exchange student from Barbados during the school year 1969-70, is in town. She's now Mrs. Springer and has a two-year-old son, Richard, who is traveling with her during the three-week visit. Hazel lived with the Ralph Byers, 102 S. Brighton, Arlington Heights, during her AFS year here. She is currently staying with the Ken Dorsch family, 100 N. Emerson. She leaves for home on Monday.

BERTIE (Mrs. Paul J.) Sellinger, 1103 Sycamore Ln., who teaches food courses in the Maine Oakton Niles Adult Continuing Education Program, traveled to Pittsburgh a week ago to do a bread making demonstration at Horne's Department Store there. CBS television station KDKA taped her performance for their evening "News with Marie Torre."

NOVEMBER 19 Retarded Children's Month — and one of the local organizations whose philanthropic gifts go exclusively to retarded children is the Mount Prospect Grandmother's Club. Outgoing president Evelyn Lauschke, 516 S. Ill. Lusi, grandmother of eight, explained that the group has card parties to raise the needed money.

"We have only 42 members," said Evelyn. "But, nevertheless, we manage to raise $100 each year to be divided between Countryside Center, Kirk Center and Dixon School." The money is then spent for Christmas gifts for the children.

Art prints available for loan from library

Nineteen new art prints have been added to the Mount Prospect Public Library's collection, bringing the total prints available to 78. All prints can be borrowed from the library, 14 E. Busse Ave., for four weeks at a cost of $1.

The new prints, for which waiting lists have not yet developed, include reproductions of paintings by Henri Toulouse-Lautrec, Camille Pissarro, Pablo Picasso, Claude Monet, Henri Matisse, Winslow Homer and Paul Cezanne.

Librarian Mary Jo Hutchings also reminds library patrons that there are eight sculptures that can be borrowed up to four weeks for $1 each. She suggested the sculptures or art prints might help brighten a house during the upcoming Christmas visiting season.

Bobby Riggs book now at the library

Bobby Riggs' "Court Hustler" and Allen Drury's new novel, "Come Ninevah, Come Tyre," highlight the Mount Prospect Public Library's newest acquisitions. The library is at 14 E. Busse Ave., Mount Prospect.

Other nonfiction books on interest include: "The Early Window: Effects of Television On Children and Youth" by Robert M. Liebert; "Aging in America" by Bert K. Smith; "Sue the Bastards: The Victim's Handbook" by Douglas Matthews; "The Art of Walt Disney" by Christopher Finch; "Over the Hill To the Super Bowl" by Brig Owens; "Kesey's Garage Sale" by Ken Kesey, and "Upstairs At the White House" by J. B. West.

New fiction includes: "Do With Me What You Will" by Joyce Carol Oates; "The First Deadly Sin" by Lawrence Sanders; "The Doctor's Private Life" by Elizabeth Seltzer; "The Mannings" by Fred Mustard Stewart, and "Theophilus North" by Thornton Wilder.

PTA notes

Euclid School PTA, Dist. 26, Mount Prospect, will have a book fair next Monday and Tuesday in the school library. The sale will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. each day.

Books available are intended for preschool through sixth grade children.

The school is located at 1211 Wheeling Rd., Mount Prospect.

Mexican 'luminaria' to light village during Yule season

Two groups in Mount Prospect are organizing similar but unrelated projects to assure that the village will have a bright Christmas, energy shortages notwithstanding.

"The old Mexican custom 'Luminaria' is being started locally by Boy Scout Troop 235 of St. Emily's Church's Holy Name Society and the Mount Prospect Junior Women's Club.

"Luminaria," or "little fires," are used symbolically to light the way for Christ on Christmas eve.

Luminaria kits, containing paper bags, sand and vigil candles, are being sold by the two groups. The custom involves placing the candles five to six feet apart on walkways and driveways.

The scout troop is concentrating its efforts on St. Emily's parish area, bounded by Euclid Avenue on the north, Golf Road on the south, the Tri-State Tollway on the east and generally Elmhurst Road on the west.

The Boy Scout kits include 24 candles for $3.50 and are available through the scouts or the scout leader, Richard Holzkopf, 298-1985

Local girl to play in youth symphony

Carolyn Toll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Vern Toll, 303 N. Eastwood Ave., Mount Prospect, will participate in the annual Thanksgiving concert of the Youth Symphony Orchestra of Greater Chicago. Miss Toll, a violinist, attends Prospect High School.

Girl Scout garage, candle sale slated

Girl Scout Cadet Troop 481 will sponsor a garage and candle sale this weekend.

The sale will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday at 1817 Buckhorn Dr., Mount Prospect. Babysitting will be provided.

Proceeds will go toward troop activities.

United Fund drive collections near $40,000 mark

The Arlington Heights United Fund campaign is "right on target" as contributions are near the $40,000 mark.

The campaign, which began in September with direct mail solicitation, is aiming at a $75,000 goal. Publicity director Grady McAuley said that progress is "on target and slightly ahead" of money collected at the same time last year.

"Seventy-five thousand dollars is an ambitious goal," McAuley said. "If we can stay on target like that of last year, we can come close to $75,000."

To date, contributions from the education campaign have increased 55 per cent more than last year's figure, McAuley said. Although professional and residential campaigns are progressing as expected, the industry and commercial campaign has generated less money compared to last year's reports.

After a mail campaign in September, volunteers went door-to-door for the effort. Residents who have not yet contributed may either mail their pledges to P.O. Box 363, Arlington Heights or use the new bank authorization forms.

A signed form permits the bank to deduct contributions in any specified amount to the United Fund from the donor's checking account every month. The four participating banks include Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, Northwest Trust and Savings, First Arlington National Bank and the Tollway Arlington National Bank.

A record $66,000 was collected in last year's campaign. However, the figure was $9,000 short of the $75,000 goal, but the difference was made up by the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Arlington Heights United Fund contributes money to a variety of local service organizations including Clearbrook Center, the Northwest Cooperative Community Mental Health Clinic and Northwest Homemakers.

No industry leader seeks low-cost housing: Walsh

If industry leaders want low and moderate-income housing in the suburbs, they must bring their case to local officials, Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh said yesterday.

Corporate presidents and chairmen of the board, no lesser spokesmen, must voice the need for low-cost housing if they are serious about it, and so far none have contacted him, Walsh said.

"During the 12 or 13 years I have been an elected official in the fastest growing community in the State of Illinois, I have never once had a member of industry in my community, or in any other community nearby, come to me with their housing requirements," he told a conference of industry and housing leaders meeting in Chicago.

The executive director of the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., Salvatore Ferrara, later disputed Walsh's statement, saying that Arlington Heights officials received several letters including statements from Honeywell Inc. and Illinois Bell Telephone, supporting low-cost housing proposals.

THE LETTERS, Ferrara told The Herald were written at the time of hearings on MHDC's "Lincoln Green" subsidized housing project which was ultimately rejected by the Arlington Heights Village Board. The project was planned next to St. Vinitor High School.

Walsh later said he has received several letters from industry representatives supporting low and moderate-income housing in the suburbs, but he discounted them as low-level and impersonal.

"I have over a period of time received a few perfunctory letters, not more than a handful, from industry people I may not even know or have never met and consequently cannot be construed as having a strong influence on a political decision," he said.

He could not recall, he said, which companies had written in support of low and moderate-income housing but said he was certain he had never had a personal request.

"If in fact industry does have a housing problem, then it — and by it I mean the president of the company or the chairman of the board, not the personnel director — should come to me, and by me I mean all suburban officials, with their housing problems," he told the conference.

WALSH EXPLAINED that he was not advocating that industry promote low and moderate-income housing, but rather was advising industrial leaders who say they have housing problems to approach suburban officials.

Otherwise, Walsh said, he, as a representative of suburban government, is not willing to go out on "a political limb" to bring low and moderate-income housing to his community.

"As far as I am concerned, being a local elected official, I am not aware there is a housing problem. My constituency hasn't told me," he said.

Walsh said he was invited to address the conference as a representative of suburban government.

Developer submits new proposal

Plan commission to rehear Ivy Hill

Ivy Hill Village, a 315-unit housing development proposed near the Ivy Hill subdivision, will be re-presented to the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, which unanimously rejected the project Nov. 7.

In an extraordinary move, the commission voted 6-4 to rescind its decision in order to consider new plans designed to meet objections to a five-story condominium apartment building that was included in the original layout.

Joseph Ash, attorney for Meister-Neiberg, said the new plans would include only single-family homes and townhouses.

Residents from Ivy Hill and three other neighboring single-family subdivisions testified at the plan commission hearings that they were opposed to anything but single-family homes on the 49-acre site.

"WE'RE GAINING ground but very slowly," said Marcela Troch, president of the Ivy Hill Civic Association, when she learned of the revised plans and the plan commission's decision to reconsider the project.

The association's executive board will discuss the plan commission's decision, she said, by added that she personally doubts the association would change its position that only single-family homes should be developed.

"My feeling after the plan commission hearings was that my client (Meister-Neiberg) should check the economics and try to come up with something that the plan commission would approve," Ash explained.

"We hope to give them what we think they want," said Ash.

Details of the new site plan are still being laid out, he said, but no housing will be planned on 14 acres of McDonald Creek flood plain.

MEISTER-NEIBERG had offered to dedicate the 14 acres to the Arlington Heights Park District. But park officials rejected the offer, saying they wanted six acres of buildable land near Camelot Park.

Normally, the plan commission's unanimous recommendation to turn down annexation and rezoning of the property would have been forwarded directly to the village board.

Girl still 'critical' after inhaling fumes

Holly Hansen, 19, remained in critical condition last night at Northwest Community Hospital, after she and members of her family apparently inhaled toxic fumes believed to be monoxide poisoning.

Other family members hospitalized include parents Richard and Lois, in fair condition; Laurie, 14, in serious condition; Richard Jr., 12, in serious but improved condition; and Wendy, 18, in good condition.

All members of the Hansen family were found unconscious Wednesday afternoon in their home at 510 S. Cleveland Ave. Arlington Heights police said that Wendy regained consciousness for a short time to telephone police.

The police department is conducting an investigation to determine the origin of the fumes.

Air samples taken shortly after the family was discovered, showed traces of monoxide poisoning, but not enough to cause sickness, authorities said.

Police said a gas company check revealed that all gas connections were proper and functioning.

The family cat was found dead, and according to Jeri Verden, a toxicologist at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines, where the animal was tested, showed it died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Police also checked for possible gas leakage in the sewer system and a furnace that had repairs last week.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES for the new Buffalo Grove High School are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday. The ceremonies will include speeches and a performance by the Buffalo Grove High School band. The school is located at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

High school dedication, open house set Sunday

High School Dist. 214's eighth school, Buffalo Grove, will be dedicated Sunday in ceremonies beginning at 2 p.m.

The dedication of the high school, which has been in operation since September, will be followed by a public open house and tour of the building. Featured speaker for the dedication will be Lowell Fisher, past chairman of the Illinois committee of the North Central Association, a regional accrediting agency.

Also speaking at the ceremonies will be Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, school board Pres. Gene Artemenko, Principal Clarence Miller, Alden Orput of Orput and Associates Inc., architects of the building, and

The Buffalo Grove band, directed by Robert Rogers, will perform. Rev. Steve Dahl of Kingwood United Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove will offer the invocation.

Buffalo Grove was built to accommodate 2,300 students. This year about 1,365 freshmen, sophomores and juniors from Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove are attending the school.

Buffalo Grove High School has been designed on an "open" plan, with some classrooms without doors and with central "resource rooms" in each academic area. In addition, the school has a large central library, an auditorium, and fieldhouse.

BUFFALO GROVE High School — the sports area is to the left of the main building, the theater is located just behind the main building at the right.

Residents will have a chance to meet the staff and tour the school following Sunday's dedication ceremonies.

Two men charged for recent rapes of two women

Cook County Sheriff's Police have charged a Des Plaines man and a Hoffman Estates man in connection with the recent rapes of two local women.

The suspects were identified as Robert Hinton, 24, of 1631 Linda Ln., Des Plaines and Harry Houck, 25, of 394 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates.

According to Lt. Howard Vanick, Hinton is charged with raping a Mount Prospect woman Oct. 20 after forcing his way into her apartment while she slept.

Hinton was nabbed near Des Plaines Wednesday night by investigators answering the call of a woman who told them of a "peeping tom" near her home.

Vanick said investigators had been suspicious of both men through composite sketches made from victims' descriptions given police.

HOUCK, ARRESTED at his apartment late Wednesday, is charged with the Nov. 9 rape of an Alexian Brothers Medical Center nurse. Police said Houck stopped to assist her after her car broke down. He pretended to take her to a service station, but drove instead to an Elk Grove Village trailer court and raped her.

Police said both men were identified by their victims during separate lineups in the Sheriff's Police Niles Division station late Wednesday.

Hinton was released on $10,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court Nov. 27. Houck is being held in lieu of the same amount pending a Dec. 11 hearing in Niles.

Vanick declined comment on the possibility of the two being involved in other unsolved rapes in the area.

HUNTING SEASON IS open and sportsmen are in nearby fields daily after the elusive pheasant. But week-end hunting is heaviest and the extra caution that should always be used with guns is emphasized.

PTA notes

Berkley School PTA will hold its first fun fair from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday in the multi-purpose room of the school, 2500 N. Chestnut.

Games made especially for the fair including "Bozo Buckets" and "Dragon Pitch" will be featured. Sweatshirts of school colors, green and gold with the Berkley Bobcat emblem, will be sold.

Hot dogs, soft drinks and desserts also will be available.

All parents are invited to a parent enrichment meeting with the social science department of Rand School at 8 p.m. Nov. 27.

Sponsored by the Rand PTA, the program will include an introduction of the social science department staff, a brief view of the curriculum and a slide presentation.

Following the program, parents will be divided into grade level teams for a question and answer session with their children's teachers.

"Aladdin" will be presented by the Coleman Puppet Theater at Olive School PTA's family night Tuesday. There will be two performances, at 7 and at 8 p.m., in the school's multi-purpose room.

Officer Wally Moist of the Arlington Heights Police Department, Youth Division, Ronald Dood of the Arlington Heights Park District and James Monroe of Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 will speak on juvenile delinquency at a Westgate School PTA meeting Tuesday.

The program will begin at 8:15 with a discussion on vandalism and petty larceny, followed by a question-and-answer period.

Adult swim lessons

The Arlington Heights Park District is now taking registration for adult swim lessons and adult swimnastics.

Both classes meet Monday evenings at Olympic Park pool from 7:30 till 8:30 for 10 weeks.

Registration ends Nov. 24. Fee for the lessons is $5, fee for the swimnastics is $10. For more information contact the park district at 593-3282.

That's well done!

The Arlington Heights Fire Department responded yesterday morning to a call at Waynes' Pizzeria, 1818 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Dense smoke filled the building due to pans of meat left in the oven. Firemen used smoke ejectors to clear the smoke. No estimates of damages were made.

MONTHLY NEWS

A message from George Harris,
Your Pharmacist

WE HAVE TALKED ABOUT OURSELVES

In the past issues of our bulletins we have told you mostly about ourselves and the way we operate our store to give you the very best in professional pharmacy.

HOW DO WE FEEL ABOUT YOU?

You, the consumer, are the most important factor in our pharmacy.

1. You are not dependent on us — we are dependent on you.
2. You are not an interruption of our work, but rather the purpose of our work.

3. You confer a favor on us when you come in or call. We are privileged to serve you.
4. You bring us your pharmacy wants and it is our job to fill those wants at the right price, with the right quality at the right time.
5. If we lose you, it is a most costly liability — you as a satisfied customer are our most valuable asset.

HERE IS OUR PLEDGE:

Everyone who works in our pharmacy will always abide by these five ruling factors. We promise that we will be the type of family pharmacy from which you will be proud to buy all your pharmacy needs.

Carousel Beauty Salon INTRODUCES

Helen Curtis' NEW "UniPerm"

The "No Guess Work", No Mistake Permanent Wave
Called UniPerm, it replaces guesswork perming with an automatic curling process. At the same time, the system provides an automatic conditioning treatment. In addition to incorporating formulas that are far milder than the currently-used cold waves, it actually puts extra conditioners into the hair. These automated processes eliminate virtually all of the potential post-perm problems, including an over-curl or over-permed look, uneven curl, curl relaxation, dryness, dullness, and poor condition.

If you earned this
a SCOUT—

WE WANT YOU.

Nobody has got more out of Scouting than the man who earned the Eagle Badge.

But when you think about it, nobody owes more to Scouting, either. Any Eagle Scout will tell you how important Scouting was in shaping his confidence and his character.

If you earned the Eagle Pledge, we want you back in Scouting as a volunteer leader. Nobody is better equipped to lead boys to manhood.

America's manpower begins with BOYPOWER, and nothing builds BOYPOWER like the Scouts.

Will you help?
